SHOW DAY WILL SOON BE HERE.

Magnificent Display of New Sights Promised by Sun Brothers.

It is a matter of record that the Sun Brothers Greater Progressive Shows have received a fair portion of success in the amusement tented field.

Ever since the inception of this show some seventeen years ago, it has been going along in a modest way never using any bombastic or boasting manner, however, giving the public a first-class, clean and always original show and invariably exhibiting many of the finest animal features procurable. These elements together with the policy of not allowing the introduction of anything with an off-color, has given the Sun Brothers much enviable prestige.

"Show Day" with all its manifold joys and alluring delights will soon be here, and the public will have an opportunity of witnessing the new great programme arranged by the Sun Brothers this season. The show will come here by special railway service and will exhibit at Reynoldsville on Saturday, June 25, at 2 and 8 o'clock, p. m.

The horses with this show are one of the predominant attractions. It is an old saying that "good horses make a good show." The Sun management evidently had this in mind when they arranged their show. Every horse in the outfit is a perfect specimen and without a flaw. They are all beauties, ranging in specie and size from the mighty Percheron to the mite of a Shetland. Then the acting horses are worth talking about. Among these features will be the appearance of Miss Minnie Ashborne and "Virgilus," the prettiest animated picture ever presented in an arena.

This stately and charming performance created the greatest enthusiasm at the last horse show in New York where Miss Ashborne was in keen competition with millionaire horse fanciers to whom defeat is as bitter as a poisonous breath. The entries of seldoms of the richest American families were given the gate and this American girl's horse awarded the blue ribbon, insignia of greatest merit and excellence, the judges decision receiving the most enthusiastic demonstration of approval ever witnessed in Madison Square Garden.

The wild beast department of the Sun show will also be of unusual interest. Here are exhibited select animal freaks, features and oddities. The giant blue-faced Mandrill monkey is among this collection, he is the giant of the monkey tribe and the only representative of his race now in captivity. He stands five feet, four inches in height and is possessed of the strength of a hundred men. Here will also be seen select specimens of the biggest box-constrictors, baby camel and mother, Royal Bengal tigers, India leopards and the many other representatives of the jungle and forest.

M. Simmons, of Reynoldsville. He was a bright young man and had a promising future in his chosen profession. Mr. Simmons went to Oil City to attend the funeral, where interment was made.

Rebuilding at Ford City.

Bids have been called for by the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. for the erection of a new plant at Ford City, Pa., to take the place of that recently burned. The new plant will be of steel and concrete and will be modern in every particular. One of the features of the new building will be lockers and dressing rooms for the employees.

The old plant of the company was thought to be fireproof, but the amount of damage entailed by the fire necessitates the erection of an entirely new building, as the other was so badly damaged it was found impractical to repair it. The new building will be fire proof throughout. It is estimated that the company will spend $200,000 in improvements at the plant and when the work is finished the capacity of the works will be doubled.

Pushing Aside The Crown.

Our genial and highly esteemed contemporary, the Oil City Blizzard, said editorially in last Friday's issue:

"In casting about for an available candidate for Governor, it seems strange that someone has not suggested Hon. W. O. Smith, Punxsutawney. He was among the 'mentioned' when Governor Stuart was nominated, and he possesses the qualifications essential now as he did then. The idea that the candidate must necessarily come from the larger cities is fallacious. Mr. Smith has served in the Legislature and Congress, with credit, and would be acceptable to his newspaper brethren. He is not identified with any clique or faction, has a level head and would make a worthy successor to the man who now fills the gubernatorial chair with so much honor and ability. Furthermore, the Smith family really deserves recognition in the great Keystone State."

Editor Bowen has been trying to get the floor to nominate the editor of the Spirit for Governor for the past five years, but somehow he cannot catch the Speaker's eye. He cannot even evoke the conventional inquiry from the chair, "For what purpose does the gentleman rise?"

Such persistency is worthy of a better cause, for there is nothing in "Cannonism," or the rules of the House to prevent a man from getting a hearing on anything that is reasonable, or for which there is a popular demand.

Therefore must we conclude that the fault is not with the editor of the Blizzard, but with his candidate. And frankly we are constrained to admit that Editor Bowen's candidate does not measure up to our own idea of what constitutes good gubernatorial timber. His ability is distinctly of the mediocre type, and as a campaigner he is a rank second-rater. He has neither the personality nor the dynamic force to make a good candidate. While he has faith in his own integrity, and would take pride in meriting the commendation of the people, he would arouse no enthusiasm. He could not even get the delegates in his own Congressional district, while in the outside districts people would inquire, "Who in the name of Pluto is Smith?" and "Where in blazes is Punxsutawney?" And the grand old Republican party might go down to defeat and disaster because better discernment had not been exercised in the selection of a standard bearer.

We hate to say these disparaging things about Editor Bowen's candidate, but truth is above all things and the faith of the people is not to be trifled with. Besides, this isn't a patch to the moon things we could say about him, or to what the Democrats would say. So it isn't any wonder that the voice of Brother Bowen crying in the wilderness does not even produce an echo. Such, oh, Quirites, are the sad facts.

We want a candidate for Governor this year for whom we can all, heartily and without guile, "throw our hats and sweaty nightcaps" and howl. And such a candidate will no doubt be named by the Harrisburg convention. And the editor of the Spirit will therefore stick to his pastepot and shears, and continue to radiate his little light through the smoke of the coke ovens round about Punxsutawney.—Punxsutawney Spirit.
