NOW DO MY WORK WITH EASE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored My Health

Hornell, N. Y.—"I was in bad health but there didn't seem to be any one thing the matter with me. I was tired out all over and it was an effort for me to move. I was irritable and could not sleep nights and had trouble with my bowels and at my periods. It seemed that nearly every one around me knew of your medicine and wanted me to try it, so at last I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and improved every day. I do all my own work now except the washing and do it with ease. I can accomplish as much in a day now as it would have taken me a week to do last winter and I try to get every one I know to take your medicine to build them up. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you like."—Mrs. CHAS. BAKER, 21 Spencer Ave., Hornell, N.Y.

In almost every neighborhood there are women who know of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They know because they have taken it and have been helped. Why don't you give it a trial?

Invading French Apache Gangs Enter Crime Wave in New York

ONE FUGITIVE WAS CAUGHT

Wealthy Couple and Eight Servants Bound and Locked Into Cellar in Daylight Holdup—Ransacked House for Hour and Half.

New York.—French Apaches, most dangerous thugs of the Paris underworld, have formed a gang in New York, police believe.

Their first crime, one of the boldest holdups in police records, was committed when they broke into the home of A. R. Shattuck, wealthy retired financier, at 19 Washington square north, bound two butlers, a doorman, three maids and a cook, locked them in a wine cellar and a pantry, then bound Mr. Shattuck and his wife, Mrs. Mary Shattuck, and for an hour and a half ransacked the house, three of them escaping with jewelry valued, it is estimated at $100,000.

The fourth man, who said he was Eugenio Diaset, aged 27, a Spanish sailor, was caught after a chase at Eighth street and Sixth avenue. Jewelry valued at $20,000 was recovered from an overcoat he discarded.

Diaset is being questioned in expectation he will betray the headquarters of the apaches in this country.

Numerous other robberies gave New York a Sabbath of crime. The day was ushered in with a Wild West holdup near Chelsea, N. Y., where an army of 40 bandits, traveling in seven motor cars, halted a freight train under the impression it was the "silk and money" special from Chicago. They broke into several cars. Their loot was small.

HARDING COMMENCES MEMORIAL TO MEADE

President Breaks Ground in Washington for Statue of Noted General

Washington, D. C.—President Harding stood bareheaded in the rain in the National Botanical Gardens just west of the capitol and turned the first spadeful of earth when ground was broken for the memorial to Maj.-Gen. George Gordon Meade, commander of the victorious Union army at the decisive battle of Gettysburg. Secretary Weeks, Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania, Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, a member of the memorial commission; George Gordon Meade, grandson of the Union leader; George Meade, Jr., a great-grandson, as well as Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, participated in the ceremonies. The President was accompanied by Mrs. Harding and the Chief Justice of the United States and Mrs. Taft.

The spade used by the President in breaking the ground was used in beginning work on the Lincoln and Arlington [illegible]. A detachment of [illegible] Washington, served as a guard of honor.

Secretary Weeks, as chairman of the commission which was directed by congress to supervise the planning and construction of the memorial, declared in a brief address that it was "not out of place to use General Meade as an illustration of the value of having in the regular army trained officers, even if they are not engaged in strictly military activities during much of their service."

The secretary added that the regular army "furnishes a storehouse of material which always has and always will provide for the necessities of the government in time of need and without which the early days of any war would necessarily result in untold uncertainties and perhaps disaster."

General Miles reviewed the military life of General Meade and asserted that he "never received just recognition for his great achievements."

Cofield was stabbed in the court room here after he had testified that he and his uncle, Genus Cofield, had committed several burglaries. They had each just been sentenced to serve three to five years in the penitentiary.

"I'd rather hang than spend five years in the penitentiary," shouted Genus Cofield, and leaned over a table and plunged a dagger into the breast of his nephew.

The court room was thrown into an uproar. Sheriff Kerlin felled the elder Cofield with a blow on the head and the young man was carried into another room, where first aid treatment was given him. Genus Cofield was returned to jail and placed under heavy guard. The nephew died later.

NAVAL TREATY PASSES SENATE

Submarine and Poison Gas Pacts Also Ratified by Overwhelming Vote

ONLY ONE SENATOR OPPOSES

Approbation [illegible] of Building Holiday and [illegible] of Ship Strength for United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

Washington.—The two arms conference treaties [illegible] the navies of the great powers and restricting the use of submarines and poison gas were ratified by [illegible] of approbation in the senate.

To the naval limitation covenant, declaring a naval building holiday and fixing a ratio of capital ship strength for the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy, the Senate gave its final assent by a vote of 74 to 1 and then, without debate, it accepted, 71 to 0, the pact designed to prevent submarine operations against merchantmen and to outlaw chemical warfare altogether. No amendments or reservations were proposed to either.

The only negative vote was cast against the naval treaty by Senator France, Republican, Maryland, who said he regarded naval reduction as a dangerous experiment under present world conditions. Every other member of the "irreconcilable" treaty bloc who was present cast a vote in the affirmative, although Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, told the Senate he regarded the treaty as only a beginning and Senator Johnson, Republican, California, declared he accepted the fortification "status quo" provisions for the Pacific with "grave misgivings."

A speech assailing the poison gas articles of the submarine and gas treaty was made in the Senate by Senator Wadsworth, Republican, New York, chairman of the military committee, but before the ratification roll call he left the chamber and did not vote. The New York senator disagreed with the treatment in the treaty text that the use in warfare has been "justly condemned by the general opinion of the civilized world," argued that general warfare had not proved more brutal than other accepted methods of destruction and expressed fear that the treaty pledges might be violated in any emergency.

CONGRESS AIMS TO ADJOURN JUNE 1

Completion of Accumulated Work Will Be Rushed—Debates May Interfere

Washington, D. C. — Congress is turning its attention to accumulated work in an effort to conclude its labor so adjournment can be taken before the hot weather.

June first has been tentatively set as the date for the session's end, but leaders realize it may be impossible to dispose of pending matters by that time. A number of problems are certain to involve long debate.

Chief among these is the permanent tariff, which the Senate Finance Committee expects to report out this week. The bill has been altered radically from the form in which it passed the House, because the American valuation plan as adopted by the lower chamber was considered impracticable.

Consideration of the tariff will [illegible] the suppression of the "beer blight" in the Senate, as a [illegible] of the senators from western and [illegible] western states interested in obtaining high duties on farm products.

Senator Frank R. Gooding of Idaho, chairman of the bloc, predicted that Congress never will adjourn until the tariff bill has become law.

"This measure will protect agriculture and industry alike, not only in the West and South, but in the East and North," said Gooding. "I am firmly convinced the tariff bill, when finally enacted, will be one which every section of this country will gladly support. As there never has been such a need for a tariff which recognized all sections alike, and as there never has been such a unanimous demand for tariff legislation, I think I can safely say that this Congress will never adjourn until the tariff bill is passed."

With the tariff off its hands, the way will be open for the Senate Finance Committee to begin consideration of the soldiers bonus bill. Senator McCumber, committee chairman, expects to seek guidance from President Harding, and intends to report out the bill at an early date and press for its passage.

Other appropriation bills will be enacted with little difficulty, except the army bill now before the military affairs committee of the Senate which reduces the army to 115,000.

The immediate business before the Senate is the bill providing for creation of 19 additional Federal judgeships to relieve the congestion of the courts.

Other problems confronting Congress include the proposed ship subsidy, hearings on which are to begin this week before the Senate Commerce Committee.

NATIONAL COAL STRIKE STARTS

Efforts of Federal Government to Avoid Walkout of Miners Prove Unavailing

51 DAYS' SUPPLY IN STOCK

Official Washington Views Developments Calmly, Reassured By Figures Showing Vast Stores of Surplus Fuel On Hand.

Washington.—Convinced that every reasonable effort has been made to prevent a national coal strike in anthracite and bituminous coal mines, but believing that, although these efforts have been without avail, existing conditions and surplus coal assure price protection and current supply for the general public, official Washington settled back to await the event with considerable calmness.

In a final White House discussion it was said that the government's long negotiation with the parties to the controversy and continuous study of the industry's production volume had convinced the administration that immediate intervention, in legal or extra legal ways, would be futile and unnecessary, and that, while the future might sharpen the breach between employer and employe in the mining camps, for the present action looking to the preservation of peace was unnecessary.

Federal Reserve Bank and Geological Survey statements were issued bearing upon the recent over-production of coal, which has ruled largely in White House and labor department assurances that moderate prices and a plentiful supply of fuel were assured.

A House committee was told by Edward G. Tryon, coal production statistician for the Geological Survey, that 63,000,000 tons of coal, equivalent to a 51-day supply for every consumer, was in storage at this time. The stocks, officials estimate, will be supplemented indefinitely by large outputs from non-union fields in West Virginia and elsewhere, where operators asserted that miners would pay no attention to the union attempt to have them cease work. Labor department officials also were interested in reports from union fields in Western Kentucky, where it was estimated that approximately 5,000 miners were considering stepping on the job under a local wage contract, notwithstanding the national [illegible] walkout.
