FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College

Trees.—In addition to the insects that may be controlled at this time by using arsenate of lead or lime sulphate in the usual applications, the lime-sulphur will control and prevent a greater loss than will be caused by the March frosts. State College pathologists and entomologists repeat their warning that spraying should be continued as usual.

Garden.—Few families like cabbage heads to weigh over three lbs. Copenhagen, a popular early variety of cauliflower, gets too large if planted more than fifteen inches apart in the row. Late varieties that are not intended for kraut making can also be grown in smaller size by close planting.

Preserving Eggs.—Because of the high price of eggs, one should now consider putting them down for winter use. Lime water or water glass are excellent preservations. Full directions may be obtained by writing to the Agricultural Experiment Station, State College, Pa.

Cooling Milk and Cream.—At this time of year farmers and dairymen suffer great losses through not taking sufficient precautions with cooling milk and cream. It can be done with a little additional equipment and labor which will more than pay for themselves. Water coolers are best, or provide space where cans may be set in cold water.

Gas for Peach Borers.—State College entomologists advise that it is not necessary to use paradichlorobenzene as a remedy for peach borers before the middle of August. The method has been proved successful and is recommended as a control measure. It is a very simple and inexpensive process. Your county agent will give information as to procedure.

Buy Pure Breds.—Pure bred Livestock are more profitable than scrubs. Why not take advantage of the present depressed condition of the market and add a few head to your herd? It will mean greater dividends returns in a very short time. Select good individuals as well as good pedigrees.

Planting Corn.—It is best that a good deal of soil be warm before planting corn. No use to plant until the soil is fairly warm so that the seed will germinate. If corn lies in a cool wet soil for a week without sprouting it is likely to rot and never produce plants. Take advantage of rainy days to shell and prepare seed corn ready for the planter. Remove the irregular shaped and broken kernels before shelling. These will go through the drop spouts of the planter with uneven results. Their removal makes possible a more uniform stand of corn.
