Are Microbes in Your Scalp? It Has Been Proven that Microbes Cause Baldness

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebum, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entiroly close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

Dandruff is a contagious disease, which is largely due to a destructive microbe, which when left to pursue its course causes itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. Dandruff is caused by the microbe affecting the glands which produce the sebaceous matter, which latter then unnaturally dries up and scales off. We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by making every hair root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely free from grease or sediment, is exceedingly pleasant to use and will not gum the hair or permanently soil the clothing or pillows.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give it a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at-The Rexall Store.

A Hen's Idea of Conservation of Natura Resources, or Graft-Which ?

On election day I bought some hens from Rev. A. D. McKay and since then I have been getting shelless eggs. Now for my hens to produce shelless eggs is either their idea of graft in not producing the proper egg to stand the transportation (oftentimes) from the nest to the house, after they have been furnished with the proper amount of material so to do, or it is teelr idea of conservation of natural resources. Probably Rev. McKay saved the lime or shell making material to enrich his farm in Illinois, or he might have instructed the hens to lay shelless eggs to facilitate the work in his wife's culinary department. Now if a hen can produce a shelless egg can she not produce an eggless shell? Of course an eggless shell is not so valuable in commerce as a shelless egg; they may stand the transportation better than the other kind. The other morning I found some eggless shells in nests. I thought that my hens were surely on to the graft game, and I fully decided to decapitate them and go into the squab business (as I promised Thomas Reynolds some squabs three years ago, and he told me a few days ago he was still looking for them) when my boys told me they were glass eggs put there to fool me and the hens. 1 know now that Rev. McKay did not teach his hens the graft idea.

A Salutary Lesson.

DR. B. E. HOOVER.

"Now, remember your salutes," said the English corporal when posting the Irish recruit on sentry. "If you see a lleutenant-he wears one star on his shoulder-slope arms; if a captaintwo stars-slope arms; if you see a major-a crown-present arms; if the colonel-stars and crown-present and turn out the guard."

Pat pondered his orders carefully, but presently he was awakened from his reverie by the approach of the general.

That worthy son of Mars surveyed the cross swords on the gallant offi-cer's shaniders and as he was not in-cluded in the corporal's category simply nodded cheerfully.

"Well, my man," said the genial general, "and who are you supposed to be?"

"I'm supposed to be a bit of a sentry," said Patrick, "And who are you?"

"Oh, I'm supposed to be a bit of a general!" said the latter.

"A gineral, is it 7" cried the startled Pat. "Then ye'll want something big. The corp'ral tould me about the others, but nothing about yourself at all. at all. But hold hard a minute, and I'll give ye the bayonet exercise, if that'll do."

A Resourceful Woman.

"I think it is a foolish fashion that so many women indulge, that of telling their age wrongly," said the wo-man with the prematurely gray hair. "I can honestly say that I never practice it myself."

Where did etiquette require nobles to appear before their sovereigns meanly clad? This singular custom characterlzed court ceremonial in ancient Mexico under the Aztec dominion. When the native lords and grandees had occasion to seek the presence of Montezuma they were under the obligation, as Toribio de Benevente, who accompanied the Conquistador Cortes, testifies, of assuming a voluminous mantle of poor material (una manta grosera y pobrei, with which they covered and concealed their ordinary robes, in token of subjection and humiliation. These were manufactured out of the leaves of the aloe tree by the commoner classes. Etiquette required the strict observance of this custom by all those who came into the emperor's presence, with the exception of persons of the royal blood. Any one seeking audience of the emperor 1 to don these common clothes on has arrival at the palace. Barefooted and wretchedly clad, he was led before the sovereign and with downcast eyes made his request, with every outward sign of abject subserv-

"John Burroughs, the naturalist, dined with me one night," said a magazine editor of New York, "and among my guests was a young nature writer of the new school.

"This young man told a wonderful story about the intelligence of oysters. He said he was going to put the story in his new book. Mr. Burroughs gave a dry laugh and said:

"'Let me tell you about a cat. This story is quite as authentic as the other one, and it should do for your book nicely?

"The venerable student paused impressively, then said:

"'A Springfield couple had a cat that age had rendered helpless, and they put it out of its misery by means of chloroform. They buried it in the garden and planted a rosebush over its remains. The next morning a familiar scratching took them to the front door, and there was that cat waiting to be let in, with the rose-bush under its arm.'"

Curious Village Names.

There is in Dorset a group of villages which in some form or other have as their eponym the stream in whose valley they are situated. The stream is named Puddle, and the villages bear the names of Puddle Hinton, Puddletown, Tulpuddle, Affpuddle, Turner's Puddle and Bryan's Puddle. One is reminded of the riddle about the letter Some, like Queen Mary, "have 'm." it before;" some, like King William, "have it behind." Poor things, poor things! "The inhabitants of these villages,' says Marcus Dimsdale, who writes in the Cornhill Magazine on "English Village Names," "sent to a former postmaster general-if 1 am rightly informed, Cecil Raikes-a request that they might be allowed to change their names and replace them more euphonious substitutes with which they obligingly supplied. Back came the official reply, curt, overbearing, inexorable, 'Puddle you are, and puddle you must remain!""

Dr. Hale's Day.

Dr. Hale and the late Bishop Huntngton of New York were fast friends. The latter had been a Unitarian, and his shift caused a sensation, says the Christian Register. The Episcopalians have saints assigned to the various days in the year. When an Episcopalian minister writes a letter on any day for which there is a saint he always writes the name of the saint at the close of the letter instead of the date. Bishop Huntington learned all

"Well," said the first speaker, with a smile-she was a woman with a sense of humor-"the fact is I don't have to. I have a way of making myself out younger than I am if I wish to without telling a fib at all."

"Really ?" inquired the other curlous ly. "In what way?"

"I put the burden of the fib all upon the questioner. You see, when one of my dear women friends-it is always women who are curious on this pointasks me how old I am I say: 'Oh, I'm a year or two older than you, you know, my dear-at least a year older. Let me see, now, how old are you? And then she always knocks more off my age than I should ever have the nerve to do myself."

A Bee That Digs.

Dr. John B. Smith gives the name of "digger bee" to a blue green bee having a metallic sheen, which may be seen flitting about sandy places during the first heats of May. With the aid of liquid plaster of paris poured into the holes that it makes in the ground he has followed the bee through a wouderful course of digging. The work is done by females, and its primary object is to provide protected cells in which the young are bred. The bee makes a tunnel a quarter of an inch in diameter, which after starting for a few inches on a slope runs straight down into the ground. At the depth of a foot or more short lateral tunnels are driven, and at the ends of these are formed the breeding cells. Having provided for her young, the bee "contin-ues to dig down and yet farther down until she is four feet or even more beneath the surface, dying from sheer exhaustion about the time her first progeny begin to make their way to the surface."-London Mail.

"Nearsightedness must be very embarrassing at times," remarked a Brooklyn resident to an acquaintance thus afflicted. "The other morning, for example, a man addressed me on a crowded bridge trolley, and in the course of conversation he roundly abused a chap whose political and business methods he disliked equally. In fact, he became acutely personal in his denunciation.

"Before he left the car he was informed by a friend near him that I was the man he had been abusing. It didn't worry me at all, but it must have been a bit disconcerting for him. don't you think?"-New York Globe.

The Sun.

It has been stated that no one has ever seen the sun. A series of concentric shells envelops a nucleus of which we know nothing except that it must be infinitely hotter than the flercest furnace and that it must amount to more than nine-tenths of the solar mass. That nucleus is the real sun. forever hidden from us. The outermost of the enveloping shells is about 5,000 miles thick and is called the "chromosphere." It is a gaseous flood.
