American Legion News

WASHINGTON--The long fight of the American Legion against keeping tubercular ex-service men at Markleton, Pa., was won last week, when Ewing La Porte, assistant secretary of the Treasury, ordered the abandonment of U. S. Public Health Service Hospital No. 47, at that place.

The Legion based its objections on numerous reports by experts that Markleton was unfit, by reason of climate and surroundings, for use as the site of a hospital for tubercular patients. Strong opposition developed to the removal but the introduction of a petition of patients, asking removal, by Representative Flood before the House of Representatives won for the Legion.

According to John Thomas Taylor, vice-chairman of the Legion's Legislative Committee, the treasury department ruling is a significant victory in the Legion's fight in the interests of disabled men and against the red tape that has delayed measures for their relief.

The Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion passed the 2,000-unit mark by nine before the middle of February and was still going forward at the rate of more than fifty units a week. Meanwhile the Legion is gaining at the rate of approximately thirty posts a week, with a total of 10,441 posts.

The Minnesota Department of the Auxiliary, with 149 units, has now displaced the Massachusetts Auxiliary for leadership. Massachusetts is second; then follow New York, Iowa and this State.

In percentage of gain within the last three weeks, the Ohio Department leads the Legion. Missouri, Texas, Illinois and Oklahoma follow in relative order.

By arrangement between the American Legion and Bureau of Commercial Economics, the most complete and valuable collection of educational and travel motion picture films in existence will be placed at the disposal of Legion posts for free exhibition. Legion members will order films from catalogs which will be sent to all Legion posts. The films will be sent from a number of distributing centers, which will be designated in the catalog. One thousand separate topics are embraced in the films, which have been taken in all parts of the world.

Wearing his army gas mask, the Rev. F. W. Smith, commander of Ray Stone Post of the American Legion at Shrewsbury, Mass., braved the smoke and flames of a fire in the town hall to rescue two American flags from post headquarters room. Clutching the flags, he groped his way back through the hall, feeling his way out by a string that he had tied to the back door on entering the building. Rev. Mr. Smith served as a chaplain with the Canadian Black Watch.
