Good Things to Eat

AND HOW TO PREPARE THEM

Stuffed Peppers.
Remove from a half dozen good-sized peppers the seeds and inner pith. Place in boiling water and cook for fifteen minutes. Pour over a cupful of fine bread crumbs two table-spoonfuls of melted butter. Beat an egg and mix it thoroughly in the crumbs. Stir in a half teaspoonful of salt. Pour over a cupful of chopped cold meat some stock, enough to moisten it well. If the stock be lacking, use water. Thoroughly mix all. Fill the peppers with the mixture. Arrange them in a pan half filled with hot water. Bake in a moderate oven until the peppers are thoroughly done. Usually it requires an hour in a moderate oven.—New York Times.

Hamburg Steak With Tomato Sauce.

Never buy your Hamburg steak already chopped, no matter how fresh and enticing it may look. Too often the most inferior grades of meat are used and then sprinkled with a preservative to give them a fresh appearance. Get a piece of lean meat from the round, not necessarily the tenderest portion, and have the butcher put it through the grinder while you are there. If you like onions with the steak chop one fine and add. Season with salt and pepper, shape into small, round, flat cakes and having your frying pan hissing hot and just lightly greased, with a bit of suet, lay in the cakes. In ten seconds turn and in ten seconds more repeat. This gives a nice brown crust on each side of the cakes and it will not be necessary to turn so often. Cook five minutes if desired rare; a little longer for well done.

Serve with tomato sauce. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add a tablespoonful flour, a half-teaspoonful salt and a dash of pepper. As soon as blended, pour in little by little one cupful strained tomato with a few drops onion juice, and cook three or four minutes and pour round the meat.—New York Telegram.

Mushrooms and Chicken.

Cut the stems from ten medium-sized fresh mushrooms. Remove the gills and peel neatly. As soon as peeled drop them into a bowl of cold water. The flavor will be much improved if to the water has been added the juice of one lemon. Chop the mushroom stems very fine. Mix with them one small white onion well chopped. Place them in a saucepan in which has been melted a heaping teaspoonful of butter. Cook for two or three minutes and then add the mushroom stems. Cook slowly for five minutes. Season with pepper and salt to taste. Take off the stove and mix with the mushrooms.

Mince tender parts of chicken, preferably the white meat. A cupful will be required. Push through a sieve. Mix with it two tablespoonfuls of butter cut into fine pieces. Mix thoroughly. Beat the whites of two eggs and moisten the meat with this, stirring well. Season strongly with salt and pepper. Keep on ice until chilled. Mix with it a teaspoonful of whipped cream. Fill the mushrooms with this mixture. Place them in a buttered pan. Place them in an oven and cover with buttered paper. Bake until firm. Serve with either tomato or cream sauce. The latter is more delicate and is usually preferred for this dish in the South.—New York Times.

Dryness of skin and general eruptions call for more fruit to be eaten. Almond meal may be used instead of soap if the latter is irritating to the skin.

To remove match marks from a polished or varnished surface, rub with a rag dipped in water, and the stains will disappear.

In the summer the fruit phosphates are not only grateful fluids for the palate, but they have a tonic, diuretic and other medicinal virtues as well.

If scars remaining from pimples be bathed in a saturated solution of boric acid and then anointed with zinc ointment they will readily disappear.

Whenever bread crumbs are to be used they are much better if seasoned first with pepper and salt. This does not refer to their use on sweetened puddings.

A wrinkled, dry skin has been deprived of its natural oil. Almond soap should be used instead of soap, and the face should never be washed in hot water.

To make the eyebrows grow: Four ounces of alcohol, two ounces of castor oil, fifteen drops of the oil of bergamot. Apply with a tiny brush night and morning.

Even though currants can now be bought "cleaned," the careful cook washes them through several waters, dries them on a soft cloth and puts them in a slow oven for a time.

You cannot be too careful of what you put on your complexion. Many of the cheap face creams are made with a basis of white vaseline, or lard, both of which are extremely harmful to the skin.

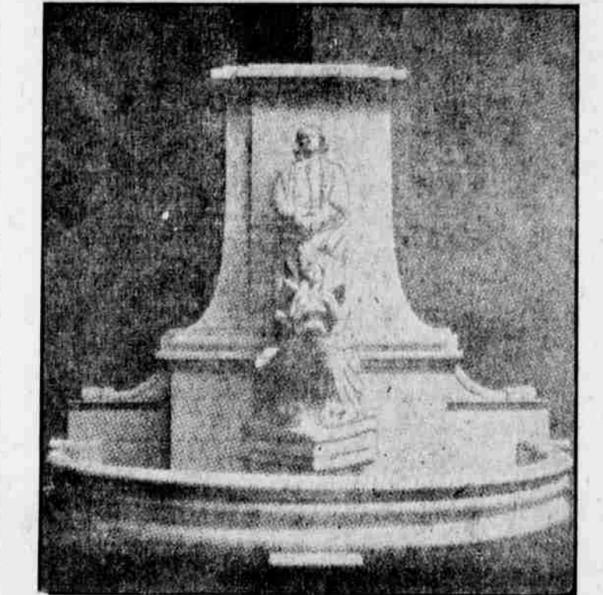

THE COLUMBUS STATUE AT WASHINGTON

Foreigners have often commented on the absence from Washington City, where statues of heroes and near heroes occupy almost every available space, of any monument to Columbus—throughout the entire United States of Columbus, like those of a certain ancient Roman, are conspicuous by their absence. On the other hand, throughout Latin America statues of Columbus in bronze and marble are numerous and of great beauty.

At last, however, the great discoverer is to be honored, an Act of Congress approved March 4, 1907, providing for the erection of a statue in a suitable location, one hundred thousand dollars having been appropriated for the purpose, and a committee named to select the design. At the time the bill was enacted, President Taft was Secretary of War and chairman of the committee.

It has been decided that this memorial shall be placed in the plaza of the new Union Depot. This building, which cost eleven million dollars, is regarded as the finest structure of its kind in the world. It is not inappropriate that the statue should stand at this noble gateway to the national capital.

In response to the invitation of the committee, twenty-one models were submitted by sculptors of international reputation, though only two or three were submitted by foreigners. So uniformly high was the merit of these designs that the work of selection was extremely difficult; but the design finally chosen, the work of Lorado Taft, of Chicago, meets with general approval. It was selected on account of its simplicity, combined with an effective harmonization with its setting in front of the great station building. The model shows a grasp of the architectural problems involved, and besides presents a fine characterization of Columbus himself, who, incidentally a sailor and soldier, was primarily a great thinker. Mr. Taft will receive the contract for erecting the statue, which is to form part of the scheme for a central fountain dominating the plaza and facing the Capitol Building.

Other designs of especial merit were submitted by Philip Martiny, of New York, who received a prize of five hundred dollars; Augustin Querol, of Madrid, Spain, who was given third honors and a prize of five hundred dollars; Henry Hering, of New York; T. Otto Schweiger, of Philadelphia; Louis Weingartner, of Bromsgrove, England; and Pierre Fettu, of New York.—Harper's Weekly.

"All Off."
A. W. Warner, the Beloit aviator, was praising his Curtiss aeroplane. "It goes as well," he said smiling, "as Harkness on the slide."

"Harkness, you know, slipped on a slide one day and began to sail down a long hill on his back.

"Half way down Harkness ran into a woman with an armful of bundles. She fell forward on his chest, and the swift glide continued, with the woman on top.

"At the bottom of the hill the woman kicked and struggled, trying in vain to rise. Harkness underneath her, waited patiently for about a minute; then he said in a smothered voice:

"Pardon me, madame, but you'll have to get off here. This is as far as I go."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Novel Clothespin.

Now the old-fashioned wooden clothespin that has done its humble work so well for many, many years may have to go. It has a rival, designed by a Texas man, which is much more artistic and is said to be cleaner. The new clothespin is made of wire, galvanized iron or aluminum wire of good quality, and is guaran-teeed not to rust like clothes. The whole device shown in the illustration is made of one piece of wire, twisted and intertwisted to form pin and chain. The wavy pieces of iron shown form a sort of spring. The pin is hooked over a garment, between the outward flaring end of the loop and the lower part of the spring

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

Irasburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irasburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

The Most Brilliant Peer.

Marked as is the superiority of Lord Rosebery to every other talking man in England, it is not to his tongue alone that he owes his central position just now on the political stage. He is the most appreciated of peers today because he proclaims the doom of the house of lords. Archibald Philip Primrose, fifth Earl of Rosebery, sometimes leader of the Liberal party, once prime minister of England, and always the bright particular star of the peerage, burns in the present crisis with all that genius for oratory that has made his country for years hang upon his words. The fate of the house of lords, suspects the London "Post," is in his hands. Lord Rosebery alone can save the hereditary chamber from extinction, and all the conservative organs in England implore him to devise the plan. He is at this moment meditating it, insist the champions of his order, but he is content for the time being to veil his thoughts in the splendid rhetoric for which he is so famed. No other speeches are so widely read and quoted as his. No other speaker was ever so many kinds of an orator as he. No other politician has sprung so many surprises upon his country; and all England now awaits the greatest of them all—the plan which, it is confidently predicted, will, at the moment, avert the crisis which now portends the doom of the most ancient chamber of privilege in history.—Current Literature.

Rewards of Toil.

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance, that imitation is suicide, that he must take himself for better, for worse, as his portion; that, though the wide universe is full of good, no kernel of nourishing corn comes to him but through his toil bestowed on that plot of ground which is given him to till. The power which resides in him is new in nature, and none but he knows what that is which he can do nor does he know until he has tried.—Emerson.

Millions of Bibles.

The ninety-fourth annual report of the American Bible Society shows that during the past year the total issue of publications at home and abroad amounted to 2,826,831, of which 1,427,247 came from the Bible house in New York and 1,399,584 from the society's agencies abroad, being printed on mission and other presses in Turkey, Syria, Siam, China and Japan. These issues consist of 327,636 Bibles, 545,743 New Testaments and 1,953,453 pamphlets. The total issues of Bibles by the society in 94 years amounts to 87,296,182 volumes.

In his report on the cavalry operations of last year on Salisbury Plains, issued by the British war office, Lieutenant General Sir Douglas Haig attributes "great importance to young officers being encouraged to hunt and play polo."

According to C. Hart Merriam, chief of the biological survey, the increasing ravages of wolves are to be added to the many other leakages of American wealth. In the Northwest last year, he says, the depredations amounted to $13,000,000 in value of property destroyed.

The Women's National Game.

There is always something impressive about a crowd that is swayed by a single emotion; you get an impression of force, says Mary Heaton Vorse in "Success Magazine." These women, who a few moments ago had been quiet shoppers, formed a mob. They swayed and pushed as though moved by a common impulse toward a table where were the embroideries. From their throats came a little dull growl, a curious noise—the whisper of a mob, the noise of a mob in joy or in anger or in fright, or just its restless murmur as it waits, is different from any other noise that comes from the human throat—quite distinct, of a curious animal timber. I heard it once on the occasion of the throwing of a bomb; again from the crowd waiting for a bank to open, and a third time in a theater when fire had been called; and now here it was in miniature from a couple of hundred women waiting to buy 10-cent embroideries. They were poor women with shawls and baskets, women with babies in their arms, women with threadbare clothes carefully brushed, who must think before spending each dime in the dollar, but for once indulging in the great sport of American women—bargain hunting.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
