Knoxville, Iowa,

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflaramation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indirestion, dizziness, or peryous prostragestion, dizziness, or nervous prostra-tion.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it, It is free and always helpful.

NOT THE TIME FOR THAT

Scotsmen Objected to Mixture of Good Whisky and Religious Conversation.

Owen Scaman, editor of Punch, was the principal guest at a dinner of the London Authors' club recently, which was followed by a discussion on "Humor." Mr. Seaman began with a story deprecating the spoiling of good dinners by any discussion at all. There were three characters in the story-a bluebottle and two Scotsmen. The story at once struck a note of probability by showing the Scotsmen drinking whisky. The bluebottle buzzed on the pane; otherwise sidence reigned. This was broken by one of the Scotsmen trying to locate the bluebottle with zoological exactitude, Said the Scotsman:

"Sandy, I'm thinking if you fly is a birdie or a beastie."

The other replied: "Man, don't spoil

INEXPENSIVE SILKS FOR PER-SONS OF MODEST MEANS.

Traditions of Modesty Allow Collarless Waists With Sleeves That Fall Short of Elbow-Stripes and Dots Prevail.

New fashions for brides are not always conventional in the matter of the high-necked and long-sleeved bodice. Traditions of modesty waive a point here, allowing collarless waists very often, with sleeves that fall far short of the elbow. The "old-fashioned" girl and others who find the high stock more becoming accept only the cuts approved in the past, and surely this correct veiling of the throat and arms seems more proper for bridal attire. But yokes and undersleeves are all very filmy, and though lined with chiffon or net they are all still diaphanous enough to be becoming. In fact it is the exception to see the wedding frock's own maerial carried straight up to the throat, while a sleeve without some underdrop in a more airy textile is altogether behind the times.

In point of material many quite inexpensive silks are used by persons of modest means, these with stripes, dots or tiny floral sprays, or else a buckle more than any other bow.

weave, Marquisette and other fine veilings are much employed in conjunction with satin, rich lace, and chiffon, this combination turning out the most fairylike wedding frocks without great expense. One wedding dress shown by a leading importer was of embroidered batiste over satin. It was short, with a Dutch neck, and fairly incrusted with needlework. It was to be topped by a broad hat wreathed with white crape morning glories and snowy roses in the same airy texture.

The materials used show endless shades of white, but pearl, snow-white and a delicate cream are the most satisfactory ones. A pretty arrangement for the veil is to put it on after the manner of a straight gathered curtain, with the sides covering the cheeks and the rest of the face uncovered. The tulle or fine net used, is left unhemmed and it is shirred to a wire under a round wreath of orange blossoms.

Our illustration suggests an attract ve and girlish design for a cloth frock braided with soutaches that would be needed for walking or traveling. Here one of the new cloths with a rough finish is employed, the color a delicate tan, with the braiding and other trimming black.

The skirt is plaited with a closely fitting yoke, and the upper part is a species of polonaise, with the neck rounded out and kimono sleeves cut with the side portions of the bodice. White net embroidered with black dots is used for the guimpe and undersleeves. Any wool of a solid nature would do for this frock, and machine embroidery may be bought for the trimming if the braiding seems difficult. The upper part of the dress could also be made of velling and the lower part of silk, and with this arrangement an embroidered guimpe and undersleeves of white batiste would be very pretty.

But in seeking for a rich effect remember that a black note in the trimming will always give it, and for that matter, a gown in almost any color might be trimmed solidly with black and be in excellent style.

HATS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE CONVENIENT KNITTING BAG

Millionaire's Wife Pays, Without Question, Fabulous Prices for Artistic Headgear.

The millionaire wife pays anywhere from $25 to $300 for a hat, and she buys half a dozen hats or so every season. The days are past when the more especially as such a mishap hat plays second fiddle, so to speak, only too often ends in a hopeless to the gown. The hat and the gown tangle, while the ball is being hunted are of equal importance now.

'How is it possible to put such a been asked a thousand times by astoneven by the women themselves who

Well, in the first place, the plain hat itself is imported from Paris, and costs the callliner from $10 to $25, as against $2 to $10 only ten years ago. This hat, though it follows the prevailing fashion, and though this fashion may be ridiculous in the extreme, is nevertheless, artistic in lines and general form. Perhaps it is desired that the hat should be green. The artist milliner has in her employ a Frenchman whose business it is to color hats to any shade or tint that may be wished. He brings his dyes from Paris the pale, soft colors he uses are to be had only in that city-and has himself received his training there. No American can do this work. The trimmings and materials for this hat are, of course, imported A $75 imported feather may be also. the body of the trimming. Perhaps on the green ground it is decided that pink and blue roses will harmonize best with the rest of the wearer's outfit. It is in deciding such things as these that the art of the milliner is called into play.

It is a French woman, too, who does the work on small hats and toges. She has been a worker for one of the famous firms in Parisfor Charlotte, possibly, or Georgette, or Camille Rogers. If her specialty is sailor hats, she has probably been with Marie Louise.

A woman of wealth buys all her hats between September and July. During the hot months the milliner may fit out a dozen theatrical companies if she chooses, but she cannot do this in the winter time, for the two elements, the social set and the theatrical profession, must come to the milliner's pariors at different

Four sets of hats become a necessity to the woman of unlimited means, as follows: (1) city hats, (2) country hats and seashore hats, (3) hats for February and March in the south,

Will Prevent Many Mishaps and Will Keep Ball Clean and in Good Condition.

Few things are more aggravating in a small way than to drop a ball of knitting or crochet wool or thread, for on the floor. A useful knitting bag of the kind shown in our sketch price on a hat?" The question has will altogether prevent any accident of this description, and will, moreished husbands who pay the bills, and over, keep the ball clean and in good condition.

This bag is made in silk or linen. lined with soft silk, and interlined with thin cardboard and bound at the edge with wide silk ribbon, which, in its turn, is edged with a line of stitching. The handle consists of a loop of broad ribbon, tied in a bow at the top and made sufficiently long to allow the bag to be slung comfortably over the left arm while at work. On one side there is a hole through which the thread may be drawn without disturbing the ball, and with no risk of pulling it out of its place. The sides are of silk or linen to match the front and gathered into a binding of ribbon, while on the front of the bag the word "Knitting" is lightly embroidered in silk, chosen in some contrasting shade of color.

TINY BABY'S PITIFUL CASE

"Our baby when two months old was suffering with terrible eczema from head to foot, all over her body. The baby looked just like a skinned rabbit. We were unable to put clothes on her. At first it seemed to be a few mattered pimples. They would break the skin and peel off leaving the underneath skin red as though it were scalds. Then a few more pimples would appear and spread all over the body, leaving the baby all raw without skin from head to foot. On top of her head there appeared a heavy scab a quarter of an inch thick. It was awful to see so small a baby look as she did. Imagine! The doctor was afraid to put his hands to the child. We tried several doctors' remedies but all failed.

"Then we decided to try Cuticura. By using the Cuticura Ointment we softened the scab and it came off. Under this, where the real matter was, by washing with the Cuticura Soap and applying the Cuticura Cintment, a new skin soon appeared. We also gave baby four drops of the Cuticura Resolvent three times daily. After three days you could see the baby gaining a little skin which would peel off and heal underneath. Now the baby is four months old. She is a fine picture of a fat little baby and all is well. We only used one cake of Cutisolvent. If people would know what Cuticura is there would be few suffering with eczema. Mrs. Joseph Kosscould you expect? They are only first. cura Soap, two boxes of Cutleura Ointmann, 7 St. John's Place, Ridgewood Heights, N. Y., Apr. 30 and May 4, '09."

DIDN'T "GET" THE QUOTATION

Boston Reporter, Unlike Most Newspaper Men, Was Unfamiliar With the Scriptures.

The "cub" reporter is the greenest reporter on the staff of a newspaper. When anything particularly stupid happens on the paper, he is the first to be accused, and he is usually rightly accused. The only salvation for him is to improve, which he does in nine cases out of a dozen. The Boston Journal told recently of an amu sing "break" of a wholly innocent nature which a certain cub made. If it shows anything, it shows that a thorough training in the Bible is useful in other walks of life than the ministry. The reporter had been sent to a suburb to report a sermon. He arrived late, near the close of the service, and took a seat near the door. When the last hymn was over, he asked his neighbor, an elderly gentleman:

"What was the text of the sermon?" 'Who Art Thou?'" replied the other.

"Boston reporter," replied the other. The man smiled. Subsequently he told the preacher, who next Sunday told the congregation-at the cub's expense.-Youth's Companion,

Red Cross Christmas Seals.

Arrangements for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals for 1910 have been announced by the National As sociation for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and the American Red Cross. "A Million for Tuberculosis" will be the slogan of the 1910 campaign. Two features of the sale this year are unique and will bring considerable capital to the tuberculosis fighters. The American National Red Cross is to issue the stamps as in former years, but this organization will work in close co-operation with the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which body will share in the proceeds of the The charge to local associa tions for the use of the national stamps has been reduced also from 20 per cent, to 121/2 per cent., which will mean at least $50,000 more for tuberculosts work in all parts of the United States. The stamps are to be designated as "Red Cross Seals" this year and are to be placed on the back of letters instead of on the front.

Shrewd Scheme Stopped Run.

Many years ago, in consequence of a commercial panic, there was a severe run on a bank in South Wales, and the small farmers jostled each other in crowds to draw out their money. Things were rapidly going from bad to worse, when the bank manager, in fit of desperation, suddenly thought him of an expedient. By his directions, a clerk, having heated some sovereigns in a frying pan, paid them over the counter to an anxious appliout of the mold. We are coining them by hundreds as fast as we can.' "Coining them!" thought the simple agriculturists; "then there is no fear of the money running short!" With this their confidence revived the panic abated, and the bank was enabled to weather the storm.
