GLASS AND CUT GLASS But After Awhile the Young Man Made

Pressed Ware at Times Deceives Even Experts.

A GUIDE FOR THE UNWARY.

The Seeker After Cut Glass Is Safe In Purchasing "Closed In" Articles, as They Cannot Be Duplicated In Pressed Glass-Art of the Cutter.

Buyers for large houses are some times deceived when buying cut glass and find they have bought what is commercially known as pressed glass instead of the genuine article.

Yet there are a few simple rules that will safeguard the ordinary buyer at retail. The chief one is to pick out what the manufacturer calls enly closed in articles. By this he means vases, jugs, pitchers, bottles and the like.

These cannot be duplicated in presed glassware, which is first molded in patterns and the edges ground. This process gives it so close a resemblance to real cut glass that even experts may be deceived.

But in the "closed in" articles some way is yet to be devised by which the pressed lines can be followed through the opposite side when put on the wheel to be cut, as the pressed part int rforms with the workman seeing through the glass, which he has to do in order to follow the lines of the design on the cutter.

The kind of cut glass that is counterfeited is called open work, such as plates, napples or any flat article through which the workman can read fly see when finishing it.

Another help in selecting cut glass is its weight. The genuine is made from pure lead glass, made chiefly in America, especially for cutting. This lead glass is very heavy.

The first step toward cutting is to mark on the "blank"-that is, the dish in the clear glass-in red or other paint the design that has been selected for 抗

The most common designs are diamond shapes, stars of various points, crosses and squares and other geomet rical patterns.

The design must be marked on the glass exactly to stand the test of compass and rule. When all lines are in perfect accordance with the pattern and also fit the blank the "roughing" begins. This is cutting the heavy work such as the necks of vases and bottles and the heavy lines on the stars.

This is done on a machine called the "mill," a big wooden framed affair, on top of which is a hopper holding about half a top of Berkshire hills sand This sand is the only kind in this country that has proved satisfactory for this work.

The sand runs down through the hopper, is moistened with water and comes out of a large steel disk, the edge of which is sharp. This disk is turned by power at a very high speed. The wet sand of the disk gives it a "tooth," which when the glass is held against the edge of the disk cuts very rapidly.

All the coarse and heavy cutting is done on this "mill."

The cutting in of the finer work begins on a mill with a stone disk resembling an old fashioned grindstone. but much narrower and with a beveled edge. These stones come chiefly from Italy or Scotland. They are very hard and carry a keen edge a long time. They are used for the fine cutting altogether.

There is a stone found in Nova Sco-

MISUNDERSTOOD.

His Case Clear. As the young man entered the old man tooked up and scowled. "Well?" said the old man shortly

"Your daughter"- began the young man, but the old man cut him off abruptly

"I've noticed that you've been hanging around here a good deal," he said.

"I suppose that you've come to tell me that you love her and want to marry ber?"

"No." replied the young man calmly "I've come to tell you that she loves me and wants to marry me."

"What?" roared the old man.

"She says so herself," persisted the young man. "I never heard of such an exhibition of egotistical impertinence," said the old man.

"Then you misunderstand me," explained the young man. "My assertion is dictated by policy and not by impertinence. You see, it's just this way, What I want is nothing to you: now, is it?"

"Why-er-not-exactly."

"I might want $1,000, but that wouldn't matter to you, would it?"

"Certainly not." "You're under no obligations to supply me with what I want, are you?"

"Hardly." "Then what a foolish proposition it would be for me to come to you and say, 'Mr. Parkinson, I have been very favorably impressed with your house and furniture,' or 'I think I'd like your daughter' or anything else in that line. But when your daughter wants anything it's different. Now, isn't it different?"

"It certainly is different," admitted the old man cautiously.

"Precisely," said the young man. "She and I figured that all out very carefully last night. You see, I have no particular prospects, and we could both see that there wasn't one chance in a hundred that you would give her to me. Then she suggested that you had never yet refused anything that she wanted, no matter what the cost might be, and that perhaps it would be a good plan to change the usual order somewhat. We sort of felt that it wouldn't be right to ask you to do anything for me, but it's different in her case, as I remarked before. So I'm here merely as her agent to say that she wants me and that she wants me very much and to ask you to please see that she gets me. She never has wanted anything so much as she wants me, and I am so favorably disposed toward her that if you care to make the investment I shall be quite willing to leave the terms entirely to you and her." Naturally she got him. No wide awake business man is going to overlook a chance to get such a fine sample of nerve in the family .-- Philadelphia Inquirer,

"I have something for you here, my love," said Mr. Darley as he proceeded to open a large, round box.

What is it, precious?"

"Wait and see."

Darley carefully unwrapped the article and disclosed a indy's bat.

"Isn't it a beauty?" be asked. "I bought it myself as a surprise to you. Don't you think it is a perfect dream?" Mrs. Darley gazed at the bat and burst into tears.

"I can't wear it!" she cried. "It doesn't suit me at all. You meant to please me, 1 know, but it isn't my style at all."

"Don't cry, dear. The milliner said you could exchange it, and if you'll agree not to buy any ties for me hereter I'll let you your own hat that cuts quicker is used for fluting on water bottles and compotes where heavy cuts are desired. Very often as many as fifteen or twenty different stones of varying degrees of hardness are used for the cutting of one article.

After the design has been all cut comes one of the most difficult parts of the work, the polishing.

This is done on the outside of the work with a very high speeded brush wheel covered with moistened pumice stone powdered. This stone is lava thrown off by a volcano.

Large wooden disks made to fit the ents and fed with pumice and water are used for polishing the fine work in and around the delicate tracery of the pattern.

The haud of the glass cutting expert must be steady, strong and accurate, for the least mistake spoils a whole pattern. In the case of a fourteen inch punch bowi this means the loss of $50.

Another kind of glass cutting is known as stone engraving. It is done with little stone wheels and copper tools entirely by hand. The designs are chiefly vines and flowers. They are not cut deep and are often mismisen for pressed glass. In reality they are the most expensive kind of eup glass, the price for a single piece of targe size and ornate decoration st art, and any one after seeing the n shod employed will readily undermand why genuine cut glass comands high prices.-Boston Globe.

Her Very Clear Thoughts.

"Well, aunty, what are your thochts aboot marryin'?" asked a young woman in Scotland the other day of her aunt, a decent body who had reached the shady side of life without having committed matrimony.

"'Deed, lassie," frankly replied the old lady, "I've had but three thochts aboot it a' my days, an' the last is like to be the langest. First, then, when I was young, like yoursel', I thocht, 'Wha'll I tak'?' Then, as time began to wear by, I thocht, 'Wha'll 1 get?' An' after I got my leg broken wi' that whumel oot o' Saunders McDrunthie's cart my thochts syne have bin. 'Wha'll tak' me?'

Politeness In China.

In China parents are held responsible for the manners of their children Accordingly, for the credit of their parents, people try to be polite. If you are mobbed in a Chinese town you should look straight at one or two of the people and say: "Your parents did not pay much attention to your manners. They did not teach you the rules of propriety." A remark like this will make the crowd slink away, one by one, ashamed of themselves.

The Reason of It.

"Why is it that novels are so much more popular with the women than with the men?"

"In a novel the fellow invariably asks the girl to be his wife."-Chicago Record-Herald.

Stood on His Rights.
