Grew placed upon tickets for congressman-at-large by nomination papers. The Democratic faction, known as the anti administration element, will, it is said, test the legality of the nomination of Hon. James D. Hancock by the Harrisburg Democratic convention of January 19 on the ground that the convention, being a reconvened body, delegates did not have the power to choose a nominee for congressman at large. Should the selection of Hancock be declared illegal the same decision would apply to the Republican nominee, State Senator Markley, the opposition Democratic nominee for the office, has been placed in the field by nomination papers.

ECONOMY PLEADED.

The Poor to Honor the Memory of Heroic Ancestors.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The proposed issue of five per cent. bonds was the subject of two resolutions offered in the Senate this morning by two Populist senators and was subsequently referred to the committee on the bill not even remotely connected with it. Resolutions came from Peffer (Kansas) and Allen (Neb.) and were that there is no lawful authority for issuing and selling of bonds as proposed and that if so issued and sold they will be null and void. The resolutions were laid over. The question was again touched upon in connection with the bill appropriating $40,000 for election stations in Manchester, N. H. to the revolutionaries here. General John Stark, Morgan (Dem., Ala.) said the government was actually too poor to honor the memory of heroic ancestors, when it had to borrow at five per cent. on questionable use of statutes.

Stewart (Rep. Nev.) spoke of bond issues as war measures, although there is no enemy in sight, the invisible enemy being the money power. Daniel (Dem. Va.) spoke of the treasury deficit as likely to be continued and increased for some years by a scheme of taxation which had been proposed, including a Wilson tariff. The Stark amendment bill was passed. Vest (Dem. Mo.) supported the house bill to repeal federal election laws. The Senate adjourned at 3:15 till Monday.

A Committee Will Examine into the Condition of Reading Property.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—The bondholders committee of the Poughkeepsie bridge system met here to-day to consider the present attitude of the Reading railroad receivers toward the property in which they are interested. The committee decided that it would be advisable to thoroughly examine the company's account and the condition of the property before communicating with the bondholders at large. The committee believes the bondholders, under Reading company guaranty of principal and interest, is impregnable and that if any attempt to reduce interest in furtherance of the proposed Reading reorganization plan it should be resisted.

Disturbances Charged.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—There were two very interesting questions engaging the attention of the house to-day one being the proposition submitted by Borrows to substitute the wool clause of the McKinley law for that of the Wilson bill. The proposition was defeated by 77 yeas to 51 nays. It was a strict party. A second proposition was one submitted by Tom Johnson (Ohio), a large manufacturer of steel rails, putting large on the free list, against which discussion Dazell (Rep. Pa.) made some sensational charges against Johnson's business methods. The house took a recess before disposing of the matter and to-morrow morning Dazell will conclude his remarks and Johnson will reply to his allegations.

Mr. Sovereign, in reply, says the matter has been put in the hands of counsel and if reasonable ground for action can be found injunction proceedings will be begun at once.

OSLELL STILL LOADED.

He Received His Analysis of the Johnston Iron Matter's Part in.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—It was a day of amusing incidents and exciting debate in the house to-day. Dazell (Rep. Pa.) continued his remarks begun yesterday specifying certain discrepancies between the theory and practice of Johnson (Dem.) Johnson briefly replied denying Dazell's allegations in detail and deprecating the policy of dragging personalities into the tariff debate, and closed by making another plea to put steel rails on the free list.

Wilson (Dem. W. Va.) Made the Principal Speech in Opposition.

The amendment placing steel rails on the free list was defeated by a vote of 79 to 100. Henderson (Rep. Iowa) offered as an amendment to the agricultural schedule of the Wilson bill the corresponding clause in the McKinley law. This gave rise to some exciting colloquies; one of the most interesting being between Bryan (Dem., Neb.) and Mr. Bonville (Rep. Mo.) recess was then taken till 3 P. M.

PERITO'S FORTUNES OF WAR.

Officers Discharged for Inefficiency—Torpedo Boats Brought from Europe.

NEW YORK, January 20.—The "Herald" has received the following special cable advice from its correspondent at Montevideo:

A correspondent in Rio Janeiro sends word that the rebels gained an important advantage on the night of January 16. Admiral La Gama found out that the government contemplated an attack on Concepcion Island, so he strengthened the rebel garrison there by stealthily landing 250 marines. Accordingly the government troops, when they made their attack, were badly surprised. In the struggle they lost about 100 men, 100 killed and wounded on the rebel side.

Petrolo has Decided to Discontinue with the Services of Gen. Ferraris, owing to his Unsuccessful Conduct of the Recent Attack upon Enzoque.

Several officers sailed from Rio on January 18 for Pernambuco on the Italian steamer Las Palmas, for service on the Nitroberry and the America.

It is rumored here that the rebels have captured Parangana, in the state of Parana, and that 200 were killed in the fight. A mutinous feeling is said to be growing in Petrolo's army, while the rebel troops are full of courage and hopeful of final success. Orders have been received by Petrolo's naval squadron in this harbor to sail for Parangana.

De Gama received from Europe yesterday two torpedo boats and a steamer loaded with ammunition and arms. To-day the Aquilon left the harbor again, bound for Sao Paulo. The Republics boats in the station now outside the harbor entrance are empty every ship which enters or leaves it.

The Commandant at Fort Santa Cruz has been dismissed for allowing the Insurgent vessels to pass and repass under his guns without molestation.

The Brazilian armistice transport Itapo left here this afternoon bound for Pernambuco. Admiral Goncalves is aboard. He will assume command of Petrolo's naval squadron now assembled at Pernambuco. MEXICAN WARRIORS.

Revolutionists Credited with Warnings—Wire in Hands of Insurgents.

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 19.—Startling news has been received from the scene of rebellion in Mexico. A dispatch to the mayor of Juarez says that the city of Chihuahua is in the hands of the rebels.

The dispatch says that the first attack was made by a detachment of revolutionists on the west side of the town, which is called the federal garrison to that point. Immediately the main body of the insurgents rushed in on the east and captured the town, with Santana Perez. There was no sympathy from that source and the revolutionists had an easy victory. How long they will be able to hold the town is another question, for it is certain that a large force of Mexican troops will soon be forwarded to that place, and a bloody battle is anticipated.

For several days it has been reported that the revolutionists were preparing to attack Chihuahua, which is the capital city of that state, but the rumors were not generally credited. It is a difficult matter to secure particulars, as the Mexican authorities have control of the telegraph wires. The above news was learned from an intimate friend of the mayor of Juarez. The attacking force is said to have been composed mainly of Tomachos and Indians, aided by the bands of revolutionists that have been gathering from different sections recently.

HAWAIIAN CORRESPONDENCE.

President Cleveland Laid Another Batch of It Before Congress.

WASHINGTON, JAN. 21.—President Cleveland yesterday laid before congress another batch of the correspondence on Hawaiian affairs which includes the spy correspondence between Minister Willis and President Dole. Mr. Dole reproaches the minister with the unfriendly course of the administration and, being asked afterward by Willis to withdraw those imputations, declines to withdraw any of the letters. Then Willis wrote back asking for specifications and he says: "Up to this hour (Friday, January 5th) no reply has been received to this request, nor have I any intimation when one may be expected. My request for specifications has been in the hands of the minister of foreign affairs since Monday, January 1st, at 6 o'clock. I had hoped to receive it in time to answer by steamer Pekin, leaving to-day at 2 o'clock, especially as Thurston and Hatch, the late vice-president of the provisional government, leave to-morrow on the Australia for the United States. This delay in answering is a great surprise and a matter of regret."

HILLS PET N. Y. AND N. J. BRIDGE BILL VETOED.

PROBABLE MURDER IN INDIANA COUNTY.

The Body of John Campbell Found—Herald's Special Cable—Washington, Jan. 21.—President Cleveland yesterday vetoed the New York and New Jersey bridge bill. The reasons assigned for the veto are that the bill does not prohibit the construction of piers in the river, that the river owners should not be interfered with by the erection of a bridge, that opinions of expert engineers agree that the river at the point fixed for the crossing of the bridge is spanned by a single span, that the bill permits the bridge company to charge an undue amount for the transportation of mail, and that a charter for a similar structure has already been granted by congress to another company and by an act which requires the construction of a single span bridge.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock three men, other negroes or white men having their faces blackened, knocked at the door and asked admittance, which was denied them.

After a short parley the men retired, but a few moments returned with a large piece of timber, with which they burst open the door. The robbers then rushed into the room and demanded money from brother and sister, which was refused. One of the men then covered Miss Darrist with a revolver, while the other took James to an upper room, put a piece of rope around his neck and strung him up to a post until he was black in the face.

The terrified man was then lowered to the floor, and after he revived he told the robbers where they could find some money. The latter proceeded as directed, found a box containing $200 in gold, secured the money and hastily retired. Darrist is a miser and very wealthy.

An Invitation to a Woman.

Queen Hill.
A kindly little word
Is what we want with thee
Just now.
I don't know, O lanky nymph,
That breaks
The first vigilance
And various things
Will soon fly at thy fringed head
Down there, howe'er, evidently
It's time for thee to skip.
To buy some
Liken chicken liver down
A hungry snail.
Don't wait!
Just grab right on
And feed the husband and cash
And all the public pride.
A circumstance of misty royalty
Within thy reach
And come at once
To this appreciative bourse
Where friends draw like the theater:
(Come to New York!
We want to your queenly shape,
Perhaps we, too, will
Diply in love with thee,
And swear that thou art only thou
Shalt reign.)
We hear that thou art fair;
We're used to royal hairees.
We're really stuck on it.
Another chunk more or less
We'll feast on.
No come along, old girl,
And get a new new dress;
Before you lose your freshness;
Before a bad husband—
Has you on your husband.
(Come on, we say,
O lanky nymph.)
