GOOD ROADS.

Charles Sumner once said: "The road and the schoolmaster are the two most important agents in advancing civilization." Common sense teaches that the difference between good and bad roads is equivalent to the difference between profit and loss. It teaches that good roads have a money value to the whole people as well as a political and social value, and leaving out convenience, comfort, social and refined influences which good roads always enhance, and looking at them only from the "al-mighty dollar" side, they are found to pay handsome dividends each year. People generally have come to realize that road building is a public matter; common sense decleares it to be a func tion of government.

Sand-Clay Roads.

Almost every community is favored with an abundance of stone, gravel, sand or clay, and by the proper management a desirable road can be constructed with either one of these. As there is a wide difference in the character of the materials great care should always be exercised in selecting only the best-such as contains sufficient toughness and cementing qualities as will form a surface sufficiently hard and durable to endure the volume of traffic, and at the same time make the road less impervious to water, which is its worst enemy.

In successful road building too much attention cannot be given to the proper drainage, surfacing and rolling; and in doing this work the use of the latest improved machinery is very necessary in the construction of any kind of a road if the best results are to be obtained. Anything that is worth doing is worth doing well, is an adage that might aptly be applied in connection with this question. This rule is not always adopted, however, but it is far better to build permanent highways so Millet, Indian corn, and wheat are among the chief farm products of Manchuria. Apples and grapes do well, although the native apple is soft that they will need little or no repairs for a long time to come. In some localities conditions are such that a good stone road may be built at a cost rangand lacks flavor. Tomatoes grow in great abundance, particularly in Southern Manchuria, where asparagus also flourishes. All vegetables, ing from $2000 to $3000 per mile, but in others $5000 or $10,000 are expended; while good sand-clay roads can be built from $200 to $500 per mile.

There are many phases of the question of road improvement of which much might be said, but at present the writer wishes to direct attention more particularly to the improvement of the common roads by the sand-claw method, which is quite inexpensive. When sand abounds in such quantity as Piso's Curefor Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. SAMUEL, OceanGrove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900. to render travel on the roads difficult, an application of clay may be made to good advantage, and where clay is equally objectionable sand may be similarly applied and with equally as beneficial results .- Progressive Farmer.

Government Aid to Public Roads.

Following is a resolution introduced by Maj. W. A. Graham, of North Carolina, and adopted by the Farmers' National Congress, recently in session at Richmond:

lines of railroad transportation, to promote the commerce of the nation by affording markets for selling the products of the people and for purchasing the needed goods of other nations; the same wise policy could be promoted and extended by appropriations to establish and improve the public roads in the respective States in order that the farmer may be enabled at least cost to place his productions at the places of distribution. If the domestic and foreign commerce is advanced by appropriating to harbors, rivers and extended or 'through' lines of domestic transportation, it will be benefited in an increased manner by appropriations to the public roads or highways, so as to enable the producer to reach the markets of his section at reasonable cost. There can be no valid reason why benefits that are extended to the buyer and seller should be denied the

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND - OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their nature, and exists a product of the production is nearly their greatest. conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose great gets the better of their independent and the departs and the best profession and whose great gets the better of their independent and the departs and the best profession and whose great gets the better of their independent and the departs and the profession and whose great gets the better of their independent and the departs and the departs and the profession and the satisfaction and the satisfaction and the satisfaction and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution of the satisfaction and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and the satisfaction are constituted as a second constitution and constitution are constituted as a second constitution and constitution are constituted as a second constitution and constitution are constituted as a second constitution are constitut of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—" Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians, proportions and should be availed by cover and who related the patron who have been to make the patron who have the patron who have been to make the patron who have been the patron who have been the patron who have been to make the patron who have been the patron who have bear the patron who have been the patron who have been the patron w and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the inling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be said to thom. It it does not bear the full name of the Company any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In two months my weight increased from ninety-five to 113 pounds, my nerves had steadled down and I felt ready for anything My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had ught the change

"My four-year-old boy had eczema, very bad, last spring and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts, which he relished at once. Pens and Swords.

Nations founded by the sword, sustained by the sword, pass and are forgotten. But the written words, the words of "men entirely great," outlast the very civilization amid which they were penned. Who can leave out of account, even to-day, the work of Homer, Virgil. Dante, Shakespeare, Moliere, Cervantes, Goethe? Even to-day every thinking man must acknowledge their sway, must live in the king-doms of thought these men have founded. Let us then put among the relics of the great the tools of their government—and let us hold precious the pens and inkstands that have outlasted and overcome the swords of conquerors, the sceptres of the kings.
