But the road leads us all.

For the King now is dead;
And we know, stand or fall,
We have shared the day's bread.
We can laugh down the dream.
For the dream breaks and flies;
And we trust now the gleam,
For the gleam never dies—
So it's off now the load.
For we know the night's call,
And we know now the road
And the road leads us all.

Through the shine, through the rain,
We have wrought the day's quest;
To the old march again
We have earned the day's rest;
We have earned the day's rest;
We have included, we have cried,
And we've heard the King's groans;
We have fought, we have died,
And we've burned the King's bones,
And we lift the old song
Ere the night flies again,
Where the road leads along
Through the shine, through the rain.
—Edward Arlington Robinson.

A Twelve-Thousand-Pound Cheque.

★院》以示照米班米班米班米班米班米班米班米班米班米班米班米

HE hour grew late, and Mr. in moody silence. The train had come in, bu this messenger had not returned, and the merchant was troubled; troupied by a vague sort of doubt, which baunted him in spite of his faith in Lake. A merry, sober old trader of long experience had said that Lake the consultation was going forward, I was too young to fill the important po-sition which he held, but Mr. Brand had never found his trust in Tom mis-

Having heard rumors concerning a use with which he had extensive dealings, the merchant had despatched Lake to London, telling him to make Inquiries, and in any case, to get the partners of the firm in question to set-He their account.

So Lake had gone from Liverpool to London. The time appointed for his express, so I strolled into a billiard return passed, and still he did not room. A man is just as safe with a

A lady entered, and stole to the merchant's side; her own sweet face was enxious, and there was a tremor in the music of her voice as she said:

"Do you think he will be here tonight, dear papa?" "I hope so, Mary, but it is very

"Is there no other train?" Only the night express, and that es not stop, except at the central sta-"Perhaps he will come, papa; he

If he had to walk." should not have missed the train," said Mr. Brand, sternly; "punctuality is am imperative duty with en of business." "But, papa, something may have oc curred to detain him."

"Nothing should detain a man who father was angry, and knowing his erate was his dislike to any breach of and strength. His manner was singuventure to speak again.

The time dragged slowly on; Mr. Brank continued his restless walk, and ing in the depth and softness of his Mary sat subdued and quiet, watching eyes. She saw that he was listening by, and from the depths of her heart there went a prayer that Lake would come safely home. The girl loved him, would have staked her life on his truth, and knew that he was not beyond his time through any weakness or wrong. Two slow, weary hours passed. Mr. was reading the commercial ws; but for the first time in his life did not interest him; he was think-thirty or forty minutes, I emerged into the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the heavy Fleet street, almost the first person on the roung clerk and the roung clerk m of money that would be in his ion should the London firm have aid him. And Mary, reading her felt pained and illed by the slur cast on her lover's esty by his suspicions-her every was a denial to his doubts, nd as the rapid clatter of a horse's et rang out, she ran to the window. she said, dashing the curns aside with an eager hand; "look, ok, papa, I said he would come-I new he would." The merchant's stern face relaxed otional or demonstrative, but his ughter's gladness pleased him. There were a few moments of exctancy, and then Tom Lake came in. He went straight to Mr. Brand, only officing with a bow the lovely face ese glance thrilled his soul. "They have paid," he said quietly, as he placed a thick pocketbook in the merchant's hand, "but I think we were only just in time."

"There was a consultation at the banker's before I could get the cash for the check." Do you think they will break?" "Hopelessly. They have given me an immense order, but it would not wise to forward the goods." "You did not hint that we had the slightest fear?'

"No; but I was glad to get the Twelve thousand would have been a heavy loss."

"It would have done me serious incry just now. "And yet," said Tom gravely, "this morning the odds were considerably against its ever reaching you."

Tom took two chairs and placed them e by side near the fire, led Mary to one, and seated himself in the other. had done his duty as the merchant's clerk, and now was Mr. Brand' prospective son-in-law and partner.

"I had an adventure," he said; "I was the hero of a strange story in a ride by Mary bent forward to listen-Ton Brand sat opposite them, interested by the speaker's manner as he began: "When I got the cheque I had ar idea that all might not be well, so to make sure I presented it to the bank er's. There was, as I told you, a con sultation before they cashed, and while noticed a stranger looking at me intently. I knew the man in my younge and wilder days. I had met him often at the race course, in billiard rooms and in other places more or less re spectable. Now he was changing a evidently astonished by the immensity of the order I had presented. the bank with my pocketbook full of notes, and I found that I had lost the The next would be the night room. A man is just as safe with a fortune in his pocket as if penniless so that he is wise enough to hold his tongue. There was some clever play going on, and I stood watching the players till some one challenged me to have a game. If I have one special vanity, it is my science with the cue; I accepted, and as I did so a strange feeling, which had been growing upon me, took a sudden turn which startled

"My challenger was the man whon I had noticed at the banker's. There was nothing strange in the fact of his and not mind coming ten miles, even being in the room, one of his favorite resorts, but I was possessed by the vague shadow of a single idea. I had read somewhere of a man being followed and plundered in a train, and somehow I associated the story with the man before me. It was the first time I had ever paid him any particular attention, but I gave him full observaas given his word."

The fair pleader was silenced—her tion now. The more I looked at him the less I liked him. He was handsome, gentlemanly, with a fair form strictness of principle and how invet- and elegant figure, full of suppleness discipline or duty, she did not even larly unassuming, his face frank and genial but by looking closely at him you could see something sinister-look

"I never liked a stranger to be affathe night express went whiring ble and prepossessing, and my friend and from the depths of her heart was the very pink of affiability and whom my gaze fell was my late antagonist at billiards.

> "We played for an hour with alter nating success; he was an amusing companion, well informed, and had traveled, but I still having some time to spare, went to see a friend in the Temple.

"I thought there was something more than a mere coincidence in this second meeting since we stood together at the banker's. He was in a cigar shop op posite.

"Not a hundred yards from the Temple gate stood a man whom I recognized with a very welcome feeling. It was George Vixen, the detective.

"He was fashionably dressed, and looked an aristocrat of the first water I went up and greeted him as I should a smile of pleasure; he was not an old familiar, held out my hand and

"'Step into the hotel office. I have something to say. "He shook hands in the most natural way possible. I took his arm, and we entered the door of an adjacent "I told him my suspicion, told him of the sum in my possession, and of the journey I had to perform by rail. "I saw that, watching through the glass of the door, he was taking a men tal photograph of two men.

"'They mean business,' said Vixen. quietly, 'but I shall be with you. must part at the door, or they will see we have scented the game."
"'And you,' I said, 'how will you

'I,' he said, 'shall travel to Liver pool by the night express.' "He left me. I had no fear no knowing him to be a clever and determined fellow. "Taking a casual glance across the road, I saw my man with his companion. It was quite evident that they were tracking me, though I lost sight of them before reaching St. Paul's. "I strolled along the churchyard, wandered nearly to Islington. went through the city again before made for the station; my acquaintnnce of the billiard room did not come a fortune to its various heads. in sight, though I kept well on the

"I took my ticket, lingering almost Franz Lahner, a granduephew of the to the moment of starting before I entered the carriage, but my man did not Vienna Neue Freie Presse.

appear. Two men were in the com rtment with me. I could not se the face of one, and the other was f stranger.

"The bell rang. The guard had jus time to put a bewildered old gentleman by my side, and we were off.

"The man whose face I had not seen turned toward me.

"I could scarcely repress an excla mation. There was no mistaking that frank, genial countenance, nor the lurking devil in those eyes, whose softness

"He had met me then at last! Vixer to travel that perilous journey alone with the man who had followed me so fast asleep in the corner.

"That the intentions of my billiard player were bad was manifest by the fact of his having assumed a false mustache and beard. They added to they feed. the beauty of his face, but left to his eyes that sleepy, cruel glitter that i characteristic of the Asiatic.

"He spoke to me, remarked the oddity of our being traveling companions, and grew pleasantly familiar I answered him, not wishing to ap pear churlish or afraid, knowing that I could trust something to my own strength should the worst come

"We had made the last stoppage, and were rolling swiftly through the gloom when, among other topics, our conversation touched on jewelry; he drew a showy ring from his finger, telling me it was a curious piece of workmanship, having a secret spring, which he said

I could not discover.
"I took it, searching in vain for spring, then returning it to him. It dropped and rolled under my feet.
"I stooped to pick it up, and so did he, but in that moment, while my head was down, he had me tightly by the throat, and threw me to the carriage

"His confederate was upon me in an instant. I could scarcely breathe, and taken along is loaded with one ounce could not struggle, for a heavy knee of No. 10 shot, backed by two and a was upon my chest, and two brutal hands were clutching the life from my throat. "Though the horror of that situation eternity to me. I felt the ruffian's hands searching for the pocketbook. and I strained desperately for a chance

"Their work was nearly Cramped in that small space, I was powerless, and the veins in my throat and head were swelling like sinuous bars, when the old gentleman in the corner awoke and came to my assist-

"I heard a low, quiet whirr of some weapon in its descent, and my first assailant reeled from me, stunned. The old gentleman, with a strength and rapidity of action wonderful to see in a person of his age, seized the scoundrel, lifted him away and dashed him down on a seat.

"There was a brief struggle, and then I heard a sharp click-scoundrel the second had a paid of handcuffs on his wrists.

"'They were more prompt than I expected,' said the old gentleman, removing his woolen comforter, which he fastened my first assailant's hands behind him, 'and a railway carriage does not afford much scope for a struggle.'

"The pocketbook was safe. The rufgentleman who, without his spectacles and muffling, stood out in pleasant relief as the detective, kept guard over them.

over into the custody of the police. I see if I am any the by express."

The contents of the pocketbook were

Mary's bridal dowry. The detective speaks of the senior partner in the firm of Brand & Lake as the most hospitable and generous man he ever met in the course of his professional career.

Lake was quite cured of his love for billiard playing. He had too narrow an escape, and he did not forget the lesson.—Waverley Magazine.

Wild Horses on Sable Island.

Sable Island, which lies about eighty miles to the eastward of Nova Scotia, consists of an accumulation of loose sand, forming a pair of ridges, united at the two ends and inclosing a shallow lake; tracts of grass are to be met with in places, as well as pools of fresh water. The droves of wild horses, or ponies, and herds of seals appear to be the chief mammalian inhabitants of the island. It is generally suppose that the original stock was from a Spanish wreck early in the sixteenth century, although some writers make the introduction much later. Twenty-five years ago the number of ponies was estimated at five hundred; at the present day there are less than two hundred, divided into five troops. Not more than two-thirds of these are pure bred, the remainder being the spring of mares crossed with introduced stallions .- London Nature.

Origin of the Frankfurter. The little sausage known as furter" and "wiener" was offered for sale for the first time in 1805, and the centennal was observed in Vienna by the Butchers' Guild. The inventor of the sausage was Johann Lahner, who then named it for his birthplace, Frankfurt, The business founded one hundred years ago by a poor man has yielded always remained in the same family. and is now conducted in Vienna by

SLAUGHTER OF R

Thousands Shot and Trapped Alon South Carolina Coast Lands.

The rice bird or bobolink or ree bird, as the game is known further north, is now in great abundance on the rice fields about Charleston and the coast section of South Carolina, and thousands of the birds are being killed every day, with no evidence of any diminution in the supply.

The business of killing the birds is a profitable one for those who engage had broken his promise! and I was left in it, whether they indulge in the exerskilfully-another who might be his confederate, and an old gentleman the little birds for market and to exwho, after grumbling out his indigna-tion against all railway servants and ocomotive traveling in general, was all over the lower section of South Carolina hunting the birds, and although great quantities are killed, yet during the morning and evening, when Killing the birds for sale is mostly done in "pot killing" fashion in this section, a system of killing the birds which is not in vogue in any other place where the kind of game is found. A large fire is built on the marsh and big net is arranged in such a way that escape is impossible when the bird once enters it. The marsh is beaten and the flying birds, attracted by the light, enter the nets and are caught in large quantities. The birds are killed and shipped to market. Many negroes are employed in this work of trapping and killing the game, working for themselves in some cases and in others for firms which make a regular business of dealing in the dainty and succulent morsels.

Where a gun is used the 12 gage double barrel shotgun is generally preferred, although some sportsmen a gun as small as a 29 gage. As the birds are not hard to kill, and a lot of shooting has to be done in the average day's sport, this smaller shooting iron is desirable. The shell usually half to three drams of powder of the semi-smokeless or smokeless variety. Dogs can be taken, but are not neces sayr, and in some sections, where did not last a minute, it seemed an skiffs are used in whole or part, the dogs have to be left at home.

The birds are found in the eastern section of the country at this season of the year, subsisting on rice, oats, mil let and other grain grown in swamps and marshy places. It is a mystery where the rice birds come from. Many of the knowing ones are of the opinion that they bury themselves in the mud from season to season, after the man ner of snakes and frogs, but the most plausible theory is that they came and go in the night. The birds do not fly any great distance in the daytime, rarely more than thirty or forty yards. That they do most of their flying at night is proved by the fact that hundreds of birds may be picked up in the morning dead, having come in contact with live electric wires in places where these agencies of modern civilization are found. The birds disappear almost as suddenly as they show up.

When the birds first show up they are very thin and ragged looking. When they strike the rice and oat fields they soon fatten up, and after three or four days of gluttony they are as fat as the proverbial butter-The birds are slow fliers, which "The pocketbook was safe. The rul-fants were securely bound, and the old cantismen who without his speciacles ordinary skill to bring down large numbers with his gun in the course of his day's sport. The size of the bag depends, of course, upon his skill, and "At the station they were handed remarkabee stories are told through this section of the number of the little was all right by that time. Vixen rode birds which have been killed at a sinwith me as far as the hotel nearest gle shooting, but, as stated above, the here, and to-morrow he will call to slaughter of the birds seems to show the birds which infest the country,-Charleston Evening Post.

Too Early.

There is an interesting anecdote given in the Boston Herald of a Mr. Capen, an old resident of one of the seaport towns of Massachusetts. is now employed as driver of the coach which conveys travelers from the trains to the hotel.

One Saturday evening in the latter part of September three men arrived on the afternoon train from Boston Mr. Capen was sitting on the driver's seat of the coach, waiting to take them to their destination. ed about the station, and evidently were not favorably impressed by the surroundings, for one man was heard

"What a desolate country! We cen tainly have come to the jumping-off place this time. I don't believe we can even get a Sunday paper in this place, can we, driver?"

There was silence for a moment, and then Mr. Capen drawled out, "Wal, not tonight."

A Great Character. Very able and adroit men tried to find some opening in the armor of that character (Mr. Cleveland's) through at least three national campaigns, but the search was futile. The very name Grover Cleveland stands for probity in the minds of the people more distinctively probably any other. We, in common with many, believe there are thousands of Americans as honest as the sturdy ex-pres ident, but there is a unanimity opinion respecting his integrity which does not seem to apply to anybody else. Attack by innuendo or any oth er method in this particular instance not only proved to be futile, seemed inexpressibly silly. So we may conclude that, after all, a good is still an asset.-Harper's Weekly.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

The Duke of Athol holds nineteen

John D. Rockefeller's income is now computed at $2.06 per second Count de Brazza, known for his explorations in Central Africa, has died. A. H. Lee, civil head of the British Admiralty, comes of a family of sail-

William E. Halsall owns 20,000 acre of land in Oklahoma and 200,000 in Theodore Roosevelt has a larger collection of college degrees than any of his predecessors.

Alois Riehl, professor of philosophy at the University of Berlin, has for a motto, "Back to Kant."

Charles M. Schwab is to have a carved silver dinner service manufactured at a cost of $150,000. Lord Inverciyde, the Chairman of the Cunard Steamship Company, has succumbed to pleuro-pneumonia. Dr. Adolph Fritzen, Bishop of Strass-burg, has again issued an edict forbid-ding priests within his diocese to use

Field Marshal Edhem, who defeated the Greeks in the war with Turkey in 1897 and was a hero of Plevna, is dead at the age of fifty-four. Captain Picard, on his recent return from the Soudan, presented to the Zoo in Paris a white monkey (Cercopith-eque Patas), the only one in Europe. Clifford W. Barnes, general secretary of the Religious Education Society of Chicago, is to be sent abroad to investigate religious education in Eu-King Edward VII. has made Count

Kutsura, Prime Minister of Japan, a member of the Order of the Bath, and Baron Komura a member of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. Ex-Congressman L. Cass Carpenter, of Denver, Col., owns the first American flag fired on in the Civil War.

LABOR WORLD.

Texas and Oklahoma farmers have

New York's bologna makers are hinking of going on strike. A union of shoe workers was formed in Yauco, Porto Rico, recently, Laundry wagon drivers of Los Angeles, Cal., have been reorganized. The strike in Moscow is spreading and agitators are openly preaching a

The strike of workers in the harbors of Buenos Ayres and Rosario is still

At Waltham, Mass., the Master Maas will hereafter be included in the Masons' Union. In Holland the textile workers have in independent organization number-

The Strike Committee of the Social Democrats, of Germany, has published report for 1904. To-day the miners' unions in Illinois ng about 2000.

nold nearly 250,000 of the best organzed men in the world. The strike of carpenters and joiners at Glasgow, Scotland, has been settled by mutual concessions. Victoria, B. C., has been chosen for the next convention of the Dominion Frades and Labor Congress.

A $1,000,000 plant to employ 5800 persons will be erected on Staten Island by the Proctor & Gamble Com-

The idea of compulsory insurance is peing adopted against great opposition by several American labor organiza-

Residents of Elsdon, Ill., drove out of own every non-union man ready to ake the place of striking switchmen of he Grand Trunk Road. William Huston, a member of the Na-ional Board of the United Mine Work-ers of America, has been organizing the coke-workers in Pennsylvania.

SERVING SOME DISHES. Curries, ragouts or fricassees are more ornamental if served in a borno diminution in the supply, which der of rice or mash 1 potatoes. These gives an idea of the great quantity of are molded in pretty fluted forms and decorated by brushing the rims and raised points with the white of a raw egg, and then sprinkling with chopped paraely. Small haskets about the size of a teacup are made of mashed potatoes to hold cream chicken, fish or oysters. The potato is forced in a rotary motion through a pastry bag, brushed over with eg white, and placed in a cool oven dry. Handles are emulated by sprig of parsley arched to meet above, and green rims are given with chopped

> The Rochester Democrat and Chron icle says: It has frequently been stated during the past few weeks, a a gossippy item of news, that 193 lawyers are serving sentences in New York penal institutions. For some unexplained reason the statement has not elicited great interest, either among laymen or members of the legal profession.

Pennsylvania Railroad. In effect May 29, 1904.

Main Line.

Leave Cresson—Eastw.
Harrisburg Express, exek days...
Harrisburg Express, (ex Sun.)...
Philadelphia Accom., (ex Sun.)...
Day Express.
Mail Express, daily...
Bastern Express.
Sundays.....

In effect May 29, 1904.

Leave Patton—Southward.
Train No. 703 at 6:50 a. m. arriving at Cresson at 7:50 a. m.
Train No. 709 at 3:38 p. m. arriving at Cresson at 4:25 p m.

Leave Patton-Northward. in No. 704 at 10:47 a. m. arriving at Ma-y at 11:43 a. m. and at Glen Campbell at & HU (Pennsylvania Divis Beech Creek District. Condensed Time Table.

June 10, 1904 IV 700 Lock Haven Oak Grove Jersey Shore pm am Phil'a & Reading R R pm 225 650 ar Williamsport lv 1229* 18 36 11 30 lv Philadelphia ar 7 30 4 00 lv 4 30 7 30 lv m p m connections—At Williamsport with Philadelphia and Reading Railway; at Jersey Shore with the Fall Brook District; at Mill Hall with Central Railroad of Pennsylvania; at Philipsbury with Pennsylvania railroad and N Y and P C R R; at Clearfield with the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg railway; at Mahaffey and Patton with Cambria and Clearfield division of the Pennsylvania railroad; at Mahaffey with the Pennsylvania and Northwestern railway.

Geo. H, Daniels,
Geo. H, Daniels,
Gen. Pass. Agt,
New York,
Williamsport, Pa.

J. P. Bradfield, Gen'l Sup'L. New York.

Pittsburg, Johnstown, Ebens burg & Eastern R. R.

Table in effect June 9. a m 8 45 8 55 9 00 9 12 9 31 9 45 Discoola...... Philipsburg Leaving Philipsburg.

a m a m p m 550 740 1100 230 603 754 1114 244 621 813 1133 363 623 826 1145 315 38 830 1150 320 48 840 12 00 380 To Philipsburg.

Connections—At Philipsburg(b with Beech Creek rallroad trains is Bellefonte, Locx Haven, William ing, Philadelpula and New York, ville, Corning, Watkins, Geneva Clearfield, Mahaffey and Patton; (Dubols, Punxsutawney, Ridgwa Buffalo and Rochester-

Connections at Oscola Mill dale and Ramey with P R R Tyrone at 7:20 p. m. For full information apply to J. O. REED, Superintender

Philadelphia & Reading Railway. Engines Burn Hard Coal-No Smoke.

Engines Buru Hard Coal—No Smoke.

IN EFFECT MAY 15, 1904.

Trains Leave Williamsport From Depot, Food of Pine Street.

For New York via Philadelphia 7:30, 10 a. m., 12:29, 4:00, 11:30 p. m. Sunday 10:00 a. m., 11:30 p. m.

For New York via Easton 10 a. m., 12:29 noon, Sundays 10 a. m., 12:29, 4:00, 11:30 p. m.

For Philadelphia, Reading, Tamaqua, Mahanoy City, Ashland and all points in Schuyk Kill coal region 7:30, 10 a. m., 12:29, 4 and 11:30 p. m.

Trains for Williamsport:

p. m. Sundays 10 a. m., 11:30 p. m.

Trains for Williamsport:

Leave New York via Easton 4, 9:10 a. m., 1:20 p. m. Sundays 4:25 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Leave New York via Philadelphia 12:15, 4:25, 8:00, a. m., 2:00 and 7:00 p. m. Sundays 12:15 a.

m., 4:25 am, 12:00 and 9 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, Reading Terminal, 4:35 a. m., 8:36 and 10:20 a. m., and 4:35 p. m., and 11:30 p. m. Sundays 4, 9:00 a. m., 4:06 p. m.
and 11:30 p. m.

Through coaches and parlor cars to and from Philadelphia and New York.

Tickets can be procured in Wilhamsport at the City ticket office and at the depot, foot of Pine Street.

Baggage checked from hote's and residences Baggage checked from hote's and residences direct to destination.

EDSON J. WEEKS, General Passenger Agen General Superintendent.
Reading Terminal, Philadelphi
Parlor Cars on all expressions.

Huntingdon & Broad T Railroad. In effect Sept. 7, 1903.

Train No. 1 (Express) leaves Hu (every day except Sunday) for Mt. 6:35 a. m., arriving at Mt. Dallas at Train No. 3, (Mail) leaves Huntin day except Sunday) for Mt. Dallas arriving at Mt. Dallas at 7:30 p. m. All trains make connectas for Bedford, Pa., and Cum Northward.

Train No. 4 (Mail) leaves day except Sunday) for Hy a. m., arriving at Huntingde Train No. 2 (Fast Line) (every day except Sunday) for S:40 p. m., arriving at Huntingde Train No. 8 (Sundays on) Train No. 8, (Sundays on las for Huntingdon at 4:00 5:30 p. m.

The most significan movement is the chang the Chinese mind toy learning, the Paltimor Till recently this attitu litterati to the merits of 'foreign devils' could tea of the Japaness—v milate s and against on object lesson ger ignore. Dogs In their in the useless Get rid feeder s size des or wab give th When est and to have zine. seedling sunshin and mo (not ne of at le thoroug inches velve.

nd the tand, ten.-H Cosmall l

bred o

a good several

among pure b soon g neighb per her be gro stuffs market and a old.

really operati purpo ufactu E

clover

to ship to pas in cur