

QUICKSILVER IN TEXAS.
Important Mineral Discoveries in the Lone Star State.

Texas has already taken her place among the States as a prominent producer of fuel oil, supplementing California's output of this product in particular. Important developments last year in her quicksilver mines in the Terlingua district show that the deposits of this mineral are much more extensive than was at first believed. It is probable that Texas will therefore become second only to California in her output of quicksilver. Recent prospecting shows that the mineral is found in about eight miles long, lying in an east and west direction. The production of quicksilver in California is large enough to supply the entire home market. Several mines in the Texas district are being opened up and extended.
