BARRED ZONE SPLITS ALTOONA CITY IN HALF

ALTOONA, Jan. 22.—Orders from United States Marshal Howley of Pittsburgh, in charge of the western Pennsylvania district, received today by the chief of police, throw a barred zone of half mile radius around the Pennsylvania railroad shops in this city and vicinity and bar unnaturalized Germans from entering the forbidden district.

As the shops are constructed directly through the center of the city, with no break except for bridges and extending from the south to the north city limits, the order virtually confines about 900 enemy aliens to their homes.

The Pennsylvania railroad employs the majority of these Germans.

"THE CORNER GROCER"

The attraction at the Majestic theatre on Monday will be Lew Fields in "The Corner Grocer," a delightful story of the heart, interest in which Mr. Fields' abilities as the master of comedy and characterization are seen to perfection. Starred with this famous personage in this production is little Madge Evans, the World's kiddie star, who is seen in the role of a little orphan girl. "The Corner Grocer" was a tremendous success as a stage play. On the screen all its merits have been enhanced, so that it has been made perfect screen entertainment.

SURPRISE PARTY AT SPANGLER

A very pleasant surprise party was held Thursday evening, January 17th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smeltzer of Spangler, in honor of their daughter Mary, who had attained her 18th birthday.

The gathering of friends spent a very enjoyable evening with games and music. Miss Emma Frits and Miss Roberta Sheets sang several solos and were accompanied by Miss Marie Empler, pianist. At a late hour a delightful supper was served, after which the guests departed for their respective homes.

A fireproof solution for treating airplane fabrics is a thing which may be realized in the near future, experiments in a private plant having already developed a comparatively successful solution.

THE LOSS OF OUR MILITARY FORCES BECAUSE OF ALCOHOL

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samu. G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health

Getting the great number of men together from various parts of the country to military camps is a most difficult duty. The violent change of climate and the exchange, in many cases, to outdoor life from indoor life, without proper clothing and under unusual living accommodation, as well as the influx of new men, without isolation camps where they might be kept under observation until contagious disease has had time to develop, are sources of danger to the men who are already in the service. Unfortunately, the recruit, under the excitement of the new life, are tempted to indulge in high living and alcohol, which condition is always bad, particularly in cases of pneumonia. Alcohol combats in the human system and does so at the expense of other valuable foodstuffs, and therefore, should not be considered a foodstuff under the circumstances. It interferes with treatments, using the patient's strength, when this strength is most needed in resisting the disease.

Overeating and drinking are bound to increase the death rate from pneumonia. It is the duty of each one to take good care of his health so as to enable him to fight against this serious exhaustive disease prevalent in Winter.

During the last several months, not only in military but in civil life, we have lost by death a large number of citizens by pneumonia and other diseases, where the patient's condition was due to the fact that they were overfed and over-alcoholized.

It is to be hoped that this word of warning will, particularly at this time when this terrible world's war calls for our best efforts, help us to restrain ourselves, and that our citizens in civil life will join in assisting the military authorities in carrying out their discipline, by refraining from furnishing alcohol to those who are in the service.
