Ficture of George Ellot.

George Ellot was at this time about fifty, but looked years older. She wore, as she always did, a plain silk dress, tonight having a white shawl about her shouldrers and light gloves in her hand, being indeed dressed for the opera. Some people have talked and written of the ugliness of this great woman; this sort of criticism recalls a famous scene in "Middlemarch." "Mr Casaubon has a wart on his nose," said pert little Cella to her sister. "I dare say he has." was Dorothea's dignified rebuke, "when certain people look at him." And thus George Eliot in some eves was ugly because, forsooth, she lacked dimpled cheeks, round eyes, and would we had more of it in the world!
