FOR PRESIDENT IN 1864. GEORGE. B. MCCLELLAN.

Subject to the Decision of the Demo. eratic National Convention.

We are sorry to be compelled again. to offer an appology to our patrons for non appearance of the A-loorate, which we promised should be a regular visitor to each of our patrons. But owing to circumstances over which we had no controll, the paper has ben delayed, and the principle cause we have to offer is, sickness of our family for the last three weeks. Hoping that those of our family who have been overtaken by desease, may sneedly be restored to health, we will aga'n publish the paper regularly.

If the western Republican press is to be believed Mr. CHASE's treasury agents are quite as active in supplying the rebels with what they need on the Missis sippi as are his custom-house officers on the Atlantic coast. The Cincinnati Gazette proves conclusively that the whole system of trade permits on the river is nothing less than an organized tible; if it is deferred till June. it may swindle npon honest commerce, and that no one gains by it but the personal too soon, and put them upon so long a friend's of Mr. CHASE's political friends, who hold the offices. The Guzette pub. lishes a long letter from an agent of the Sanitary Commission, who writes of what he actually saw in a trip up and down always more numerous than the Ins. the Mississippi.

We quote an extract :

The oustom is, as I have been credibly informed, for men of capital and professed lovalty, or I might say un cians not in office that there should be a doubted lovalty, to procure permits to trade. These persons sent agents of With Mr. LINCOLN as a candidate, the doubtful loyalty, and these again subagents, more unserupulous, and who are name with loaded dice, as against the loval to their interests. From the Are York World. The Black Republican Cen-didates for the Presidency.

The following list comprises all the numes thus far started as abolition candidates for the presidency. They are set down in the order of their availability and probable changes : A"RAHAM LINCOLN, SALMON

CHASE, JOHN C. FREMONT, NATHAN IEL P. BANKS, BENJAMIN F. BUTLER.

There are three major generals in this list, but it contains no name that has acquired distinction by signal military achievements. Of these three major generals two have never fought a battle, and the military record of the other is not brilliant. It is clear, therefore, that, if military popularity is to enter, as a potential element, into the presidential canvass, the advantage of that element will not be on the side of the Republicans. We proceed to inquire into the availability of their several candidates.

1. LINCOLN. The extraordinary and successful efforts now making to bring Mr. LINCOLN immediately into the field as the candidate of the state legislatures and loyal leagues, would react powerfully against him if his Republican competi tors had any approach to equality of strength as compared with each other. In that case, their common interest in his defeat would lead to a combination to put a common stumbing block out of the way, and give an open field to the other candidates. But as the case stands, to defeat LINCOLN would be simply to nominate CHASE; it is only the adherents of CHASE, therefore, that have any interest in thwarting him. The impossibility of forming a combination against him makes Mr. LINCOLN a very strong candidate ; but the present demonstrations in his favor should not be counted for more than they are worth. This concerted movement of the legisla tures and loyal leagues does not render him independent of the nomination of the national convention ; they only in crease his chances of getting it. If the convention were to be called in March or April, Mr. LINCOLN would be irresisturn out that he has deployed his forces march that they will have spent their strength before they reach the field of hattle. This is a mere figure of speech. but a solid reason is, that the Outs, being even in the party of power, and twenty Outs, on an average, coveting the place of every In, it is for the general interest of all the active, working politichange of administration and a new deal office-holders would play the previdential more numerous class of office seekers. Here, then, is a powerful force which First, Mr. LINCOLN's influence will disome of them might wish to fill, become

S. FREMONT. The gentleman has next to no strength as a convention candidate, as all the other party chiefs have long had a common interest in his political death and burial. But he has the natural elements of a strong and magnet ic personal popularity, as is proved by by his brilliant presidential campaign in 56, and by the fact that, despite all the efforts of Mr. LANCOEN to dwart him, he has a devoted personal tollowing. He is the only ore of the Republican candidates who would have the moral audacity to run independent of a regular nom. ination. Against CHASE as the regular nominee he would have no motive to run; but as against LINCOLN he would run; but as against LINCOLN he would tion of property for property, or even have the advantage of some military life for life. 4 and 5 BANKS and RUTLER .-Neither of these can run except as a convention candidate, and their only chance, even in that relation lies in the remote possibility of the convention getting into a dead lock between CHASE & LINCOLN. In that contingency the To know that still thy freedom slept Lincoln faction might be willing to compromise on BANKS, and the Chase faction on BUTLER

A Disgusting Incident.

A Washington correspondent of the New York Express, gives the following account of a recent scene in the House ot Representatives .

"The House presented a pitiful spectacle to day, when the death of Senator Bowden of Virginia was announced. After the customary eulogy from a Virginia member, a Republican member from the West got up, not sober, if not drunk, and begon all sorts of gyrations and gesticulations, which soon indicated that if he hearing that the Republicans claims all the religion and all the education, and all the learning, and that hitherto not even shaveholding barbarians have even presented this sort of a spectacle in Congress, we may doubt whether Abolitionism is really refinement and eivilization. Another Republican member shuffled him off, and relieved It is curious to observe how careful our telegraphic agents are, in keeping all such bits of news as the above out of their reports to the associate press. Had this congressinal, swaggering devotee or King Baechus, heen a Democrat, we would have had the whole scene graphi. cally prepresented, causing every Jac would give the Outs and the radic ils a Peeksniff in the country to wcep croco.

We extract the following from an ex- | ORPHAN'S COURT SALE. tra issued and signed by Mr. Purdy, and commend its spirit as entirely proper to occasion :

"The Northumberland County Demo crat, though mobbed by strangers, at the instigation of partizan scoundrels, is not dead ; it will soon again appear to defend the time.honored and constitutional principles of the Democratic party. and if law among Loyal Leaguers is a thing gone by, and if brute force and the reign of mobs, at the instigation of drunkards, is to be the order of the day, the Democratic party are prepared for the issue of self-defence to the destruc-

To the Editor of the Elk Advocate.

Prothonotary's Office Ridgway, DEAR SIR :-- I send you the following composition intended for publication in the "Advocate" with pleasure. It was composed before leaving the shores of my own native country and though an echo in any but in the breasts of my own fellow countrymen in exile, still indeed sufficient recompence will that be to me for my triffing labours.

> Yours &c., JOHN M. MORIARTY. RETURNED.

Oh ! Ireland in my dreams of thee, When far away

Resplendent as a summer day Thy beauty shope And in my waking hours I wept

To think, dear land. I was not near the And starry hope was slow to cheer thee.

So dreamed I, many and many a time

In exile dark :

And wept to think thy glory's bark So long delayed

But now I see thee face to face, Soul-smitten with thy graces tender,

And own not fancy's self could trace A tithe of all thy native splendour.

Oh ! fair thou art above all climes

That I have seen Full vested in thy glorious green

Thou hast no peer. Yet mid thy beauty's sheen there looms.

From out thy visage, one deep shadow: Solemn and sacred too it glooms

As twilight in an evening meadow.

Oh ! cursed be the alieu crew, And foreign brood,

Whose arts have dimmed thy wonted mood Of mirth and song !

Ever I'll pray at morn and noon

That God may send his swiftest thunder

Forth from his Heaven of wrath, that soon

Thy tyrant may be trampled under !

The Gazette adds editorially :

It appears from all the information we have, that the 'rings,' as some of the cotton speculators are called, enterin toarrangements with agents of the government to divide the proceeds of thoir op. erations. Furnished with permits, they pass through the lines, and arrange with the guerrillas, paying the latter so much a bale or pound for all the cotton obtained, and smuggling goods through for their use besides. Thus the monstrous spectacle is presented to the government officials being in partnership with combinations of speculators, which keep the guerrillas on the Mississippi alive, and make it their interest to keep together. These outlaws and murderers, who are plundering the people, firing on unarme I steamers, and destroy. ing the property of the government, obtain their principal means of support from men who receive permits to trade from, and are under contracts to divide the profits of their business with, officers of the government. This is the most monstrous aspect of the case that has yet been presented, and, but for the convincing character of the information before us, we should be slow to believe that any loyal man, especially a sworn point him; who compelled him to expurofficer of the government, could be guilty of aiding bands of outlaws who are murdering our soldiers, destroying our boats, and robbing private citizens.

This is indeed a monstrous state of af. fairs ; but is it not what n.ight be expec ted when men like CALLICOT are deliberately appointed treasury agents by Mr. CHASE ? Congress should look into this matter, and, after punishing the guilty, instruct the Treasury Depart. tion. CAMERON has gone into his ment to throw open the trade of the LINCOLN movement to pay off old scores Mississippi to all who choose to enter upon it. The rebels would fare no bet. Hean party has more energy of character ter than they do under the present system, while loyal, honest traders would, two more skillful managers. Those at least, have an even chance with the one or two are not against him. but with guerrillas, and rogues. - Every pound of him. No man will go to greater lengths cotton we receive helps our financial than he to compase, his ends. With condition, and every green back which so much epposition to breast, and with finds its way to the south in exchange little but his abolitionism to stand upon. for it is an appeal to self interest against CHASE is just now at a discount. But country at large would be benefited.

capital reason for supporting another | dile tears for a month. candidate. The sooner the convention is called the better are Mr. LINCOLN'S chances.

competitor of the actual President has no chance whatever, except as a convention candidate. Being a member of, the cabinet, he could not, in honor, run against his official chief; certainly not if, the regular convention of the party had put that chief in nomination. The ut convention. Failing in that, he will be compelled to support his successful competitor. Mr. CHASE will go into the convention with many drawbacks. The Republicans count a great deal on the army vote ; but CHASE is notoriously unpopular with the soldiers on account of his vexatious tardiness in supplying money to pay them. He has powerful and indefatigable personal enemies in his own party The most vigorous of these is General CAMERON, whose motives in joining the present LINCOLN movement are well understood. Gener. al CAMERON has no real friendship for a President who wavered all through the winter of 1860-61 as to whether he would keep the promise he had made to give CAMERON a place in the cabinet ; who was forced against his will to angate his second report of its abolitionism on pain of dismissal; who finally did remove him into distastetul but honorable banishment to Russia. But CAMERON harbors a more insatiable grudge against CHASE than against LINCOLN. It was CHASE and CHASE's friends who, by their industrious attempts to ruin CAMERON, kept Mr. LINCOLN in indecision throughout the winter after his election. CAMERON has gone into his against CHASE. No man in the Repuband there are in that party but one or may work wonders fot him yet.

A Dastardly Outrage.

2. CHASE. The most formidable The Northumberland County Democrat Office Mobbed and Partially Destroyed.

A most dastardly outrage upon Con. stitutional rights; the liberty of speech and of the press, was committed at Sun. bury, Northumberland county, on the night of the 18th of January; an out. most that the proprietors of his position | rage which would have been sooner noallow him to do, is to try to carry the tieed but for the sickness and necessary absence of the regular editor of this paper from the office.

On that night a band of lawless men. strangers in the place, instigated by printer. some unlevolent Abolition citizens, en, tered the office of the Northumberland Couty Democrat, in Sunbury, armed with pistols and swords, and after maltreating and robbing Mr. Simpson, the proprietor of the building. who under. took to remonstrate with them, tore down and broke the presses, upset the imposing stones, tumbled tables, cases and stands around the room, scatteredand mixed the types, stole an American flag and decamped.

This is but one of many similar outra- Bractices Medicines & Surgery ges that have been committed upon the property and persons of Democrats by "unquestioning" supporters and myrinidous of the Federal Administration, and it is high time either that they should cease, or that Democrats should irm themselves and, as a united body. prepare to resist, if need he to death, all future demonstrations of the kind.

The Northumberland County Demo. rat is one of the most able, high toned and fearless papers in the State. It is never scutrilous, but has a habit of telling the truth in terse and bold English, which is offensive to those who are conscious of their daily sins and the gross corruptions of their party. For this offence-for boldly advocating a constitutional, and opposing a despotie government, and for denouncing the frauds and usurpations of those in power, it has suffered.

We congratulate the talented and gentlemanly editor, Mr. Purdy, for the dis. tinguished mark of respect which has of February. been paid bim. It shows that his artil. the rebellion.
