Strive To Be Beautiful That You May Be Loved.

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD HAVE A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION.

Hair Destroyer.

Hair on the Face, Neck or Arms Instantly Dissolved, and the growth never destroyed without the slightest injury to the most delicate skin, by using this marvellous liquid.

It is absolutely harmless and positive in results. Apply for a few minutes and the hair disappears as if by magic. It Cannot Fail. It instantly and decisively destroys the life principle of hair, leaving the skin clear, beautiful and hairless, and will never grow again. No stove, electric or powder process can produce such results. It is prepared privately by myself and has never been advertised. It is only at the earnest solicitation of my best customers that I now place it before the public. Beautiful women everywhere owe their charming complexion and matchless beauty to the use of Mme. Lourine's Face Beautifier.

Nor should neglect her skin and complexion any more than her teeth or hair. Defects of the skin are even more conspicuous and displeasing. Covering the skin with paints, powders and cosmetics does not preserve beauty. Put my Face Beautifier does, it brings back the color of youth to your cheeks, it restores the tissues and makes the flesh firm and plump. It acts at a point, giving new life to the skin, producing firm healthful flesh, with the flexibility of youth. It prevents the cracks from sinking into and in this manner produces the formation for a firm, healthy flesh. By its emollient properties the pores are cleansed, softened and freed from matter that causes the skin to harden into unsightly wrinkles and furrows.

PRICE, $1.00 PER BOTTLE.

Sent by Mail Securely Sealed in Plain Wrapper.

If you are troubled with any imperfection of skin or complexion or with superfluous hair, would I will cheerfully give you prompt, personal and strictly confidential advice based on my years of experience. Being a woman I know of the delicacy of such matters as these and act accordingly.

Mme. LOURINE.

An Elopement.

A deserted husband and child, and a ruined home is the result of the elopement of Mrs. Milt Barner and John Gannor, a tramp "star boarder" who has been boarding at Mr. Barner's home for about two months, and who first came to the house as a tramp and begged something to eat, and afterwards secured work at Riley's mines. His presence soon slipped into love and on Labor Day while Mr. Barner was at work at the Clay Works, Mrs. Barner sent Hazel, her little daughter but two and one-half years old, with her sister, who was staying with her, to the picnic in Short's grove, and then taking a trunk and a couple of grips, packed up her clothes and some of Mr. Barner's clothes, and with the boy baby, which is about six months old, hastily decamped with the boarder for parts unknown, leaving Mr. Barner without money (as she always carried the pocket book) and worst of all, heavy bills to pay, she had contracted unbeknown to Mr. Barner. Mr. Barner has the sincere sympathy of all who are acquainted with him as he is an honest, sober and industrious man and a kind and affectionate husband and father and not only did his own work but helped her with the house work and children after a hard day's work at the Clay Works.

Visited Comrade Behe.

A jolly party composed of Dr. J. B. Noonan, Squire Geo. Boone, John Gantz, John Nagle, Geo. Cassidy and Valentine Dumm visited their old comrade and friend, Luke Behe, at his home near St. Augustine Sunday. Mr. Behe has been ill for some time of nervous prostration and the result of a bullet wound received in the Civil war, from which he is suffering also, and the visit of his kind friends acted as a nerve tonic for he was able to enjoy a hearty supper with them, which Mrs. Behe quickly arranged and although not being prepared for so many, yet the supper was fit for a prince and the table laden with all the delicacies of the season, to which ample justice was done. After a long chat over past events, etc. and wishing Mr. Behe a speedy recovery the party started home. The only event worthy of note on the return trip was the "fast" driving by Mr. Dumm, which threatened a runaway, but fortunately all arrived home well pleased with their visit.

New System for Registering Deeds.

One of the acts passed by the recent legislature and approved by the governor, is to establish a new system for the registering and recording of deeds in all counties of the state having over 5,000 inhabitants. The law makes it compulsory that every deed transferring real estate, be first registered in the county commissioners' office. One of the objects is to prevent fraud and error in valuation and assessors' returns. The longer this law is to live of course the greater the number of real estate transfers will be recorded and finally the records in the commissioner's office will contain a pretty accurate account of the county's real estate. The practical result will be to increase the valuation in the county, and bring more money in the shape of taxes to the county treasurer.

Reduction in Rates of Fare.

The New York Central & Hudson River railroad company has issued instructions to ticket agents and conductors to use a maximum distance of ninety-four miles in making detachments from mileage books between Corning and Williamsport and intermediate stations. This reduces the rate of fare to holders of mileage books to $1.88 between Corning and Williamsport and makes proportionate reductions to other points. New York Central one-thousand mile books sold at $20, good on 6,000 miles of road, unlimited as to time in which they may be used, are the most convenient, liberal and economical form of transportation. Ask agents about them.

Better than gold is our $2 shoes; compare them with any $2.50 or $3 shoe you ever bought. They'll bear inspection. For sale only at the Patton Supply Co's. store.

A Long Dog.

A lady living on Park avenue, Walnut hills, was recently presented with a full blooded imported dachshund, a living exemplification of the saying, "Man wants but little here below, but he wants that little long." This dog in particular has all the fine points of a true dachshund. Its length is at least four times its height, and its legs are stumpy and have the conventional crook of a golf stick at the foot. The lady has several other dogs and is quite a fancier of canines. The other evening a gentleman called who had heard a great deal of the celebrated animal. As he entered the darkened parlor a small yellow dog of no particular breed arose from a rug in front of the grate and, unnoticed by the gentleman, slowly walked toward the door. The dog crossed half way over the threshold and stood in such a position that a person in the parlor could just see its hind legs and tail. At that moment the maid lighted the gas, and the dachshund poised its head inquiringly through another open door. The gentleman gazed in amazement at the head of the dachshund peering at him from one doorway and the hindquarters of another dog visible in the other doorway, and then in the hearing of the servant ejaculated:

"Lord a-mighty! I heard that this dachshund of hers was a long one, but this animal certainly beats my time!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Drawn at Night.

The architect and his friend the builder were driving back to the former's office. They had been out to the edge of the city to look at some work on which they were engaged. As they drove by a certain house the builder looked up at it proudly, saying: "There is a house that I built myself. I not only built it, but I drew all the plans. Every bit of work in it is mine." The architect looked at the house and smiled in a provoking way.

The builder noticed the smile and looked at the house in a new light. "How hard I worked on that!" he said. "In the daytime I had to do something else, but every night I would sit up late drawing on those plans. I drew on 'em every night for a month."

The architect looked at the house again and smiled once more, and the builder saw him.

Again he turned his eyes toward the product of his brain, twisted his neck to squint at it after the carriage had passed it. Then he looked at the architect with humility. "It looks as if those plans were drawn at night, doesn't it?" he said, and there was pathos in his voice.—Worcester Gazette.

Pools on Murder Cases.

Bookmaking in murder cases is one of the forms of gambling here, which has opened a new field to the men who are willing to lay odds. The suggestion smacks of the ridiculous, but a gaudily dressed young man, with a few "notes" in his left hand and $40 in money in his right, appeared in the criminal branch of the supreme court here a few days ago. "Whim's on trial?" he asked an officer. Being told, he consulted his notes and said:

"Let's see. Lawyer Blank, defense, insanity; charge, murder." And then, turning to the doorman again, "I'll bet you 1 to 10 he's acquitted."

The court officer looked puzzled, but was astounded when the gaudily dressed informed him he was making "book." The court officer saw that he made tracks, but not before over $900 in bets had been placed on the outcome of the case. An investigation showed that there are a large number of these bookmakers doing business around the New York courts, and their profits are said to be very large.—New York Letter in Pittsburg Dispatch.

Lander's Cravat.

At a friendly dinner at Gore House, when it was the most delightful of houses, his dress—say, his cravat or shirt collar—had become slightly disarranged on a hot evening, and Count d'Orsay laughingly called his attention to the circumstance as we rose from table. Lander became flushed and greatly agitated. "My dear Count d'Orsay, I thank you! My dear Count d'Orsay, I thank you from my soul for pointing out to me the abominable condition to which I am reduced! If I had entered the drawing room and presented myself before Lady Blessington in so absurd a light, I would instantly have gone home, put a pistol to my head and blown my brains out."—"Lander's Letters."

Selwyn's Curious Taste.

George Selwyn had a strange but not uncommon passion for seeing strange bodies, especially those of his friends. He would go any distance to gratify this pursuit. Lord Holland was laid up very ill at Holland House shortly before his death. George Selwyn sent to ask how he was, and whether he would like to see him. Lord Holland answered: "Oh, by all means! If I'm alive tomorrow I shall be delighted to see George, and I know that if I am dead he will be delighted to see me!"—Letter of General Fox.

An Inference.

"Such are the delusions to which the human senses and understanding are susceptible," remarked the man who doesn't care whether you comprehend him or not, "that, logically speaking, it is absolutely impossible to be absolutely sure of anything."

"Dear me!" exclaimed Miss Cayenne. "I didn't know you were one."

"What?"

"A weather prophet."—Washington Star.

The Difference.

"Pa, what's the difference between talent and genius?"

"A man with talent is able to build for himself the finest monument in the country. The public usually has to provide the monument for a genius."—Boston Journal.
