W. A. Faust desires to thank the people who so kindly contributed money to send Miss Annie Anderson to her home in Sweden. About five years ago she was brought to this country by an uncle, who later abandoned her by installing her in a hotel, where she worked for her board. She was taken ill and removed to the county home, where she remained until about a year ago, when Mr. Faust gave her a home. Later she became weak minded and her mother wrote for her to come home, but was unable financially to assist her to do so. Enough money was secured by Mr. Faust to buy her a ticket for Sweden and he besides, he himself being a liberal contributor. She will leave here Friday and will still from New York Saturday.

You will wish that if you try to cure indigestion or dyspepsia by starving yourself. That only makes it worse when you do eat liberally. You always need plenty of good food properly digested. Gunn's Pharmacy, Hastings, and C. W. Hodgkins, Patton.

The doctor seeing it was curing him said: 'Stick to it for it is doing him more good than anything I have done for him.'" All Druggists.
