CAR CRASHES INTO A HOUSE, KILLING MAN

Victim's Brother, in Same Bed, Badly Injured at South Fork

South Fork, July 1.—While asleep in their beds about 12:30 o'clock last night, Frank Salvitti, an assistant foreman on the South Fork Branch of the P. R. R., was instantly killed, and his brother, Asperino, was seriously injured when a box car, shoved by a freight train that ran into an open switch, jumped the stopping block, pushed in the wall of the house in which the men slept, and crushed them.

Frank Salvitti was killed instantly, his neck having been broken. His brother was pinned under the debris and some difficulty was experienced in getting him out. His physician says he is ruptured, but he is able to walk about. The body of Frank Salvitti could not be removed until the wreck crew from Conemaugh pulled the freight car out of the house. The lives of two or three children were probably saved by the fact that they moved only recently from a bedroom next to the railroad tracks into a room in the opposite end of the house.

The brothers boarded. Frank Salvitti's wife and three children are in Italy. His brother is not married. The house, a frame structure two stories high, stands ten feet from the bumping block of a siding into the Crisman flour and feed mill. A box car stood on this siding last night. A freight train switching on the South Fork Branch, from which the Crisman sidetrack runs, came down the branch, ran into the Crisman sidetrack switch, which had been left open, and bumped into the box car at the Crisman mill. The bumping block was knocked out and the freight car shoved through the rear end of the house in which the men

Oh, Joy!
A plumber I would like to be,
'Twould fill me with delight,
For I could go to bed and have
A pipe dream every night.

OH!
"My father used to have a rod that could locate water," remarked the old fogey.
"Oh, you mean a diving rod," interrupted the gronch.
"Yes," replied the old fogey. "Have you ever seen one?"
"No," replied the gronch. "But my father used to have a rod that could make the tears flow."

Cheer Up!
Don't gronch because some only cats

We cannot all be stars, but that's
No reason why we should be clouds.

An ounce of clarity is better than a

Luke McLuke Says—
You may have noticed that most of the gluttons have a mighty poor appetite for work.

No small boy has ever been arrested for exceeding the speed limit when his mother sent him on an errand.

Some wives are very dear to their husbands, and others are merely very expensive.

The trouble with the man who has nothing to say is that he isn't happy
until he says it.

When they were naming things
somebody played a great joke on the women when he called those old head shawks "fascinatons." A "fascinator"
was a thing that could make a good looking girl resemble something the cat dragged in.

Women are so contrary that if the street cars were to run backward the women would turn around and get off
the other way.

Any old man can tell you that he has had a lot of trouble in his time,
most of which never happened.

Any man who had to fight all the tough kids in the neighborhood because his mother made him wear curls
when he went to school can sympathize with the poor people whose owner makes it wear a sweater so the other dogs will regard it as easy picking.

One good thing about walking in the straight and narrow path is that a follow is never in any danger of being caught in a crush.

The difference between a man and a gun is that you can't say that you didn't know the man was loaded.

You can be right 100 times, but if you are wrong the next time the world will always remember that you were wrong.

People who live in glass houses
shouldn't flit their fingers when they get through eating.

When most people pray they expect the Lord to be more liberal than they would be under the same circumstances.

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring, if your nerves are excitable, if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions. It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol. Scott & Bowne, New York, N. Y.

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

A FALLACY frequently exploited by Prohibitionists is that men drink to get drunk, while the FACT is thoroughly disregarded that some men are innately weak and have a predisposition to fall under excess of one kind or another. Blame is too often placed upon the beverages—not upon certain men being inherent ne'er-do-wells.

DR. W. S. RAINSFORD, who conducted a mission for "Hums" in New York City for three years, made a special study of this class. His observations were that a large proportion of inebriates came from the very poorest class—that many were predestined to failure through no fault of their own—many failed because they could not keep the pace set by their fellows—others did not have the mental or physical powers equal to bearing the average load which life imposes, and these men who failed, had recourse to drink or in using narcotic or deadly drugs. They were failures long before they became inebriates.

EQUALLY interesting on inebriacy are these FACTS from the pen of Dr. Edward Huntington Williams. Says he: "The fundamental idea at the bottom of all prohibitive legislation is the belief that most men would become drunkards if given access to liquor. This conception is entirely wrong, and is just as untenable as the supposition that all men would become thieves if given an opportunity to steal. As a matter of fact both assumptions are disproved by existing conditions. Every man has a hundred chances to steal each day, and yet very few men become thieves. And most men have access to liquor all their lives and only a very small percentage of them become drunkards. It is a case in which inherent mental qualities and education are determinant factors."

IS IT NOT A FACT that the blame for Gluttony is placed on the man who eats to excess, and is it not a FALLACY to blame it on the Food he consumes?
