WAR BREAD

on Health and Hygiene by G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health

The great economies that are practiced in the time of war are due to the fact that the natural productions of the earth become depleted, it will be for us to adjust what we eat to the way of essentials, this is of foodstuffs.

It becomes important to know the nutritive value of such combinations can be made with our standard foodstuffs. Philadelphia's able bakers have worked up a plan for the co-operation.

Corn flour, which heretofore was almost unknown in our diet, and it would seem as if it were a very large saving. It must be understood first that there is a difference between corn meal and corn flour. The corn flour is practically the same as wheat flour, but it contains a large amount of starch, and a large amount of fat, the shortening due to the fact that it is extracted before grinding.

It is not irritating when used after meal and day after day and would not be apt to tire eating it every day.

Corn flour can be obtained from grocers, or they can get it for you as it is regularly on the market and is being made by a number of milling companies and in cost should be cheaper than wheat flour. It should be ground as fine, or nearly as fine, as the wheat flour which you are in the habit of using.

Miss Ethelda Carson, who has been spending some time with relatives and friends in town, returned to her home in Osceola on Monday.

best bread. The same proportion can be used also for griddle cakes, pastry and cakes.

To make bread as it is made in the average household, where a sponge is set and no accurate measure of the flour is made, the better plan is to mix a quantity of the two flours, keep it on hand, and use the mixture instead of wheat flour. For a twenty per cent mixture, take one quart of corn flour and four quarts of wheat flour, mix thoroughly, preferably by putting through a flour sifter three or four times. Of course, larger quantities may be mixed at one time, keeping the proper proportion. In pastry even larger proportions of the corn flour may be used. In making bread, pastry, etc., use this mixture in exactly the same proportions and treat it exactly as you would ordinary flour.

In nutritive value, the difference between the mixed flour bread and the all-wheat flour bread is very slight. Their food value is practically the same, and if white corn flour is used, the bread has the same appearance as the all-wheat bread.

This bread has a decided advantage for every consumption over most of the war breads made of whole wheat, oat flakes, bran, etc., by being free of the roughage, and consequently it is not irritating when used after meal and day after day and would not be apt to tire eating it every day.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

There is going to be a shortage of garden seeds this year, corn and beans were frozen in the fields last fall and the crop of many smaller seeds failed. Our country has always been dependent on Europe for many of our seeds and our seed jobber advises us that they cannot hope for any seeds from Europe this year. Owing to the railroad congestion in our country today, it will be difficult to get any seed that might be on the market. As soon as we were advised of these conditions we got busy and bought all of the seeds that we could get, which was only about 65 per cent of our order, we have them in stock, they are all bulk seeds and are fresh. BE WISE AND BUY YOUR GARDEN SEEDS NOW WHILE YOU CAN GET THEM

Good Furniture Lives a Long Life

YEARS ago the store unselfishly began a campaign to interest people of the community in better household furnishings.

The greater part of the furniture then sold in Johnstown was cheap and unattractive; but so long as the price was seemingly low, nothing else mattered.

Penn Traffic was first to recognize that cheap furniture is not lasting; and that it does not build prestige for a store. So the first step was a friendly effort to educate the community to the Beauty, Lasting Quality and True Economy of Really Good Furniture

TODAY, the result of the store's far-sightedness is self-evident. Hundreds of homes have been tastefully furnished through our urging better furniture. Pieces and suites of the type sold here give character and cheer to the abode. We know that the mode of living has changed through the possession of quality furniture; that carelessness has been banished and a new pride established.

The February, 1918, FURNITURE SALE Begins This Friday

TRUE to its origin, it is a real sale of the better furniture at price-advantages. Pieces and suites are new and modern and designed to give expression to the home.

On the selling floor you'll find modest pieces substantially made; and exquisite suites in rich woods and beautiful upholsteries.

February prices are very much lower than usual prices. So it's to your advantage to buy full supplies in February.
