SUMMERVILLE TELEPHONE NO. 61.

PLUTARCH AND REYNOLDSVILLE.

"As for me," wrote Plutarch, "I am a resident of a small village and will not leave it lest it grow smaller."

And the good old philosopher, who might have enjoyed fame and luxury in Rome, spent his mature years in the village of Chaeronea serving in the humblest offices tendered him by his fellow citizens.

Would to God that the same spirit of local pride could be instilled into the minds of our own people, and inversely, that the "to-Hades-with-the-town" sentiment could be punished as treason to one's country is punishable.

No man can grow too important to exercise the duties of a citizen, and the duties of citizenship begin at home. The civic and social institutions of a small city are as important and confer as great rewards as those of large, and they who share the benefits of such institutions should willingly share the burden and expense of maintaining them.

The man who thinks himself too big to accept a local office is suffering from expansion of the cranium and betrays the smallness of his moral calibre. "No office can confer dignity on a man," continues Plutarch, "but he who holds it may give dignity to any office." From which it follows that the acceptance of an inferior office does not detract from the honor of any man, but rather adds to it, since the service rendered is not for self but one's country, and the lower the office the greater the compliment paid to the public.

The most conspicuous modern illustration of this is furnished by Erman J. Ridgway, publisher of Everybody's Magazine. Ridgway, through his editorial management of Everybody's, has done as much to influence public sentiment in the United States in recent years as any one man in the union, and yet thinks it not beneath him to accept the nomination for mayor of his own little city of Montclair, New Jersey. "I believe that every man and woman should take a lively interest in the affairs of the community," says Ridgway. "I have tried to do that not unselfishly."

Kane Republican: How many more failures will there have to be before the moneyed interests of Kane awaken to the fact that unless there is something done to stimulate business, there will be more failures. Kane was never so quiet and business never so dull as at the present time.

The Lock Haven Normal.

The Lock Haven State Normal School has had gratifying success, both as a Training School for teachers and as a preparatory school for students that desire to go to college. Its home life is particularly attractive to its students and patrons. Probably no other feature has contributed so much to its success. Parents realize that their children are all well taken care of, both morally and educationally. Reference is made to this fact because the burning question with most parents is chiefly the one bearing upon the advantages any school offers in the way of safe guarding and developing the characters of its pupils. The splendid patronage that this ideally located school now has is the best assurance of its worth as an institution of learning. It issues a beautiful catalog which will be sent free to any one writing for it. Rooms are now being reserved for the fall term beginning September 6th.

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion and creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at Stoke & Feicht Drug Co. store.

Franklin's Gala Week.

Franklin's Old Home Week commences August 7th and elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of visitors. It will be "Franklin for Franklinites" that week, no privileges being sold to any but residents of that city and money making schemes are being given the cold shoulder.

Automobilists report that the roads in this section are in excellent condition at present.

The annual Gourley family reunion will be held in Mitchell Park, Punxsutawney, August 11th, 1910.

The Baptist choir were entertained at the home of George H. Rea and wife near Reynoldsville last Thursday evening.

Prof. E. O. Tobias, of Mahaffey, has been elected principal of the Brookwayville public schools, succeeding Prof. C. E. Wilson, who goes to Brookville.

Tuesday, August 18th, is the date of the annual reunion at Goodville, Indiana county, in Coleman's Grove. Excursions will be run over the B. R. & P. R'y.

A teamster driving along the road near Soldier killed a four-foot blacksnake Wednesday. The blacksnake is rare in the immediate vicinity of Reynoldsville.

A leak in the water main in front of THE STAR office caused trouble for the water company last week. Yesterday the street was torn up in front of the Imperial Hotel to find another leak.

All the odd pairs of oxfords must go, regardless of price at Adam's.
