

WE SHALL HAVE PEACE!

ANOTHER VICTORY. WEST VIRGINIA.

The Republican of West Virginia have achieved a glorious victory. Our majority is 5,000. The Republicans elect all the Congressmen, and have a large majority in both branches of the Legislature. Thus the work goes bravely on.

POLITICAL ITEMS.

In the world to day no prouder name is known as yours. And with Grant to steer the ship of State our flag shall fly the colors. No "Dominion" shall be North of us, and South of us no foe. Our Stars and Stripes in the Canadas, And Hallelujah Mexico!

So, boys! a final bumper. While we all in chorus chant—"For next President we nominate Our own Ulysses Grant!" And if asked what State he hails from, This our sole reply shall be, "From our Appomattox Court House, With its famous apple tree!" For 'twas there our Ulysses That Lee gave up the fight—"Now, boys, 'Tis Grant for President, And God defend the right!"—Miles O'Reilly.

All three gone under—Seymour, Pendleton and Vallandigham.—N. Y. Herald. The next Legislature of Pennsylvania will be more largely Republican than the last. Miss Jennie Collins, of Boston, is making some first rate speeches in that city for Grant and Colfax.

Another celebrated General has become identified with the democratic party—General Deaf. Republicans are offering odds that New York will go for Grant.

Vallandigham has made an application to join the Catholic Church of Dayton. Blair said, "Unless the democracy carry no possible hope of success." He gives it up.

Dix, Chase, A. T. A. S. Gen. Rate and Pierpont have pronounced for Grant. Push on the column.

Pennsylvania has cast her electoral vote for every successful candidate for President since the foundation of the Government.

Montgomery Blair says the Democracy is "bottom side up." Oh Gummy! Gummy! Why this reflection upon Mr. Seymour's baldness.

Seymour to Grant, 1863: Where are your victories? Grant to Seymour, 1865: Where are your victories?

Blair and Seymour have been nailed to the mast by Messrs. Tilden, Belmont and Schell. Very well; then they will go down with Semmes' pirate craft.

Blair to the democracy of Pennsylvania before election: You must carry the State. The democracy to Blair, after election: We couldn't carry it, with you.

Mr. Seymour, of Utica, is no longer in the watermelon line. Four States which are reckoned "some pumpkins" have descended upon him with a squash.

"Little Phil Sheridan" never made a more brilliant charge than when he flashed over the wires that ringing battle cry:—"Every man who loves his country should vote for Grant."

The Nashville GAZETTE predicts that Kentucky "will in a year become the most Radical State of the Union." The moment Grant is elected and free speech and free thought becomes a possibility, the rebound will be tremendous.

The Cincinnati CHRONICLE says Strader, the democratic candidate from that city, was, on the morning of the election, engaged in circulating fraudulent tickets in such a way that he committed a penal offence.

James Kilbourn, an Albany carpenter, is making some of the most effective campaign speeches in the Empire State, and with his coat off and sleeves rolled up, gives his hearers what he calls "jack-plane arguments."

In 1860, the majority in Pennsylvania on the Presidential vote was increased over the vote on the State ticket 26,454, though the whole vote cast was 18,009 less. The democrats simply gave it up as a hopeless case. And so it will be this year.

A Western paper believes that the Republicans will carry Tennessee by a large majority. Nowhere has the foolish action of Hampton, Blair and Forrest, excited more indignation than among the Conservative men of the South.

An astute Western politician and ex-Governor remarked a month ago, "The Republicans will achieve successes at the October elections, and then looking for wholesale desertions from the Democratic ranks!" "This is what we may now look out for."

"My friends, I have sent my adjutant to Washington to stop the draft," said Seymour to the New York rioters. No use for him to send his adjutant to stop the draft from Pennsylvania and Ohio. It can't be done. The draft must chill his very marrow.

The NATION, which has heretofore been rather democratic, says the democracy have now "nothing whatever to hope for except within the limits of New York city; even Mr. Hoffman's defeat, it would seem, is secured by the decisive victory in Pennsylvania, and that no selling out of Mr. Seymour can now give the State to Tammany."

FOR PRESIDENT IN 1869, GEN. U. S. GRANT.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT, HON. SCHUYLER COLFAX

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

HOOTON, ISAAC ECKERT, MARSH HOOPER, DAVID M. HANE, WILLIAM DAVIS, WINTHROP W. KETCHUM, SAMUEL KNORR, BENZ. F. WAGENSELER, CHARLES H. MILLER, GEORGE W. ELDER, JOHN STEWART, JACOB GRAPF, JAMES SULL, HENRY C. JOHNSON, JOHN K. EWING, WILLIAM FURV, ALEXANDER W. CHAFFORD, JAMES S. RUTAN

THE ADVOCATE.

Having taken charge of this paper, we shall endeavor to make it acceptable to the people of Elk county. While we shall advocate, to the best of our ability, the principles of the Republican party, we shall also make it a good family journal, and devote particular attention to local matters, aiding, as far as we are able, the development of the valuable resources of this section of the State, and the building up of the various business interests of the county.

C. B. GOULD.

MR. SEYMOUR'S PLEA.

The popular verdict in the three great Middle States having been addressed to Mr. Seymour's aspirations for the Presidency, he has in desperation taken the stump, and is traveling through the country, soliciting the votes of the people for the highest office in their gift. In this electioneering tour Mr. Seymour has already made two elaborate speeches, at Buffalo and Cleveland, in which his principal argument is, that if his party is successful, it can not do much harm. The elections already held show that the Republicans will retain their Congressional majority, and Mr. Seymour begs for office on the ground that, as Congress will not allow him to carry out the revolutionary principles of his party, he will thus, at all events, be powerless for evil.

It may safely be said the Presidential office was never before degraded by such abject mendacity, but Mr. Seymour's reasoning is its own best refutation. Since the assassination of Mr. Lincoln, the country has had ample opportunity to observe the countless evils of a divided Government in which the Legislature and the Executive are antagonistic. Only the institutions as strong as ours have proved themselves to be, could have survived the fearful strain to which they have thus been exposed, and it is doubtful whether even they could endure a prolongation of this conflict for four years more. Besides this, every interest, material and moral, of the country is suffering under uncertainty inseparable from this perpetual strife within the Government. What the people want is peace and quiet. Elect Grant and every section of the Union settles down to the certainty of a line of policy, to which it speedily accommodates itself; political excitement subsides, and the energies of the community are directed to industrial advancement and repairing the losses and destruction of the war. Elect Seymour, and for four years more we are exposed to all the horrors of uncertainty; political excitement daily increases, and the constant antagonism between the departments of the Government threatens the most fearful complications. This may be desirable for politicians: whose importance is dependent upon strife and turmoil, but to the people, dependent upon their industry for support, it means want and poverty, and the eventual failure of free institutions.

Admitting the truth of all the pacific protestations conveyed in Mr. Seymour's honied phrases, it is therefore evident from his own showing that his election would be the greatest misfortune that could befall the country. The political complexion of the next Congress is already settled by the people, and to choose a President opposed to that majority would be a blunder of which the political sagacity of Americans can never be guilty.

Choose ye on the 3d of November under whose leadership you wish to serve for the next four years. Grant is for peace in all the land. Blair is for introducing war where war has never been before.

DEMOCRATIC FINANCIERING.

Last week at St. Louis, General Blair made a speech, characterized by the New York World as "masterly," in which he gave currency to a statement the Rothschilds had sent half a million of dollars into Pennsylvania to help carry the election. As the chairman of the National Democratic Executive Committee, Augustus Belmont, is American agent of the Rothschilds, General Blair's story if true, may explain where the funds were obtained for the expensive system of naturalization and colonization by which the Democracy expected to carry the State.

We have yet a few days to work before the Presidential election. Let us keep our lamps trimmed and burning, and take every possible precaution against the polling of fraudulent votes, so that we may give an increased majority for the candidates of justice and free popular government.

Freezan of Elk county, remember that the election of Seymour and Blair, would inaugurate revolution in accordance with the declaration of Erank Blair. Further, it will cause total or partial repudiation, the utter prostration of finances, and the consequent stagnation of business of all kinds.

The New York World in a recent editorial, says that there is no use discussing the fact that the young men of the country are not in the Democratic party. This is a remarkable admission and augurs well for the future of the country, as upon the young men alone depends the future prosperity of the party of the country. Young men, see to it that the assertion of the World is made good.

Grant is pledged to the speedy restoration of peace and good order in the Southern States. Frank Blair, the head of the ticket, is pledged to sweep away the re-construction measures which have already done much toward restoring these States to their proper relations in the Union, and which more reduce them to a condition of anarchy and confusion. Which will you support?

The effect of the election of Grant and Colfax will be to crush out the rebel organizations that now exist in the South. Already the Ku Klux Klans are in trepidation. The recent elections have foreshadowed their fate if they continue in their evil ways. After the 4th of March, and by the triumphal election of our candidates, they will be swept away like the autumn leaves, without bloodshed and without confusion.

The recent elections prove conclusively that Grant is to be the next President of the United States, but we must not therefore relax our exertions. Much still remains to be done. We have the result of our labors on the 13th inst. to guide us. We know what Republican voters were absent, and can take measures to secure their attendance on the 3d of November. Do not allow the recent glorious victories to make you lukewarm. Keep the ball rolling.

The principles of the Democratic party are adverse to the government of the people by the people. Their party organs argue in favor of putting the appointive in the hands of the President alone claiming that Congress has no right to hold the President in check, by opposing his improper appointments. If this does not mean the organization of a strong central government, the power of which is to be rested in one man, contrary to the provisions of the Constitution, we confess that we are at loss in regard to its real meaning. If any man, therefore desires to live under a government democratic in name but despotic in reality, let him vote for Seymour and Blair.

Another of Frank Blair's revolutionary utterances has transpired. On the evening of the 16th inst., in a speech, at St. Louis, he declared that if Grant is elected President he will never leave the Presidential mansion alive. We ask all intelligent democrats how they can vote for a man who first advocated revolution, and now openly threatens the assassination of a rival candidate.
