

Patton Courier.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. One copy, one year, in advance, $1.00. Advertising rates made known upon application.

Oysters at Mellon's. Where is our depot? Winter did not last long. P. N. Corsets at Evans Sister.

Quite a snow storm Saturday. Oysters, Oysters at Mellon's. Save money by buying at Mellon's.

Go to Hastings next Monday evening. All fresh canned goods at the Cash Grocery.

J. T. Fry came up from Mahaffey Thursday. Winter and summer all in one month these days.

For a nice clean shave call at Garfield's shop. Miss Susie Wentz has a music class of 74 pupils.

Leave your orders for Sunday papers at Kinkend's. Infants long and short dresses at Evans Sisters.

J. E. Johnson, Barnesboro was in Patton Saturday. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Brown a daughter Sunday.

You can get oysters in every style at the City Restaurant. Rough weather for the carpenters having outside work.

For a nice clean lunch be sure and go to the City Restaurant. Call in and see the fine line of trimmed hats at Evans Sisters.

The gobblers are getting gobbled for the roast a week from to-day. Wm. Yeckley departed Tuesday morning for a visit to Pittsburg.

E. J. Hoover, of Clearfield, was a business visitor to this place Friday. Mrs. John Scheid and two sons are visiting relatives in DuBois this week.

E. W. Cowher smiles over the arrival of a young daughter at his home Monday. Mrs. C. A. Repsher and children are visiting relatives in Carrolltown this week.

The Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Railway has a new time table this week. Are we going to have a new depot—will tell you when the robbers come again.

Go to Evan Sisters for a fine line of Jap Silks. Also Taffata in polka dot and plain. The Commercial hotel in this place has been wired and electric lights placed therein.

H. A. Englehart and Lester Larimer, of Ebensburg, attended to business in Patton Saturday. Miss Mollie McLaughlin of Philadelphia, is visiting in Patton, the guest of Miss Myrtle Hoover.

Geo. H. Thomas, of Woodlawn, Beaver county, Pa. spent this week in Patton among friends. Mr. and Mrs. P. Little, of near Loretto, departed Monday for a ten days visit in West Virginia.

The blacksmith shop building on the corner of Fourth and Beech avenues is nearing completion. Mrs. Sophia Hanson, of Clearfield, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Holter this week.

Geo. Worth and S. K. Snyder drove to Westover Monday. They took their guns—did not see the game. John C. Gould was so far improved in health Monday as to be able to look after his plumbing business.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Sheehan, of near St. Augustine, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dietrick Sunday. Hon. James Flynn, of Altoona, came over to Patton Monday to look after his lumbering interests in this vicinity.

Mrs. W. H. Sandford, returned home from Philipsburg one day last week, where she had been visiting her parents. Miss Anna Moore, of Patton, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mrs. William Moore.

One of the boys, Miss in Patton is in Magee Avenue. Board of Health and Mr. Atzin, spent his day in Patton.

Miss Anna Moore, of Patton, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mrs. William Moore. One of the boys, Miss in Patton is in Magee Avenue.

Board of Health and Mr. Atzin, spent his day in Patton. Miss Anna Moore, of Patton, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mrs. William Moore.

One of the boys, Miss in Patton is in Magee Avenue. Board of Health and Mr. Atzin, spent his day in Patton.

Miss Anna Moore, of Patton, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mrs. William Moore. One of the boys, Miss in Patton is in Magee Avenue.

Board of Health and Mr. Atzin, spent his day in Patton. Miss Anna Moore, of Patton, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mrs. William Moore.

One of the boys, Miss in Patton is in Magee Avenue. Board of Health and Mr. Atzin, spent his day in Patton.

Miss Anna Moore, of Patton, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mrs. William Moore. One of the boys, Miss in Patton is in Magee Avenue.

Board of Health and Mr. Atzin, spent his day in Patton. Miss Anna Moore, of Patton, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mrs. William Moore.

One of the boys, Miss in Patton is in Magee Avenue. Board of Health and Mr. Atzin, spent his day in Patton.

Miss Anna Moore, of Patton, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mrs. William Moore. One of the boys, Miss in Patton is in Magee Avenue.

The Erwood Stock Co., which played at Hastings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is one of the finest that ever visited this section.

Frank S. Davidson, the popular comedian, carries his own band and orchestra. He shows at Hastings the first three nights of next week.

Mrs. R. McPherson, of Clearfield, and Mrs. Edith B. Dill, of New York, both former residents of Patton, visited friends and relatives here Monday.

Mrs. A. W. Byers, of New Washington, accompanied by her son, O. N. Byers, postmaster at Newtonburg, visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. S. Tozer, over Sunday.

By an explosion of dynamite at Driftwood, Pa., Herman Smith was literally torn to pieces. He was throwing some dynamite which had been frozen.

Fragrant as ripe fruit—Pure as a mountain spring—Hoary with age and blossoming to men when rightly used—that's Harper Whiskey? Sold by W. L. Nicholson, Palmer House, Patton, Pa.

Thursday morning the electric lights were cut off about 6 o'clock on account of a break-down of the dynamo. Electrician G. E. Worth repaired the machine and had light for the patrons at 5 p. m.

G. J. Albert, the Hastings photographer, spent Wednesday night in town with friends. Carrolltown News. The News makes a mistake in stating that Mr. Albert is of Hastings. He is now running a gallery in Patton.

Arrangements are being made to hold Mount St. Aloysius Academy at Creston with steam, a Johnstown firm having been awarded the contract for the plumbing work. It is expected to have steam building heated by December 1.

Frank Warfield and John P. Harris, Jr., of Bellefonte, stopped at Patton Friday while en route to their home after having spent several days near Coalport hunting. They succeeded in bagging a nice lot of rabbits, pheasants, and quail.

Galitzin was visited by a fire Friday that practically ruined the large store and hotel of E. Nelson. The flames were confined to the interior of the building by hard work of the firemen. The loss of several thousands is partly covered by insurance.

One precinct of the town of Batavia, Ill., is entitled to carry the banner of Republicanism at the head of the procession. Its entire vote of 575 was cast for McKinley, a political phenomenon that probably is unprecedented. No candidate ever before had the honor of such an overwhelming majority. President McKinley should do something handsome for Batavia.

Ed. A. Mellon and Dr. Seitz, returned Friday from the camp of the Patton Hunting Club, which is located in Clinton county. They report the killing of plenty of small game, but no member has thus far been lucky enough to bring down a deer. Joe Ricker and Howard Dinsmore returned Saturday evening. The latest report is that the hunters have succeeded in killing two deer.

The plays presented by the Frank Davidson company are all pure as a breath of mountain air. Not a single objectionable feature can be found throughout the performances. Here are plays to which you can take your mother, your sister or someone else's sister with the assurance that they will thoroughly enjoy every moment of the three entertainments. The dates are Nov. 26, 27 and 28, at Hastings Opera House.

A young woman of Cincinnati, O., who acted as bridesmaid at the wedding of a friend, found a libel in the piece of bride's cake which she ate. This was regarded as proof that she would die an old maid. To prove that the sign was false she agreed to marry the man to whom she was engaged at once, and invited all the wedding guests to be present at her wedding. A minister was found, and the ceremony was performed within three hours of the time when she was acting as bridesmaid.

After several visits to inspect coal deposits in a section of mountainous country rarely visited in Fulton county, John A. Young and S. W. Shoupe, of Hagerstown, Md., have secured options on a large tract of anthracite coal land covering a period of over five years. One of the veins of coal is three miles in length, and at one point, where two veins meet in a ravine, it is about seventeen feet wide, and the bottom of the vein is plainly visible. The deposits are on one side of a mountain of the Tuscarora range, which runs northward into the great anthracite region.

Wade It Fit the Name. "Red Rock, N. Y." said a man who spent some time there, "isn't much of a place, but there is something interesting about it that I fancy all the world doesn't know. The present name is not the one it has always borne, and what its other name was I don't know. Whatever it was, the people did not like it and concluded they would change it. There was no particular reason why they should call it Red Rock, but that was determined upon, and so Red Rock it became.

"Then in the course of time strangers of an inquiring turn of mind began to ask why the place had such a name, and as no reason could be given newcomers to the neighborhood began to want a name that meant something. This insistence grew so strong that the old residents began to look around for a reason for the name of their place, and at last they found a huge boulder near by which they said was what had suggested the name. But the boulder was gray instead of red, and the progressists insisted that that would not do. At last the old timers hit upon a new plan, and procuring a barrel of red paint, they painted the big rock red.

"Colonel Anderson was a wonderful stamper. He was most emphatically a rough diamond. In the rough and tumble, catch-as-you-can style of debating he never had a superior in Missouri, which is saying a great deal. He was an adept in the use of every species of oratorical weapon—Champ Clark in Naturalist Evening Post.

Wouldn't Sell the House. The house in which Joan of Arc was born is still faithfully preserved in pious veneration at Domremy, where it is looked upon almost in the light of a shrine. Presumably invariably cross themselves and utter a prayer for protection as they go by.

The story goes that a rich and eccentric Englishman tried hard to buy the property of a farmer named Girardin. The Englishman offered to let him name his own price, but the old man held firm. "No, no, no," he cried. "I would not sell it even to a Frenchman, much less to a foreigner and especially an Englishman. People here would call me a traitor and a coward were I to part with the house from which Joan of Arc set out to serve France."

The Englishman convinced himself that further bargaining was useless and went his way. Soon after an officer from the king's household arrived in the village and asked to speak with Girardin. Before the whole village assembled in the street, he said: "Girardin, the king has learned that you have refused to sell your house to an Englishman. He desires to reward you, but not in coin. He knows that you no more want the money of the French than of the English, therefore has he commanded me to present you with the cross of the Legion of Honor."

Pins. Queen Catherine obtained pins from France, and in 1543, an act was passed. "That no person shall put to sale any pinnes but only such as shall be double checked in the house sold, and fast to the shaft of the pinnes, well smoothed, the shaft well shapen, the points well round filed, cauted and slanted."

At this time most pins were made of brass, but many were also made of iron, with a brass surface. France sent a large number of pins to England until about the year 1820. In this year one John Tibby started pinmaking in Gloucestershire. So successful was his venture that he soon had 1200 persons working. These pins made at Stroud were held in high repute.

In 1826 pinmakers combined and founded a corporation. The industry was carried on at Stroud and Birmingham, the latter becoming the chief center. In 1775 prizes were offered for the first native made pins and needles in Christna, and during the war in 1812 pins fetched enormous prices.

This vary from 2 1/2 inches in length to the small gilt automaton's pin; 4500 weighing about an ounce—Good Woods.

A Legal Decision. A correspondent, referring to a recent article in Law Notes on "The Grammar of the Courts," calls attention to the following legal decision of Sir John Taylor Coleridge in the case of Turkey against Thomas, S. C. and P. 163, 34 B. C. L. 212. It has been suggested as a doubt by the learned counsel for the defendant whether the rule of the road applies to saddle horses or only to carriages. Now I have no doubt that it does."—Law Notes.

An Accident. Little Bessie having been punished for misbehavior, slunk to the other end of the room, crying. Her mother turned to view her repentance, but found her engaged in making faces at her. "Why Bessie," said her mother, "how can you do so?" "Oh, mamma," answered the little girl, "I was trying to smile at you, but my face slipped."—London Answers.

Still Free. After two solid hours of moonlight and anti-interruption she thought she had him. "I admit that you are the swiftest girl in the whipsawed." "But the doctor has forbidden me sweets," he added.

And the sensitive moon retired behind a cloud. Philadelphia Record.

An astronomer declares that Jupiter is in the state that our earth was 34,000,000 years ago. Those who can remember back 34,000,000 years will understand what this means.

A man can walk a mile without moving more than a couple of feet.—Chicago News.

Wade It Fit the Name. "Red Rock, N. Y." said a man who spent some time there, "isn't much of a place, but there is something interesting about it that I fancy all the world doesn't know. The present name is not the one it has always borne, and what its other name was I don't know. Whatever it was, the people did not like it and concluded they would change it. There was no particular reason why they should call it Red Rock, but that was determined upon, and so Red Rock it became.

"Then in the course of time strangers of an inquiring turn of mind began to ask why the place had such a name, and as no reason could be given newcomers to the neighborhood began to want a name that meant something. This insistence grew so strong that the old residents began to look around for a reason for the name of their place, and at last they found a huge boulder near by which they said was what had suggested the name. But the boulder was gray instead of red, and the progressists insisted that that would not do. At last the old timers hit upon a new plan, and procuring a barrel of red paint, they painted the big rock red.

"Colonel Anderson was a wonderful stamper. He was most emphatically a rough diamond. In the rough and tumble, catch-as-you-can style of debating he never had a superior in Missouri, which is saying a great deal. He was an adept in the use of every species of oratorical weapon—Champ Clark in Naturalist Evening Post.

Wouldn't Sell the House. The house in which Joan of Arc was born is still faithfully preserved in pious veneration at Domremy, where it is looked upon almost in the light of a shrine. Presumably invariably cross themselves and utter a prayer for protection as they go by.

The story goes that a rich and eccentric Englishman tried hard to buy the property of a farmer named Girardin. The Englishman offered to let him name his own price, but the old man held firm. "No, no, no," he cried. "I would not sell it even to a Frenchman, much less to a foreigner and especially an Englishman. People here would call me a traitor and a coward were I to part with the house from which Joan of Arc set out to serve France."

The Englishman convinced himself that further bargaining was useless and went his way. Soon after an officer from the king's household arrived in the village and asked to speak with Girardin. Before the whole village assembled in the street, he said: "Girardin, the king has learned that you have refused to sell your house to an Englishman. He desires to reward you, but not in coin. He knows that you no more want the money of the French than of the English, therefore has he commanded me to present you with the cross of the Legion of Honor."

Pins. Queen Catherine obtained pins from France, and in 1543, an act was passed. "That no person shall put to sale any pinnes but only such as shall be double checked in the house sold, and fast to the shaft of the pinnes, well smoothed, the shaft well shapen, the points well round filed, cauted and slanted."

At this time most pins were made of brass, but many were also made of iron, with a brass surface. France sent a large number of pins to England until about the year 1820. In this year one John Tibby started pinmaking in Gloucestershire. So successful was his venture that he soon had 1200 persons working. These pins made at Stroud were held in high repute.

In 1826 pinmakers combined and founded a corporation. The industry was carried on at Stroud and Birmingham, the latter becoming the chief center. In 1775 prizes were offered for the first native made pins and needles in Christna, and during the war in 1812 pins fetched enormous prices.

This vary from 2 1/2 inches in length to the small gilt automaton's pin; 4500 weighing about an ounce—Good Woods.

A Legal Decision. A correspondent, referring to a recent article in Law Notes on "The Grammar of the Courts," calls attention to the following legal decision of Sir John Taylor Coleridge in the case of Turkey against Thomas, S. C. and P. 163, 34 B. C. L. 212. It has been suggested as a doubt by the learned counsel for the defendant whether the rule of the road applies to saddle horses or only to carriages. Now I have no doubt that it does."—Law Notes.

An Accident. Little Bessie having been punished for misbehavior, slunk to the other end of the room, crying. Her mother turned to view her repentance, but found her engaged in making faces at her. "Why Bessie," said her mother, "how can you do so?" "Oh, mamma," answered the little girl, "I was trying to smile at you, but my face slipped."—London Answers.

Still Free. After two solid hours of moonlight and anti-interruption she thought she had him. "I admit that you are the swiftest girl in the whipsawed." "But the doctor has forbidden me sweets," he added.

And the sensitive moon retired behind a cloud. Philadelphia Record.

An astronomer declares that Jupiter is in the state that our earth was 34,000,000 years ago. Those who can remember back 34,000,000 years will understand what this means.

A man can walk a mile without moving more than a couple of feet.—Chicago News.

Wade It Fit the Name. "Red Rock, N. Y." said a man who spent some time there, "isn't much of a place, but there is something interesting about it that I fancy all the world doesn't know. The present name is not the one it has always borne, and what its other name was I don't know. Whatever it was, the people did not like it and concluded they would change it. There was no particular reason why they should call it Red Rock, but that was determined upon, and so Red Rock it became.

"Then in the course of time strangers of an inquiring turn of mind began to ask why the place had such a name, and as no reason could be given newcomers to the neighborhood began to want a name that meant something. This insistence grew so strong that the old residents began to look around for a reason for the name of their place, and at last they found a huge boulder near by which they said was what had suggested the name. But the boulder was gray instead of red, and the progressists insisted that that would not do. At last the old timers hit upon a new plan, and procuring a barrel of red paint, they painted the big rock red.

"Colonel Anderson was a wonderful stamper. He was most emphatically a rough diamond. In the rough and tumble, catch-as-you-can style of debating he never had a superior in Missouri, which is saying a great deal. He was an adept in the use of every species of oratorical weapon—Champ Clark in Naturalist Evening Post.

Wouldn't Sell the House. The house in which Joan of Arc was born is still faithfully preserved in pious veneration at Domremy, where it is looked upon almost in the light of a shrine. Presumably invariably cross themselves and utter a prayer for protection as they go by.

The story goes that a rich and eccentric Englishman tried hard to buy the property of a farmer named Girardin. The Englishman offered to let him name his own price, but the old man held firm. "No, no, no," he cried. "I would not sell it even to a Frenchman, much less to a foreigner and especially an Englishman. People here would call me a traitor and a coward were I to part with the house from which Joan of Arc set out to serve France."

The Englishman convinced himself that further bargaining was useless and went his way. Soon after an officer from the king's household arrived in the village and asked to speak with Girardin. Before the whole village assembled in the street, he said: "Girardin, the king has learned that you have refused to sell your house to an Englishman. He desires to reward you, but not in coin. He knows that you no more want the money of the French than of the English, therefore has he commanded me to present you with the cross of the Legion of Honor."

Pins. Queen Catherine obtained pins from France, and in 1543, an act was passed. "That no person shall put to sale any pinnes but only such as shall be double checked in the house sold, and fast to the shaft of the pinnes, well smoothed, the shaft well shapen, the points well round filed, cauted and slanted."

At this time most pins were made of brass, but many were also made of iron, with a brass surface. France sent a large number of pins to England until about the year 1820. In this year one John Tibby started pinmaking in Gloucestershire. So successful was his venture that he soon had 1200 persons working. These pins made at Stroud were held in high repute.

In 1826 pinmakers combined and founded a corporation. The industry was carried on at Stroud and Birmingham, the latter becoming the chief center. In 1775 prizes were offered for the first native made pins and needles in Christna, and during the war in 1812 pins fetched enormous prices.

This vary from 2 1/2 inches in length to the small gilt automaton's pin; 4500 weighing about an ounce—Good Woods.

A Legal Decision. A correspondent, referring to a recent article in Law Notes on "The Grammar of the Courts," calls attention to the following legal decision of Sir John Taylor Coleridge in the case of Turkey against Thomas, S. C. and P. 163, 34 B. C. L. 212. It has been suggested as a doubt by the learned counsel for the defendant whether the rule of the road applies to saddle horses or only to carriages. Now I have no doubt that it does."—Law Notes.

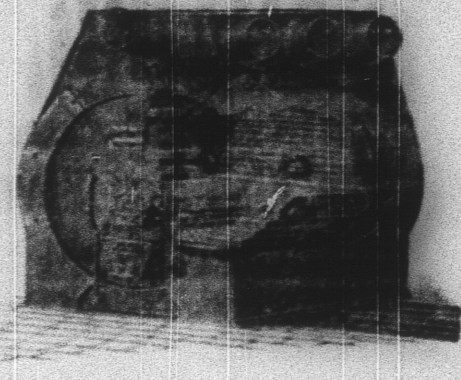

An Accident. Little Bessie having been punished for misbehavior, slunk to the other end of the room, crying. Her mother turned to view her repentance, but found her engaged in making faces at her. "Why Bessie," said her mother, "how can you do so?" "Oh, mamma," answered the little girl, "I was trying to smile at you, but my face slipped."—London Answers.

Still Free. After two solid hours of moonlight and anti-interruption she thought she had him. "I admit that you are the swiftest girl in the whipsawed." "But the doctor has forbidden me sweets," he added.

And the sensitive moon retired behind a cloud. Philadelphia Record.

An astronomer declares that Jupiter is in the state that our earth was 34,000,000 years ago. Those who can remember back 34,000,000 years will understand what this means.

A man can walk a mile without moving more than a couple of feet.—Chicago News.

THE STANTON "SEAMLESS" WARM AIR HEATER.

If you want a perfect heat at the lowest cost get the Stanton Heater, guaranteed to be absolutely gas, dust and smoke proof and to remain so. Will produce warm air quicker than any other heater and with less attention will furnish a constant supply of clean, pure dry air, a saving in fuel and a great gain in comfort and health. For particulars and prices address

THE WRIGLEY HARDWARE CO., Ltd., Mahaffey, Penn'a.

A Thanksgiving Turkey

Given Free With Every

$10 Purchase.

The larger the bill of goods purchased the larger the Turkey—8 to 22 lbs.

We have added to our extensive line of first-class Groceries the following:

- New High Grade Mince Meat 10 and 75c per lb. Pork Sausage. Hams. Bacon. Prunes 5 to 10c per lb. Pumpkins. Beets.

We Handle the Highest Grade of Oysters in Town.

You will be pleased with your purchases at Mellon's

CASH GROCERY.

Mellon's CASH GROCERY is the only place in town where you get something for nothing. E. A. MELLON, Proprietor.

NOTE—No Cash Register tickets given in the Turkey Deal. No purchases of Sugar counted.

DO YOU WANT IT? Want What?

A 100-piece Dinner Set FREE of charge. If you do buy your flour from

PATTON SUPPLY CO.,

As we have made arrangements with our mill to place a Coupon in each 50-lb. Sack of Flour and two Coupons in each 100-lb. Sack. On these Coupons you will find numbers from One to Five; when you get a set of numbers from one to five consecutive, return them to us and receive the Beautiful 100-Piece Dinner Set.

Remember this is no cheap set of dishes, but a set that you could not buy from anyone under Twenty Dollars, and as you have to have Flour, and if our Flour is as good as any on the market (which we guarantee it to be) why not use OUR FLOUR and get this beautiful set of decorated dishes.

IF YOU WOULD

Like to see the Dishes before you get them call at our store as we now have them on exhibition. If you should not happen to be among the lucky ones in getting the dinner set just save your coupons. When you get the set from one to five return them to us, as we are going to offer other beautiful presents from time to time. Use OUR FLOUR.

"Nuf Sed."

Patton Supply Co.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of J. C. Watson.