PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFS

Three professional nurses of Uniontown, Misses Teresa Keweenaw, Leticia Felton, and Althea Yowler, of the Uniontown Hospital, left for a hike to the national capital and return, barring mishaps, the trio expects to be back at work by October 1.

Dunmore borough school teachers may go on strike on October 1 unless back salaries are paid.

The great majority of strikes that occurred in eleven lines of industry in 1922 have been settled, according to a statement from the office of Commissioner of Labor and Industry Commission, which announced that from almost every county. The coal strikes are regarded as virtually ended, leaving the railroad men's strike as the chief one of any size unsettled.

Established theories of the force of bullets fired at certain distances were upset in court in Uniontown when it was brought out that Mrs. Mary Lapp had been killed by a 22-caliber bullet fired at a distance of 250 yards. The bullet entered Mrs. Lapp's breast and resulted in almost instant death. Edward Endsley, a farmer living at Revere, three miles southwest of Uniontown, admitted he fired the bullet as a test.

One man was wounded when three negroes escaped two patrolmen in a pistol duel in the central part of the city of Scranton. Many shots were exchanged before Oid Becker, colored, employed at the Erie railroad shops, was shot through a leg by a patrolman, and Walter Hingler, another negro, was made prisoner. A third negro escaped. The gun fight started when two patrolmen placed Hingler under arrest in a lunch room for disorderly conduct. Becker, who is out on bail as a result of the shooting he figured in some weeks ago, is alleged to have interfered with the policemen, and as they put Hingler into a patrol car, Becker whipped out a pistol and fired at the officers. The others drew their revolvers, and the duel continued for ten minutes.

An appeal will be made to Representative Christ Miller, of the Hazleton district, who has an opposition for reelection, to introduce a bill at the next session of the legislature modifying the penalties connected with violation of the potato wart quarantine. Fines ranging from $5 to $100 are being imposed by magistrates in cases brought by agents of the Pennsylvania department of agriculture. Most of the arrests are those of foreign-speaking people in the mining section. It is claimed that failure to plant immune varieties of tubers, as required, is due to ignorance of the regulations and not to willful defiance of the act.

Announcement was made at the opening meeting of the Council of the American Chemical Society, in Pittsburgh, that a prize of $25,000 will be given every year to the American who makes the most notable contribution to chemical science. The award is to be made by a committee of seven, of which Dr. Edgar F. Smith, president of the American Chemical Society, is to be chairman. He is to select four of the committee. The others are to be named by the Allied Chemical Dye Corporation, of New York city, which, through William H. Nichols, offered the prize. The committee members are to have no connection with the corporation. The council accepted the gift, which is to become operative next year.

Peter Balak, a 12-year-old Schuylkill Haven boy, enjoyed a ride on the fastest train on the Reading system between Pottsville and Philadelphia, perched on the rear bumper of a passenger coach. From this dangerous position he rode all the way from Pottsville to Philadelphia, scolding everybody along the line who saw him. Peter was arrested when he arrived here and was given a warning by Justice Meyer that, if he attempts any more thrilling stunts, he will be sent to a reformatory.

Lieutenant Emory B. Herber, troop E, 104th cavalry, Harrisburg, and Edgar V. H. Bell, troop A, 103d cavalry, Philadelphia, have been selected by the militia bureau to attend the special cavalry school to be held by the army at Fort Riley, Kansas. The selection was made at Washington from a number of men recommended to go to the school. Major James A. Williams, 107th artillery, Pittsburgh, has been designated to attend the Army War College for special instruction in plans and training.

Governor Sproul announced reappointment of Fred M. Taylor, of McConkey, as a trustee of the State Hospital at Danville.

The state industrial board has issued notice that, commencing with the September meeting, it will meet on the second Tuesday of each month, the next meeting being on September 12.

Two hundred employees of the Jostata Silk Mill, at Monaca, struck for higher wages.

John Lohr, age 35, of Reistville, died from blood poisoning resulting from a slight injury to his ankle.

A toy pistol in the hands of Dr. Harris Gruman, of Lebanon, ported flight two hundred when he surprised in the act of robbing his office.

Numerous suspicious fires in Brownsville, South Brownsville and West Brownsville have resulted in a request by the residents of the three towns for a state investigation. Fires of undetermined origin are daily occurrences in this vicinity, and there are evidences that the majority of them are the work of incendiaries. Nearly $100,000 has been occasioned within the last week or two by the mysterious flames.

Fires of forest fires in Uniontown and its environs, according to hospital reports which show that more than 75 per cent of the babies born in that institution within the last few weeks have been girls. In fact this was four or five boys have been born at the hospital. Records of the last five or six months also show a big majority in favor of girls.

The Larch tree planted by the King of the Belgians in the time of his visit to Harrisburg in the fall of 1920 was again cut down by a fire at the same time in honor of Queen Elizabeth in front of the state capitol have died because the ground was too rich. The trees were planted in the midst of a forest, where the soil has been fertilized for over a century for growing poppies, and while they were young leaves last spring, they died this summer. Both trees have been removed after an examination by experts of the forestry department, and they were dead. The Poch tree, planted by the French marshal in the southeast of the capitol, is thriving.

Destroyed by fire, a house on a charge of arson and the suicide of his wife are numbered among the troubles of Samuel Christ, of Knoxville, near Brownsville. Christ is said to have told the authorities his wife suggested him to commit suicide in connection with the death of Charles W. Christ, a wealthy Uniontown man, by a car accident. Christ stated that he had used a hand bill for the purpose of the negro's head and feet.

Fearing that Mrs. Justina Druchemiller, age 65 years, of Altoona, died by the illuminating gas.

Mr. H. C. F. Smith, president of the American Chemical Society, is to be chairman. He is to select four of the committee. The others are to be named by the Allied Chemical Dye Corporation, of New York city, which, through William H. Nichols, offered the prize. The committee members are to have no connection with the corporation. The council accepted the gift, which is to become operative next year.

WAR RECORDS OF GRANDDADS

Mrs. Edward W. Burt of North Carolina Working on War Record Society Plan.

"Granddad, what did you do during the war?" will be the special query of the young Americans of the next generation. That Mrs. Edward W. Burt of Salisbury, N. C., has set herself out to answer, Mrs. Burt is chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary in its present make-up, is composed of mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of the members of the American Legion, and of the women of the same status who lost men in the World War. There is no Junior society to the Auxiliary or to the Legion, such as there is to other patriotic societies—for instance, the Sons of the Revolution—but when a generation has passed undoubtedly such a society will come into existence. It is to prepare the way for a hereditary society, composed of the daughters and granddaughters of World War veterans, that Mrs. Burt is working. Her plan will include incorporation into the Auxiliary records of the war records of the Legion men, so that future genealogists will have no trouble in locating the war records of their granddads.

THE VETERAN OF SEVEN WARS

A veteran of seven wars at forty-eight years of age, Robert Bruce MacGregor of Seattle, Wash., says that his days on the battlefields are forever over and that he has no desire to devote the remaining years of his life to any military activity.

Mr. MacGregor served in the World War with the original Princess Pat regiment, which numbered 1,000 men in 1914. Eleven of that 1,000 are now alive and only one of the eleven can walk. Mr. MacGregor is one of the two.

He fought in the Philippines during the Spanish-American war, in China during the Boxer rebellion, in South Africa during the Natal rebellion, the Matabele uprising and the Jameson raid. Twelve months, four decorations and wounds which keep him constantly in the doctor's care constitute his spoils.

Although Mr. MacGregor has left the battlefield, he believes that there are peaceful battles to be fought. He has been fighting unemployment in Seattle in behalf of the American Legion for a number of months. He recently landed jobs for 236 former soldiers. More than that, he has adopted and is educating a fifteen-year-old boy.

MEDAL OF HONOR MEN GUESTS

Wearers of Congressional Decorations Will Be Prominent at Legion National Convention.

Prominent among the distinguished guests at the American Legion national convention in New Orleans, October 16-20, will be wearers of the congressional medal of honor, the highest award for bravery made by the United States. Lieutenant Sydney G. Gumpertz of New York was the first medal of honor man to accept the convention invitation.

The citation of Lieutenant Gumpertz came as a result of an act of heroism while serving as a sergeant with the One Hundred Thirty-second infantry in the Bois de Forges, September 26, 1918.

Advancing under hostile machine gun fire, Gumpertz killed two German gunners with pistol fire and the remaining 14 members of the crew surrendered themselves and the two heavy-type machine guns. The action of Sergeant Gumpertz enabled his unit to continue the advance.

WHAT THE LEGION IS DOING

Traveling 125 miles a day, and camping at night by the roadside, Donald F. Chase, twenty-one years old, recently passed through Middle Western cities on a bicycle from Reno, Nev., to Syracuse, N. Y.

Young Chase's family lives at Syracuse and, as a vacation from his duties as city editor of the Nevada State Journal, the energetic lad decided he would ride through and see his mother.

The young jutting 'gun which he carried with him saw service when an automobile driver ran into his bicycle near Topeka, Kan., and then refused to stop to see what damage had been done. Chase put a bullet in a tire and then made the driver haul him and his bike to town.

"One doesn't realize just what the American Legion is doing until he visits the Legion posts and sees the efforts of these posts to improve their communities," he said.

Miss Emily V. Schupp, Duluth, Voluntary Services at New Orleans Convention.

Miss Emily V. Schupp of Duluth, Minn., has volunteered to dance for her doughboy friends at the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October.

During the war Miss Schupp, who is known professionally as "Leda," entertained thousands of soldiers in the cantonments of America. She has appeared at Legion entertainments in a number of Minnesota cities. Miss Schupp, who is also a soloist, is scheduled to appear at a recital to be given at the New Orleans convention by the Duluth American Legion band, which won first prize over 75 competitors in the band contest held at the Legion convention in Kansas City last fall.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TUESDAY AND LUCY

Now Peter Gnome had taken a package which had been wrapped up by Fairy Grant-Yours-Wishes and Fairy Woodruff Secrecy and had emptied it upon Lucy's forehead.

Mean Old Measles had gone to visit Lucy, quite unmindful and not wanted in the least. But Mean Old Measles doesn't want to be wanted.

Mean Old Measles finds in mean pleasure in being where she is not wanted. The package which Peter Gnome had emptied had been filled with some wonderful fairyland preparation. To Lucy it had seemed as though something very cool had crossed her forehead, making her feel so much better.

And Peter Gnome had heard the doctor say, just as he had come in right after Peter Gnome had emptied the package, how much better Lucy was and that now she was on the Getting-Well Road. Peter Gnome had had on his invisible robe, so he had not been seen.

He was in high spirits when he went back to Fairyland to thank Fairy Woodruff Secrecy and Fairy Grant-Yours-Wishes for what they had done and then he went to sleep.

And with his bed of soft moss and blanket of leaves and his quilt of birchbark (for it was sharp at night, Peter thought) over him he had a beautiful, restful sleep.

It was morning and the sun had been up for some time when he awoke. "I have something special to do today," he said. "I know what it is now! I'm fully awake. For a moment I was but half awake and only knew that there was something for me to do. I want to go and find out how Lucy is and if she's feeling much better."

So Peter Gnome put on his invisible robe and he hurried off to see how much better Lucy was feeling. Peter stayed and then he came back to see how Lucy was feeling.

"The doctor told me this morning that you were a day ahead of the most he had ever hoped for," he said that he had hoped you would begin to get better by Tuesday—that was the very most he had hoped.

"And instead of that he said you had made such a remarkable change for the better a whole day ahead."
