Prominent Merchant Suddenly Passed Away

Death of Nathan LeRoy Headley Came In the Midst of An Unusually Active Career.

HAD A WIDE ACQUAINTANCE

Nathan LeRoy Headley, one of our enterprising, hustling and highly esteemed young business men, died at the Adrian Hospital in Phoenixtown at 2.00 a. m. Monday, December 6, 1909, having undergone an operation at that hospital Saturday afternoon. On Tuesday of last week Mr. Headley attended to his business as usual and Wednesday morning he got up not feeling well, but worked around until 8.30 a. m. when he took a chill. Thursday morning he was suffering from pleurisy and peritonitis, with indications of obstructions of the bowels. He did not get any better and Saturday morning the trouble was diagnosed to be obstruction of the bowels. It was decided that an operation was necessary and Mr. Headley was taken to the Adrian Hospital on the 1.05 p. m. trolley car Saturday. The operation was performed that afternoon and he died at the hour stated above. The announcement of his death was keenly felt by a large circle of friends. He had a genial, happy disposition, a pleasant "hello" for everybody, which was the reason he had so many friends.

The body was brought to Hughes & Fleming's undertaking rooms in this place Monday morning, prepared for burial, and taken to his late residence that afternoon.

Nathan Headley was born at Pittston, Pa., April 9, 1876 and was in his 34th year at time of death—just in the prime of life. He first came to Rathmel when about fifteen years old and clerked in the company store at that place. He returned east again and attended school. He came to Reynoldsville in 1898. He went from here to New Kensington and while located in that place he was united in marriage to Miss Blanche Davis, of Reynoldsville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Davis, on May 10, 1900. After living at New Kensington a couple of years they moved to Reynoldsville and five years ago Mr. Headley opened a store in the room at corner of Main and Tenth streets. He was an honest, upright and very energetic business man.

When only thirteen years old he was baptized and united with the Baptist church. Notwithstanding the fact that he was a busy man, he found time to attend to church work. At time of death he was superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday school of Reynoldsville, which meets at 9.45 a. m., and superintendent of a Union Sunday school at Prescotville, which meets in the afternoon. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge, the I. O. O. F. and Protected Home Circle of Reynoldsville. He was not only active in church and lodge, but took considerable interest in politics.

Mr. Headley's parents are both dead. He is survived by his wife and three sons, Russell, Edgar and LeRoy, also three sisters, Mrs. A. L. Keagle, of Rathmel, Mrs. Charles Tompkins and Mrs. E. Kougher, both of Edri, Pa.

Mr. Headley was a kind and loving husband and father and a worthy citizen.

Funeral service will be held in the Baptist church at 2.30 p. m. today, conducted by Dr. A. J. Meek, and interment made in the Reynoldsville cemetery.

JOHN WATSON DEAD.

Bright's Disease Was Cause of Death—Funeral This Afternoon.

At 12.15 p. m. on Monday, December 6, 1909, John Watson died at the home of his son, Alexander Watson, at Soldier. Bright's disease was cause of his death. Mr. Watson was born in Scotland December 14, 1835, and would have been 74 years old the 14th of this month. He came to America in 1888. His wife died at Shawmut, Elk Co., Pa., sixteen years ago. Early in life Mr. Watson united with the Presbyterian church and ever remained a member of that denomination.

Deceased is survived by three sons and two daughters, as follows: John, Jr., of Onedago, Alexander, of Soldier, Mrs. Thomas Clark and Mrs. Thomas Frazier, of Sykesville, and Edward Watson, of California, Pa. Funeral service at 2.00 p. m. to-day at Hotel Watson, Soldier, conducted by Rev. John F. Black, and interment will be made in the Reynoldsville cemetery. Special trolley car will be run from Soldier to the cemetery and return.

Second H. S. Team Defeated.

The second high school team of Reynoldsville was defeated by the DuBois second team at the latter place last Saturday afternoon in, as the Courier says, "a well played game." Score 21 to 0.

For some reason the Courier does not set fair with Reynoldsville when DuBois is interested. November 23rd the DuBois and Reynoldsville high school teams played a game here and the visitors were defeated. Score 5 to 0. The Courier claimed that neither side scored and also stated that it was the old "Indian" foot ball of Reynoldsville that had defeated the DuBois high school boys. On Friday, November 26, the DuBois and Reynoldsville second high school teams played a game in Reynoldsville and the DuBois boys were defeated, score 11 to 0, but the Courier failed to make mention of the game. In the report of Saturday's game the Courier gives the second high school team of that place credit with defeating the high school team of Reynoldsville, which is not a true statement. It was the second high school team of Reynoldsville. Omitting the word "second" makes considerable difference. Be fair, at least, when your teams are defeated.

ESTEEMED LADY DIES

MRS. N. HANAU SUFFERED LONG BEFORE DEATH CAME

Body Was Taken to Philadelphia Monday for Interment Beside a Brother, Joseph Strauss.

Mrs. Sabina Strauss Hanau, an esteemed lady of Reynoldsville, wife of Nathan Hanau, one of our prominent merchants, died at her home on Main street at 5.50 p. m. Thursday, December 2, 1909. Mrs. Hanau had been in poor health almost twenty-five years. Suffered several years with diabetes, but was cured of that and four or five years ago Bright's disease attacked her and that was the immediate cause of her death. August 31st, this year, she returned from a trip to Asbury Park, N. J., a seashore summer resort, and the following day was the last time she was able to go down stairs.

Sabina Strauss was born in Udenheim, Germany, in April, 1852, and was in her 58th year at time of death. In 1876 or 77, she came to Reynoldsville to keep house for her brother, Joseph Strauss, then a merchant in this place, and on the 27th of March, 1879, she was united in marriage to Mr. Hanau.

Mrs. Hanau was a kind hearted woman and in her long residence in Reynoldsville—thirty-two years—she made many warm friends who learned with sorrow of her death.

Monday evening the body was taken to Philadelphia where funeral services were held Tuesday and interment was made in Mt. Sinai cemetery beside her brother, Joseph Strauss, who died fourteen years ago next month.

Postmaster Burns Dumped on Street.

Sunday afternoon Postmaster E. C. Burns was driving a spirited horse down Jackson street when the buggy uncoupled and Mr. Burns was thrown full length on the street on his stomach. The horse jumped, the lines broke and the horse ran away with the front wheels of buggy. At the corner of Jackson and Fourth streets the horse fell on the paved street, trying to make the turn, and slid halfway across the street, but was up and away again before any person could catch it. The horse ran out Fourth street on out to Kline's where dogs ran out at the animal and it turned out the Sandy Valley road and ran to Sandy Valley where it was caught by Postmaster Wells. The horse escaped without injury and a broken shaft and broken lines was the only damage done. Had the lines not broken the horse would not have gotten away from Postmaster Burns.

Life Long Resident of Reynoldsville Is Dead

Samuel Tilton Reynolds Was The Last of an Old Pioneer Family to Pass Hence.

SUFFERED PARALYTIC STROKE

Samuel Tilton Reynolds, one of our well known citizens, died at his home on Grant street at 2.35 p. m. on Friday, December 3rd, 1909. Paralysis was cause of his death. On Saturday morning, November 27, he had the third stroke of paralysis. The other two strokes were slight and Mr. Reynolds was able to get around until he had the third stroke. Thanksgiving day was his last trip down town and he had to be helped home that day. The last three days of life Mr. Reynolds was in a comatose condition and was unconscious twelve or fifteen hours before he died.

Funeral service was held at the family residence at 2.00 p. m. Monday, conducted by Dr. A. J. Meek and interment was made in the Reynoldsville cemetery beside a son, Craig A., who died thirteen years ago.

Samuel T. Reynolds was born in Winslow township, near Rathmel, on the fifteenth day of January, 1846, and would have been 64 years old the fifteenth of next month. He was a son of William and Elizabeth Kyle Reynolds. His father was born in Chester county, Pa., and his mother was born in County Derry, Ireland. The father died in 1854 and the mother in 1869. William Reynolds owned 1,600 acres of land in this section at time of his death. A large portion of the land was underlaid with coal—leaving a snug sum of money for each member of his family.

Mr. Reynolds' educational privileges were such as the district schools of the county afforded. Upon the farm he early became familiar with agricultural pursuits. He remained under the parental roof until he attained the age of 23 years, assisting in the arduous task of clearing and developing the farm. Mr. Reynolds traveled quite extensively over the United States, but this was always his home town.

September 23rd, 1873, Mr. Reynolds was united in marriage to Miss Rachel J. Daugherty, of Clarion Co., Pa. Unto them four children were born, three sons and one daughter. The surviving members of the family are his wife, two sons and one daughter, Vincent G., of Johnstown, Harry F., of New York City, and Miss Olive V., at home.

Some years ago Mr. Reynolds was engaged in the hardware business. In 1893 he built a three-story brick on Main street with two large store rooms on first floor. In 1897 he opened a dry-goods and notion store in one of these rooms. Later the building was converted into a hotel and is now the National Hotel.

Mr. Reynolds was a violinist of the old school and not only found pleasure in playing his own violin, but very much enjoyed listening to others play, and he knew when a master was playing a violin.

Deceased was the last surviving member of a family of seven children.
