Here is a folio that's grim with age
And yellow and green with mold.
There's the breath of the sea on every page
And the hint of a stanch ship's hold. And here is a treasure from France la bella

Exhaling a faint perfume
Of wedded lily and asphodel
In a garden of song abloom. And this wee little book of puritan mien

And rude, conspicuous print Hath the Yankee flavor of wintergreen, In Walton the brooks a bubbling tell

Where the cheery daisy grows And where in mendow or woodland dwell The butterenp and the rose. But best beloved of books, I ween,

Are those which one perceives

Are hallowed by sshes dropped between

The yellow well thumbed leaves. For it's here a laugh, and it's there a tear, The treasured book is read.

And the ashes betwirt the pages here.

Tell as of one long dead.

But the gradous presence reappears As we read the book again, and the fregrance of precio

Name, pluck vith me in my garden nooks Oh, sweet is the mell of my old, old books

My chitaph and lot them share in my sepulture.

Then when the crack Without a fear a wife shall chide me.
