Cheerful Bathing.

Mark Twain writing to the Alta from Odessa, Russia, Aug. 22d says : If there is one thing that is really cheerful in the world, it is cheerfulness. I have noticed that when a man is right down cheerful, he is seldom unhappy for the time being. Such is the nature of man. Now I have often thought that our style of bathing was rather reserved than otherwise, and lacked many elements of cheerfulness. But you cannot say that of Russian style. I watched a party of them at it this afternoon in the harbor, and it is really nice. The men and women, and the boys and girls, all go in together, along about noon, and the men don't wear anything at all, the boys don't, the girls don't, and the young women usually wear a single white thin garment with ruffles around the top of it and short sleeves, (which I have forgotten the name of it,) but this would be a very good apology for a bathing dress, if it would only stay down. But it won't do it. It will float up around their necks in the most scandalous way, and the water is clear, and yet they don't seem to know enough to kick up the mud on the bottom. I never was so outraged in my life. At least a hundred times in the seven hours I stayed there, I would have just got up and gone away from there disgusted, if I had had any place to go to. Several times I had a mind to go anybow.

Why, those young ladies thought no more of turning somersaults, when I was not looking, than nothing in the world. Incensed as I was, I was compelled to look, most of the time, during this exhibition, because it forced them to make a show of modesty, at least. Yet it wouldn't even have accomplished that, if they hadn't been so fond of show naturally.

Well, you can't conceive of it. It was awful. But sometimes my outrag ed feelings were crowded down by my fears for the safety of the girls. They were so reckless. One splendid looking young woman went in with nothing but a shawl on, and she kept it wrapped around her so that I was afraid all the time that she would tangle her feet in its long tringes and drown herself. My solicitude became so unbearable at last I went and signified to her that it she wanted to take off her shawl I would hold it for her. But she only kicked up her heels and dived out of sight. I just took her to be one of your highflyer, mock-modest kind, and left her to ker fate. But she was the handsomest I in the party, and it was a pity to

I said to Brown : " It makes my heart bleed to look upon this unhallowed scene."

"We had better go, then," he said. "If you stay here seven hours you might bleed to death."

So we went away. But it was marvelously cheerful bathing.

MOTIVES OF GIVING .- Here is a little fellow at the breakfast table. His father says, "John, you know your teacher tells you you must deny yourielf in order to present an acceptable of. fering to the missionary cause, now what do you think of doing ?"

" I have made up my mind, father; I won't eat salt mackerel for breakfast." "I am glad. my child, that you are willing to deny yourself anything for Jesus' sake. Why do you select that ?" "Oh, father, I am not at all fond of it, it is very easy to give it up, and besides, we don't very often have it."

The children appreciate the illustration and smile. Oh ! how many boys and girls are very willing to give to Christ what costs them nothing ! But Christ is not ready to accept such offer--ings.

-Freddy, a fair-headed youngster of four summers, the other day, after being for some time lost in thought, broke out thas, addressing his father :

" Pa, can God do anything ?"

" Yes, dear."

"Can He make a two-year old colt in two minutes ?"

"Why," said the astonised parent; "He would not wish to do that, Freddy." "But if He did wish to, could He ?" insisted Freddy.

"Yes, certainly, if He wished to."

"What! in two minutes."

"Yes, in two minutes."

"Well, then, he wouldn't be two years old, would he?"

The old gentleman collapsed.
