

PENNSYLVANIA APPLE CROP

In seventeen counties of the State the apple crop is expected to reach the normal yield, while in fourteen counties the yield will be twenty per cent., or more below the normal, according to statistics prepared by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

In the fruit belt consisting of Adams, Franklin, Cumberland, York, Lancaster, Fulton and Perry counties the general percentage is about eighty-five per cent. of a normal yield. There was a big June drop but orchardists report a splendid yield in sight. Pennsylvania ranks fourth among the States in the production of apples with only New York, Missouri and Ohio leading. According to the present estimates the production for this year should be about 13,424,400 bushels.

Statistics show that the Baldwin are the most popularly grown apple in the State with Northern Spy, York, Imperial, Ben Davis and Rhode Island Greenings following in popularity in the order named. The Baldwins form about twenty per cent. of the crop grown in the State with Northern Spy about twelve per cent.

Some of the counties where a normal yield are expected are: Cameron, Carbon, Center, Clinton, Crawford, Elk, Erie, Forest, Huntingdon, Luzerne, Mercer, Pike, Potter, Sullivan, Susquehanna and Tioga. In Susquehanna county ten per cent. above a normal yield is expected, in Mercer county eight per cent. and in Erie county six per cent.

The counties where twenty per cent. below normal crops are expected are: Beaver, Chester, Allegheny, Dauphin, Delaware, Fayette, Greene, Juniata, Montgomery, Perry, Philadelphia, Union, Washington and Westmoreland.

SELF-FED HOGS BALANCE THEIR OWN RATIONS IN TEST

For several seasons the Pennsylvania State College has been conducting experiments on the feeding of pasture crops to hogs. These experiments are being continued this summer. In addition a comparison is being made of the relative merits of self-feeding and hand feeding swine on pasture crops.

One-fourth acre plots are being used so that the pigs may make the best and most complete use of the crops. With too wide a range the pigs are apt to destroy as much of the crop as they consume. The rotation used in rye, oats and peas, rape and later on corn may be added. Hand-fed pigs receive ten part corn and one part tankage. Self-fed pigs are allowed to consume as much corn meal and tankage as they desire. Previous experiments show that self-fed pigs will balance up their rations as well as the hand-fed animals. When the results of the present test are secured they will be published.

STATE AGRICULTURAL NOTES

Armstrong county farmers report that prospects for splendid oats yields are more promising every day.

Berks county farmers are harvesting the largest wheat crop in their history. The average yield per acre is about twenty-five bushels, but some districts report as high as forty bushels to an acre. Last year completed in Butler county and the State average was sixteen bushels to an acre.

Fire blight has been very destructive in several sections of the State, and many young pear trees have been ruined.

Bedford county farmers report a yield of two tons of hay to an acre. The alfalfa first cutting has been remarkably good.

Northern tier farmers are reported to have done considerable planting of corn and potatoes as late as the first week of July.

The acreage given to alfalfa in some townships in Chester county has doubled in the past two years and splendid results have been obtained from the crops.

Lancaster county dairymen are realizing that it is more profitable to raise a few heifers from cows of quality and profit than to depend upon their open market for replenishing their herds.

There has been a decided improvement in the grade of cattle raised in Lebanon during the past few years.
