Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

AMONG the several States that were deluded by FALLACIES into going under Prohibition last year were Colorado and Iowa, and the daily newspapers supply all-sufficient news of conditions within those boundaries to prove the FACT of "dry" failure. For instance, the Trinidad (Col.) Chronicle-News of recent date said:

"Is prohibition prohibiting in Colorado? Police records at this writing are indicating clearly that there is fully as much, if not more, drunkenness and use of liquor with the sale of liquor prohibited and all drinking establishments closed than there was in corresponding periods prior to the time the law went into effect, and this condition does not mean that there has been any less energy manifested by officers of the law to enforce the law. Drunkenness and the use of liquor is steadily increasing. Trinidad police records show twice as many arrests for drunkenness this month than in April last year when the saloons were open."

Superintendent Tom Fairweather asked for armed detectives to guard the city treasurer's office today because of the criminals and robbers in the city!

THE aforementioned additional FACTS, of how Prohibition fails in Western States, as testified by leading newspapers, ought to convince Pennsylvania Prohibitionists that their "dry" doctrine is FALLACIOUS and leads its adherents only down a blind alley.

More Drinking

IOWA became officially "dry" on January 1, 1916, and the results of Prohibition in that State are described by the Des Moines Evening Tribune as follows:

"DR. J. EDWARD KIRBYE, 'the Des Moines workingman's friend,' declared today that in his five years in Des Moines he had never seen more drunken men on the streets here than there were last night. Dr. Kirbye stated: 'Something should surely be done about it. If a mass meeting is called, I for one would be glad to go before the people and tell them of the conditions now as I see them. I would like to tell them of the facts I have discovered at the Workingmen's Home, and let them know how drunkenness has increased among the workingmen.' Finance

Imagine that this is the month of January, 1937. New York City has a population of twelve million people—the population of the Empire State is twice what it is now—a hundred and fifty millions in the United States—imports doubled—exports trebled—products of factories, fields and mines quadrupled. Is it likely that a traffic as vast as will then move over the New York Central Lines "America's Greatest Railway System" can be handled by the facilities which the New York Central Lines now have? Of course not. If traffic is to move, more tracks must be laid, more engines built, more cars bought. But these plans can only be carried out as the public sees to it that the railroads are permitted by the legislative and regulative bodies to earn a sufficient margin over expenses to provide for future needs as well as present dividends.
