62 Pennsylvania in the United States Senate.

Wanamaker as a Free Trader.

From the Pennsylvania Times (Philadelphia).
The following resolutions opposing the election of John Wanamaker to the United States Senate—passed in the city of Philadelphia on the 28th of August—were not one word of which was permitted to find its way into the columns of any Philadelphia daily newspaper—the United Mine Workers of America, representing 140,000 men, unambiguously expressed the sentiment of such the larger portion of the community. There can be no question that Wanamaker's candidacy is regarded with disfavor by an overwhelming majority of his fellow citizens, and especially by the hard working men and women who form the most considerable and the most valuable element of this or any other civilized society. In view of all that John Wanamaker is, and all that he stands for, of the methods whereby his prominence has been achieved, and of the means that are being employed to promote the attainment of his ambition, how could it be otherwise?

If Wanamaker were a poor man, if he were no more liberally endowed with worldly goods than his principal rival, no one would suppose for a moment that his name would be seriously considered in connection with an office of a dignified and responsible character as that of United States Senator. He has none of the qualifications of a statesman, neither the ability, nor the experience, nor the education, nor the breadth of view, nor the liberality of spirit. Until as the instance of Mr. Q. Quay and as a reward for his substantial services as a money raiser during the campaign he was made postmaster general in Benjamin Harrison's cabinet, he had never figured to any extent in public beyond his much repudiated administration in Berkeley Springs, West Virginia, and the New York Standard, but all silent now under the restrictive influence of Wanamaker's advertising, greeted his appointment to a cabinet position with shouts of derision and of scathing comment. In this general light it is nothing but his wealth that gives Wanamaker any standing, and that influence alone is sufficient to justify the opposition of those who object to the influence of money in politics and who think that the United States Senate is not to be a millionaire's club.

In the manner in which Wanamaker's wealth has been acquired tells even more loudly against him than the sufficiently damning fact that such wealth constitutes the sole foundation of his candidacy. Wanamaker's wealth represents three things in which the working people of Philadelphia, of Pennsylvania and of the United States are with good reason most justly and irreconcilably opposed. It is the result of a free trade; it represents cheap labor; and it represents that concentration of wealth for the stamping out of competition which is one of the worst abuses of free trade. Of course Wanamaker would deny that he is a free trader, but his business interests are such that he cannot help leaning toward free trade or a tariff for revenue only, which is precisely the same thing and away from the protective position championed by the Republican party and represented by President-elect McKinley. Wanamaker is an importer of foreign goods, of goods that are sold in competition with those of home production, and he wants to get his imported wares through the custom house as cheaply as possible. Indeed, he has had frequent occasions in which he has contested the claims of the government on account of import duties, and some times with good success. He could not consistently stand upon the protection platform. His record and the requirements of his business forbid it.

Then as to cheap labor. Wanamaker gets the best of his worth out of his working people, and when he cannot satisfy himself, he endeavors to import cheap labor from abroad. As the mine workers mention in their resolutions, he on his own is immaterial which—was introduced April 29, 1895, of an offense against the contract labor law of the United States, and fined $1,000, mostly on account of it. The idea of sending to the United States Senate such a man is an offense to all working people.

It is a notable instance of the daily newspaper, both of Philadelphia and New York, where by a striking coincidence he has lately extended his operations, furnishing another strong argument against his election. It is unsafe to place in high public office any man whom the newspapers are afraid to criticize. Wanamaker's control of the daily press alone suffices to make his candidacy a public peril.

By Fair Means or Foul.
In an editorial entitled "Objections to Wanamaker," The Village Record, of West Chester, says: "He is receiving thousands of dollars to attain the coveted seat of Don Cameron, and some of the bitterest and most corrupt contests ever waged for seats in the Pennsylvania Senate and House of Representatives were instigated in a number of counties during the past six months by Wanamaker's Philadelphia agent for the purpose of gaining senatorial votes in such branches of the Legislature. All that is necessary for legislative candidates to secure a sufficient amount of money to prosecute their campaign was an assurance that they were in favor of Wanamaker for United States Senator, and immediately they were overwhelmed with cash. In some instances partisans of the Philadelphia 'prince of merchants' were thus able to buy their way into legislative halls, but in a great majority of those they met the defeat they as richly deserved. But the bright Wanamaker stands out on the scene of the Republican party still remains, and it will require years to heal the demoralization it wrought in some quarters."

What else can be expected when a millionaire's political policy for personal aggrandizement only? He means to satisfy his ambition, no matter at what cost. If he cannot attain his object by fair means he will try foul. He has the money, to spend and if necessary he will not stop at the expenditure of a quarter of a million of dollars to reach the goal on which he has set his heart.

For these and many other reasons Wanamaker is ought to be defeated for United States Senator.

Means Political Prescription.
From the Scranton Tribune.
The candidacy of John Wanamaker, if it should be plausibly understood, was for an ultimate purpose the downing of Quay and the political proscription of all who have been prominent among his friends.

Its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Otto's Cure is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Samples free. Large bottles 50c and 25c.

One thing is certain: it will not do to fool with a bad cold. No one can tell what the end will be. Pneumonia, catarrh, chronic bronchitis, if not consumption, invariably result from a neglected cold. It is surprising too, that bad colds are so often neglected when one remembers how easily and at what little expense they may be cured. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is always prompt and effective, and costs but a trifle: 25 or 50 cents is a trifle as compared with the disastrous effects of a neglected cold. Mr. Abner Mercer, of Dilworthtown, Chester county, Pa., in speaking of this remedy, said: "Sometime ago I had a bad cold and cough. I tried almost everything. Finally Mr. Hunt, the druggist, recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and one 50 cent bottle of it cured me entirely." For sale by Patton Pharmacy, C. W. Hodgkins.

The old lady was right when she said, the child might die if they waited for the doctor. She saved the little one's life with a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. She had used it for cough before. C. W. Hodgkins, Patton Pharmacy.
