heads
May haply cling to the flowering ling
Or the piak and purple heather.
(Mine eyes are blind in the mystic light,
But none the less 'tis a winsome sight.)

When morning breaks and the fairies flee,-When morning breaks and the fairies flee,— (Gossamer threads in the heather)
The moorland shines with glist'ning lines,
Like harps new-strung with gold, and slung
On the pink and purple heather.
(Gossamer threads are all I see,
But none the less are they harps for me.)

And when the wind breathes, far and near,— (Æolian harps in the heather)—
Sweet music rings from the tiny strings,
And wild and free is the harmony
Thro' the pink and purple heather.
(Never a note may reach mine ear,
But Loan the less is it sweet to hear.)
