Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

will generally correct this deficiency. If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

See and be convinced. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

THE OFFICIAL COUNT.

Below will be found a summary, giving the plurality of each Republican candidate over his Democratic opponent and also his majority over all running for the office:

Table with 2 columns: Office and Candidate. Rows include For President (McKisley over Bryan), For Auditor-General (Hardenbergh over Meek), For Congressman-at-Large (Grow over Green), For Congress (Evans over Walters), State Senator (Stinson over Hall), For Assembly (Shumaker over Sheridan), Poor Director (Miller over P'Neil), Jury Commissioner (Shaffer over Lantry).

As to the Congressional and Senatorial Districts, official figures for the other counties are not at hand, but their original computations prove to have been as close as those of Cambria, Mr. Evans' plurality will be close to 13,600—2,218 from Cambria, 5,274 from Blair, 4,210 from Somerset, and 1,198 from Doddard; and that of Mr. Stinson 5,325—2,476 from Cambria and 3,848 from Blair.

NEARLY every Senator and Representative who has been to Washington since the election, regardless of political affiliation, has expressed pleasure that the result of the election was so overwhelming that the talk of fraud and corruption which has dogged so many after some of our National elections has been conspicuously absent this time. It is also almost generally agreed that it was the great prosperity of the country that brought about the result rather than blind devotion to any political party. That belief is based upon the general idea that the average man who is doing well is averse to taking the chances involved in making a change, even when he believes the change might be beneficial. The re-joining of the dominant party has also been remarkably free from partisan rancor, which has had a good effect upon the spirits of the defeated and added to the all around pleasantness.

REPRESENTATIVE PAYNE, of New York, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which will meet on the 20th inst., to consider the question of a reduction of internal revenue taxes, does not pretend to say what the committee will do, but it is very evident from the guarded talk that he isn't expecting a bill that will make sweeping reductions. There is good ground for the belief that the bill which will be reported to the House will not make reductions of more than $20,000,000 a year, and even that much would be doubtful if the President had not so strongly committed himself in favor of reducing these taxes. The prevailing idea in official and Congressional circles seems to be that uncertainty as to the immediate future in China and in the Philippines, make it advisable for this government to have a stiff surplus of cash on hand to meet any possible emergency.

JUDGING from what is being printed on the subject, it might be supposed that all the campaign liars had been assigned to the job of writing up the proposed magnificence and grandeur of the second inauguration of President McKinley. In order to make their stories picturesque and startling, not a few of these writers have entirely dispensed with that very useful article known as common sense. The mere ceremony of swearing in the chosen ruler of more than 70,000,000 will of itself be imposing and magnificent, and there can be no doubt but that it will occur amidst proper surroundings. But all the talk about surrounding it with all the gorgeousness and costliness of the greatest royal pageant Europe has ever seen—the London Jubilee Procession—is poppycock, and can only find believers among those who do not know where the money comes from to pay the expenses of inaugurating a President. Not one cent of it comes out of public money. The residents of Washington always subscribe in advance the amount the committee estimates will be needed, so that the committee will not be hampered in its work by lack of ready money. The receipts from the sale of tickets to the inaugural ball, privileges to the street stands, etc., usually aggregate an amount large enough to pay all expenses and the money advanced to the committee is returned to the subscribers, but it is not always so, and the committee does not bind itself to return it. It must be evident that the amount raised in this way will not be large enough to provide much royal gorgeousness.

BEECH CREEK ROAD.

To Undergo Certain Very Important Changes.

A. G. Palmer has resigned as superintendent of the Beech Creek and Fall Brook branches of the New York Central railroad, and J. B. Stewart, superintendent of the Hudson division of the West Shore road, has been appointed to take his place. The change was effected Wednesday last. The resignation of Mr. Palmer is a great surprise to his many friends. He has been in the service of the New York Central company since his boyhood days. He was first a member of an engineer corps; then he was appointed superintendent of the Eastern division; from that position he was transferred to the superintendency of the Beech Creek road, when the construction of the road was begun, and when the Beech Creek and the Fall Brook roads were merged he assumed the management of both.

In this connection the Williamsport Sun says that Mr. Palmer's resignation is the beginning of a series of most important changes in the running of this division of that railroad. It is said that in a short time much of the Beech Creek shipment of soft coal now being transferred to the Reading at Newberry will be diverted to the Fall Brook; that the New York Central is arranging a direct run to sea board out of Clearfield district without shipment over other roads than its own. This will mean the removal of a great deal of work from the Newberry Junction yards, and the creation of addition yards at Jersey Shore Junction. The resignation of Mr. Palmer, so it is said, followed the recent visit to this road of Mr. Vanderbilt, who after his trip over the Pennsylvania division outlined a course to be pursued.

To Hold Booms.

The Williamsport lumbermen, who have thousands of feet of logs in the river streams that they were unable to get in this season, will construct three booms, one at Curwensville, another at Hoyt's Dam and a third at Mahanefey. The logs above Curwensville will be driven into the booms, to be kept there until next spring, and those east of Curwensville will be banded, in the event that a freshet does not come. It would have cost the lumbermen many thousand dollars to have banded their logs, which would have been necessary had not the boom scheme been thought of.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will quickly heal the worst burns and scalds and not leave a scar. It can be applied to cuts and raw surfaces with prompt and soothing effect. Use it for piles or skin diseases. Beware of worthless counterfeits. C. W. Hodgkins.

FIGURES AND EYES.

An Indication of Advancing Age That Admits of No Compromise.

"As we grow older," remarked the man who was doing that at the rate of a week every seven days, "we begin to observe that we seem to need more light when we read or that the print of the newspaper that we have been reading with ease for ever so many years is not quite as good as it used to be, or that we can distinguish only letters a little better if we hold them farther away than usual, but we are very slow indeed to observe that the real cause of it is that we are growing old, and we rather resent the suggestion of some kindly friend that we need glasses."

"We resent glasses especially because they are the visible sign of our weakness, and all the world may know by them what we fondly think they have not yet discovered—to wit, that our eyesight is failing. I am that myself, or was, and I stood the glasses off as long as I could, and could get along with my reading almost any time. Of course, I could not make out every letter, but I could get enough to complete the word, and oftentimes I could supply whole words that were indistinct by the sense of what I was reading. "But it was the figures that got me down at last. Ah, those figures! There is no context there, and when I saw dates or numerals of any kind the blur of the years shut out all their outlines, and to save me I could not tell what was before me. I made mistakes so often in reading aloud to my wife that she would laugh at me, though she never caught me on the letters, and notwithstanding many was the time I guessed at about half I was reading. But figures would not stand any footing like that, and at last I acknowledged that it wasn't the type of the paper or got myself a pair of glasses. Now I can tell a figure as well as a letter, and I discover they are printed quite as plainly as ever, though I was sure they were blurred before."—New York Sun.

ROSE TO THE OCCASION.

The American Girl, as Consul, Managed to Win the Trick.

A man who is back from a visit to Paris and Germany is telling a story which ought to give the great American eagle flap his wings with pride. It happened at a little railway station in Germany. Gruenwald by name, while the man who tells about it was waiting for a train on a branch line which connects with the main line at that place. Besides himself there were at the station a party of American tourists of the kind you read about in English books and an English family of the kind you read about in American books. The Americans were loud voiced and ungrammatical. They laughed at a great deal and they are peaches, the stories of which they threw at the poor tourist to test their marksmanship. They were persons for whom Uncle Sam himself would have felt apologetic, and they displeased the haughty British matron as greatly. To the younger members of her family, a snaky boy and a lanky and "leggy" girl of the typical elongated English variety, they were objects of great interest, however, and the girl in particular edged nearer and nearer to her mother's great disgust. At last she was so near that mamma could endure it no longer. "Clara," she called in her loudest voice, "come away at once. You might be mistaken for one of those disgusting Americans!"

A pretty young American looked up and swept Clara from head to foot with a calm glance. Then she went on eating peaches. "Don't worry, madam," she called out cheerily. "There's no danger of that—with them feet!"—Washington Post.

He Despised Tobacco.

The healthful or reverse action of tobacco has been an absorbing question for decades and one hard to settle. Emerson, cautious as he was, was once drawn into a discussion on the subject and, being a nonuser of the weed, was an ardent advocate of its abolition as a marketable commodity.

"Did you ever think about the logic of stimulants?" he asked. "Nature supplies her own. It is astonishing what she will do if you give her a chance. In how short a time the gentle exaltation of a cup of tea is needed! Conversation is an excitant, and the series of intoxications it creates is healthful. But tobacco, tobacco—what rude error is that with which to pry into the delicate tissues of the brain!"

A Bold Defense.

"An enraged man once put the president of a court martial in a difficult position," says a writer in Cassell's Magazine. "The court martial was trying the soldier for some fault or other drawn into a trap, and had been given the president asked the prisoner if he had anything to say in his defense. "Well, sir," said the man, "I can't see how this case can be sent to the Major Jones has been reading a paper under the table the 'ole-blooming' time and Captain Smith has been making me into a lunatic on the hot thing and as for Lieutenant Brown, 'e 'snt 'nd his commission a year, and don't count any ways!"

Powers of Endurance.

"When my grandfather was a young man," said the boy with a such nose, "he could run ten miles without stopping." "I heard my grandfather make a prayer 25 minutes long once at a very early hour," responded the boy with the dirty face, "and it didn't leave him!"—Chicago Tribune.
