With a force that shook the building, bringing a panic to about 500 people, and a detonation which was heard throughout the town, a bomb, thrown by a person not yet arrested, exploded at about 9 o'clock Saturday evening as it rebounded from the walls of the Grand Theatre in Barnesboro against which it had been hurled.

Evidently it had been the intention to cast the explosive through a window onto the stage in which case there would have been an appalling result, but there were iron bars across the window set too close together for the bomb to enter and it dropped to the ground.

Several women fainted through the mad scramble of the frightened audience. Mrs. Annie Furkaskas, living in the same block and suffering from nervous disorder became insane over the shock of the explosion.

Within a very short time after the explosion the alley and vacant lot back of the theatre was packed with people attracted by the force of the noise but not one could give any clue as to the person who threw the bomb and gradually the crowd dispersed, leaving the police to continue their fruitless investigation.

Nearly everybody who had been in the theatre returned after they had learned the cause of the excitement.

Altho Ambrose Lantz, proprietor of the theatre, has little to say regarding the affair, it is generally thought that spite actuated the movement. The building was but slightly damaged by the explosion.

Within 48 hours after the explosion a stick of dynamite was found in the cellar of the play house. The Barnesboro police are at sea over the case and it is one of the most puzzling that has hit the town for many years.

County Detective is here assisting the local police, trying to locate the criminal.

Mrs. Jane Lowes, wife of Dr. John Lowes, died at her home Wednesday, aged 69 years, five months and four days following a stroke of paralysis. She was a native of Lancashire, England and came to this country with her husband 29 years ago, first locating in Phillipsburg.

The surviving children are Thomas, John and William of Patton, Janeette of San Francisco, Mrs. Elizabeth Herron and Mrs. John North of Pittsburg, and Mrs. Nellie Crompton of South Fork.

The funeral will take place from the Episcopal Church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 with interment in Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sauer accompanied by Miss Alice Newman, and Miss Maude McCully, spent Sunday with the McCully family in Westover.

Mrs. Jennie Swan, accompanied by her grand daughter, Maudie Miller, of Barnesboro, were visiting here Sunday. Charles Hobart and Barth Young took a trip to Hillwood Saturday in Mr. Young's touring car. Although out of the storm they arrived home safely.

John Hickson, wife and family are visiting in Phillipsburg this week.

L. G. Gorsuch spent several days in Roaring Springs this week with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Thomas Baker, of Dycus, was visiting among relatives in town this week.

Miss Isabelle Medillot is visiting in Johnstown.

Dr. B. F. Shires is at Bedford on a visit to relatives and friends.

Wm. Bloom was visiting at James town over Sunday.

Chas. Bloom and wife, of Johnstown, visited at the home of Mr. Bloom's parents, Andrew Bloom and wife, over Sunday.

Rev. N. C. Fetter and son, George, of Barnesboro, took supper with the T. H. Whitehead family Tuesday evening. They also called at the Zwayer home.

Henry Newman, of Barnesboro, was a Patton caller Monday evening.

Lord Alwyn's Bride

By MURIEL BLAIR

"I have just heard the ship brought Lord Alwyn and Estora French back to England before the vessel sailed South Hook. Their wedding was held in the captain's cabin on the morning of the second voyage. The intermediate passengers were all women. Lord Alwyn took the last seat in the open stage, there after they appeared to be inseparable. They had not much to say on that evening, for the realization of his love for the beautiful singer had come to the Englishman quite suddenly, and when it came he was to withdraw.

"You think I was right," he began, as they walked slowly under the stars. "Yes, there was never any pretense between us and our love should normally end in marriage. Well—I am already married."

"Do you mean you bring the story of my life?" he said. "When I was ten years younger I quarreled with my father. My father's mother was alive then and had no hope or thought of succumbing to the title. I was sent to a boarding school. I was 'really' very unappreciative, however, for the future, and very lonely. Old Aaron Hopper, the ranchman who had under taken my education in return for $100,000, had a daughter, a sweet girl, a good, sweet, pretty, and charming. She had a heart as big as the world. When I heard you sing 'My Old Kentucky Home' at the charity meeting that was the first time we met, do you remember the remembrance of those days come back to me as fresh and keen as ever. Well, we were engaged. We were wildly in love, in a boy and girl fashion. And we were to be married."

"The day before our marriage I received a letter from England. My father and brother were dead, both had been killed instantly in a train wreck. I was left to the title and the family estates and fortune. In my station I had to go."

"I shall never forget the scene that occurred. How she refused to marry me at first. Finally I overcame her opposition and we were married the next morning, and Eva cried all through the ceremony."

"That night, when I came home, Aaron stood at the door, waving a letter, frantic with rage and humiliation. Eva had run away. I don't know what became of her. Detectives failed to find her. Old Aaron died cursing her and asking my forgiveness for having raised up his life."

"You did not want a divorce?" asked the woman softly.

"No. How could I? I knew that the love's little spirit that had given itself into my keeping was mine always, that I was morally responsible for her. If ever she appeared I should have taken her home and asked no questions."

"He ceased and the woman withdrew her hand and placed it on Lord Alwyn's shoulder.

"Stop, dear," she said. "Now look at me. I want to ask you a question. Do you love her as much as you love me?"

Lord Alwyn laughed rather bitterly. "I don't love her at all," he said. "And how much I love you know. But, my dear, because I do not love her I feel my duty the more strongly. So I am going to try to find her—and"

"Good-bye," she whispered, and raised her lips to his. Then she was gone and he was alone in the starlight and with his sorrow.

Lord Alwyn spent three days in New York. He called on his detective agency, but they had learned nothing. Then he took the train for Colorado.

It was not until he reached the ranch that he came upon signs of cultivation.

Alwyn drew rein at the door, latched his horse to the old post, and knocked. A woman opened it. It was Eva, dressed as a rancher's daughter, a ruke over her shoulder, her hands dusty with hay, but Eva matured—No, it was not Eva. It was Alice Pasquale.

Lord Alwyn staggered against the door and his hands, groping feebly, found hers and held them.

"Do you know me now, dearest?" she whispered. "Have you found her again, this Eva, this ignorant girl?"

"Alice," he said, chokingly. "It is you? You are Eva?"

She placed her arms round his neck and drew his head down to her breast.

"You couldn't have known, dearest," she whispered. "It was cruel of me to try you so long. How could you have recognized the ignorant farmer's girl in Alice Pasquale, the singer, the Italian nobleman's adopted daughter? But I have waited for you so long, my dear."

"When I left you that day it was with the resolve to claim you when I had become worthy of your love. I suffered in New York three years until I had acquired an education at night. Then a woman engaged me as her companion to go abroad. She believed in my powers as a singer, she had me taught by the best masters, then Count Pasquale adopted me—and you know the rest. And every year I have come back as Alice Pasquale. I bought the ranch again. I come here during laying time—because I knew some day you would come back."

"Never to leave you, dear," he answered. "This is our honeymoon at last."

On Tuesday, May 26, 1896, at 6:30 p. m. Miss Rose Reese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Reese, of Altoona, was united in marriage to Bernard Kusner, of this place. The ceremony took place at the Mountain City Club rooms on 17th street in Altoona, and was performed according to the Jewish rite, the Rev. Dr. Lipschitz officiating. The attendants were Mr. Warkelky, of Patton, and Miss Mollie Reese, sister of the bride. Mr. Kusner is Junior partner of the firm of Merkin & Kusner, Magee avenue merchants, and a one of Patton's prominent young business men, who enjoys the friendship of a large circle of acquaintances to which his own voyage on the sea of matrimony. The bride is one of Altoona's fairest and most charming daughters. After a brief wedding tour west, they will return to Patton and resume the pleasures and responsibilities of house-keeping in rooms on 5th avenue.

The Courier extends congratulations on the consummation of their union.

The corner stone of the First Baptist church of Patton, was laid on Sunday at 9:30 p. m., the Rev. N. O. Patterson, of Ansonville, Clearfield county, officiating. The day was a red letter day for the new and growing congregation. In the morning at 10:30 a large audience assembled to hear the sermon and in the afternoon an unusually large crowd attended Sunday school, after which the corner stone was laid with the usual ceremonies led by Baptist ministers. In the evening Holy Communion was celebrated.

A gang of tramps, better known as gypsies, camped near Patton by the Clay works over Sunday. When asked to pay for the ground they occupied, they decided it was cheaper to move than pay rent, so they moved on to new quarters Tuesday.

Walter C. Perry, son of C. H. Perry of Chest Springs, left on Thursday for Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he will attend Eastman college. He is a graduate of the Ebersburg Normal and is a man of ability who is striving to make his mark.

Editor Reed and wife of the Houtzdale Journal passed through Patton on Thursday.

On Tuesday night a large number of friends of V. Dumm who lives near town gathered to help him celebrate his birthday anniversary. The Patton Silver Cornet band was on hand and rendered some excellent music. Refreshments were served and a general good time indulged in.

June weddings will soon be in style again.

Members of the Knights of Columbus, in goodly numbers, attended the institution of the new Portage Council at Portage last Sunday. The exemplification of the first, second and third degrees of the order to a large class of candidates took up the greater portion of the day and a banquet was served by the ladies in the evening. Among those noticed at Portage from Patton Sunday were T. M. Sheehan, Squire James Mellon, Geo. E. Prindible, Dr. B. J. Overberger, I. A. Overberger, C. L. Calahan and many others.

Preparing Packages.

When you have packages that are to travel a long distance see them up in strong unbleached muslin over the wrapping paper. The address should be written on a tag, securely sewed to cotton cloth. This is a sure preventive of broken boxes during delivery.
