 An exchange perpetrates the following: Butter is strong at 12 cents and is able to hold its own; yeast cakes are rising steadily; bananas are slipping along at the old price, with an occasional drop; cheese is lively and stirring; syrups are sticking at the former price and are about a pint more to the quart than they were last winter; green apples are gradually growing less; dried apples are swelling the market; chickens are picking up a little.

 A Dysart correspondent writes: "G. A. Pierson appears to be the favorite of the community for postmaster at Dysart. George started out a few years ago here as a barber, then a shoemaker, and finally storekeeper, building up the largest trade between Ashville and Coalport, Frugality excepted. Perfectly temperate in his habits and correct in his business transactions, we have reason to believe he would make an excellent postmaster. At present he is the Justice of the Peace of Dean township."

 Celebrated Her Fifty-Seventh Anniversary.

On Wednesday morning, October 5th, 1898, a pleasant, yet sad reflection passed over the mind of Mrs. S. J. Luther, of St. Augustine, when she realized the time had arrived when she should celebrate the 57th anniversary of her life. The venerable lady expected to celebrate her birthday in the usual way by performing her daily tasks, but in the morning her presence was requested at a quilting not far from her home, which was agreeably accepted. While assisting at the quilting a goodly number of friends and relatives assembled at her home to greet her, should she be present, however she made herself conspicuous by her absence. In this case they were surprised, but Mrs. Luther's presence was requested at home to greet a long-looked-for friend and upon her arrival there the assembly gave their surprise to her. Of course when every one had a tug at her ears she thought the drum of them was torn from the eustachian tube and that she would be obliged to live a life of deafness, but the writer thinks that since her ears stand farther from her head she can hear all the better. The portion of the party which is seemingly most pleasant was that each one had a special work to do; some measured the refreshments, others drank them; some prepared the dinner, others ate it; some lectured on the delicacies of the season, some rendered the music, some skimmed the milk, and we suppose a few told stories. Mrs. Luther received many presents from her unexpected visitors and she sincerely thanks the donors for them and the pleasant time shown to her on that day. Among those present were the following: Lawrence Miller and wife, Lawrence Wyland and wife, H. J. Dumm and wife, Albert Reffner and wife, Mrs. Jas. Reffner and Mrs. Albert Hobbie, of Spangler; Jno. Bearer, Esq., and wife, L. J. Bearer and wife, Jno. A. Bearer and wife, of Cymbria; Michael Lantz and wife, of Hopper Valley; D. A. Luther and wife and Joe Steich, of Carrolltown; W. D. O'Hara, of Fallentimber; Thos. Gittings, Jas. F. Davis and wife, T. M. Sheehan and wife, C. L. Luther and wife, Herman P. Dishart and James Kingston, of St. Augustine. Mrs. Luther longs for the time when it will be repeated, but she only asks for a previous warning.
