A cold, cough or a gripe can be "nipped in the bud" with a dose or two of Foley's Honey and Tar. Beware of substitutes. All Druggists.

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the table to eat and can't rest at night. Henry Williams, of Booneville, Ind., says he suffered that way for years, till he commenced the use of Kodol dyspepsia cure, and adds, "Now I can eat anything I like and all I want and sleep soundly at night." Kodol dyspepsia cure will digest what you eat. C. W. Hodgkins.

The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing, is requested to call on All Druggists and get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. It always gives relief.

Of all the foreigners coming to this country none make better citizens than the Finns. Of the 6,753 who came over last year only 17 were refused admittance, only 62 were unable to read and write and only 14 were said to be in danger of becoming public charges.

You can't afford to risk your life by allowing a cough or cold to develop into pneumonia or consumption. One Minute cough cure will cure throat and lung troubles quicker than any preparation known. Many doctors use it as a specific for gripe. It is an infallible remedy for croup. Children like it and mothers endorse it. C. W. Hodgkins.

For Pneumonia. Dr. J. C. Bishop, Agnew, Mich., says: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three cases of pneumonia with good results in every case." There is nothing so good. All Druggists.

The Hot Salve in the World is Banner Salve. It is made from a prescription by a widely known skin specialist and positively is the most healing salve for piles, burns, scalds, ulcers, running sores and all skin diseases. There is nothing so good. All Druggists.

Cold and cough cures are numerous, but the one that leads all others in merit, is Foley's Honey and Tar, which is in great demand these days. All Druggists.

FIGURES AND EYES.

Many people worry because they can't read. They don't know that they can. They don't know that they can distinguish the letters a little better if we hold them farther away than usual, but we are very slow indeed to observe that the real cause of it is that we are growing old, and we rather resent the suggestion of some kindly friend that we need glasses. We resent glasses especially because they are the visible sign of our weakness, and all the world may know by them what we fondly think they have not yet discovered to wit that our eyesight is failing. I am that way myself, or was, I read the glasses off as long as I could, and really I could get along very well reading at most any time. Of course, I could not make out every letter, but I could get enough to complete the word, and sometimes I could supply whole words that were indicated by the sense of what I was reading.

"But it was the figures that got me down at last. Ah, those figures! There is no context there, and when I saw dates or numerals of any kind the blur of the years shut out all their outlines, and to save me I could not tell what was before me. I made mistakes as often as I was reading about my wife that she would laugh at me, though she never caught me on the letters, notwithstanding many was the time I guessed at about half I was reading. But figures would not stand any fooling like that, and at last I acknowledged that I was getting the light or the sort and got myself a pair of glasses. Now I can tell a figure as well as a letter, and I discover they are printed quite as plainly as ever, though I was sure they were blurred before."—New York Sun.

ROSE TO THE OCCASION.

The American Girl, as usual, managed to win the Trick.

A man who is back from a visit to Paris and Germany is telling a story which ought to make a great many of our people who are going to Germany, and to the States, to be a little more careful. It happened at a little railway station in Germany, Griesenwald by name, while the man who tells about it was waiting for a train on a branch line which connects with the main line at that place. Besides himself there were a couple of the kind you read about in English books and an English family of the kind you read about in American books. The Americans were head and shoulders above the Germans, and they depicted the haughty British matron as a lady and a lady and a lady of the typical elongated English variety—they were objects of awe to the natives, however, and the girl in particular edged nearer and nearer to her mother's great disgust. At last she was so near that mamma could endure it no longer.

"Clara," she called in her loudest voice, "come away at once. You ought to be ashamed of yourself. You are a disgrace to our name." "What for?" asked the girl. "You are a disgrace to our name," she called in her loudest voice, "because you are a disgrace to our name." "What for?" asked the girl. "You are a disgrace to our name," she called in her loudest voice, "because you are a disgrace to our name." "What for?" asked the girl.

He Despised Tobacco. The healthful or reverse action of tobacco has been an absorbing question for decades and one hard to settle. However, as a result of a once and for all discussion on the subject and being a non-user of the weed, was an ardent advocate of its abolition as a marketable commodity.

"Did you ever think about the logic of stimulants?" he asked. "Nature supplies her own. It is astonishing what she will do if you give her a chance. In how short a time the gentle excitation of a cup of tea is needed. Conversation is an excitant, and the series of intoxications it creates is healthful. But tobacco, tobacco—what rude crowbar is that which pry into the delicate tissues of the brain."

A Bold Defense. "An ennobled man once put the president of a court martial in a difficult position," says a writer in Cassell's Magazine. "The court martial was trying the soldier for some fault or other. When the evidence and he took an inordinately long time—had been given the president asked the prisoner if he had anything to say in his defense."

"Well, sir," said the man, "I can't see how this court can sentence me for Major Jones' as been reading a paper under the table the last blooming time, and Captain Smith has been making me into a caricature on the Mattingly pad, and as for Lieutenant Brown, I don't do his commission a year and don't count any way."

Powers of Endurance. "When my grandfather was young man," said the boy with a scath nose, "he could run ten miles without stopping." "I heard my grandfather make a prayer 25 minutes long once at a prayer meeting," responded the boy with the dirty face. "an if it didn't freeze him."—Chicago Tribune.
