

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn.—"I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me any good. It was your Vegetable Compound that did for me. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. Jessa Peterson, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the change of life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Peterson it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

90 ENTOMBED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Workers in Shaft at Spangler, Cambria County, Trapped by Sudden Blast

FIFTY KNOWN TO BE DEAD

Rescue Crews Rushed To Scene of Catastrophe By United States Bureau of Mines—Thirty-two Rescued Alive Are in Hospital.

Johnstown, Pa.—A force of 90 men are reported entombed in the No. 1 mine of the Joseph H. Reilly mine at Spangler, a small mining hamlet, 25 miles north of here, with little or no hope for their being saved as the result of an explosion which wrecked the mine 500 feet from the entrance. With the first report of the explosion, which was heard throughout the district, friends and relatives of the miners rushed to the scene and begged others to begin rescue work immediately. A squad was quickly formed and an effort made to penetrate the mine.

Word was received from the squad that the fans were probably destroyed and that unless air could be gotten to the entombed men in short order, they would be victims of black damp and other mine gases.

Work of rescue began immediately after word of the explosion spread through this community, and miners from all parts of the district rushed to the mouth of the shaft and began an attempt at rescue. All rescue equipment and rescue teams of different mines were hurried to the scene. The cause of the explosion could not be ascertained but it is reported that hundreds of tons of coal, rock, slate and earth now block the mine about 500 feet from the main entrance.

All of the killed and injured were members of the Wortham shows. Several other people on the show train received minor bruises and scratches. None of the members of the crews of the two trains was injured.

Later reports stated that 35 bodies had been brought to the surface, and it is officially announced that 50 are known to be dead. There are 32 injured men in the mine hospital and seven in their homes.

ATTEMPT TO ROB FRISCO SPECIAL

Three Outlaws Captured After Attack on Train is Foiled by Hidden Detectives

TWO MEMBERS OF GANG SLAIN

One Victim Identified As Noted Ex-Convict—No Loot Secured by Bandits—Officials Tipped Off To the Impending Holdup.

Memphis, Tenn.—Two bandits are dead and three others are held at police headquarters here following an attempt to hold up the St. Louis-Memphis Special on the Frisco Railway near Cape Girardeau, Mo.

A sixth man, said to have been implicated in the hold-up plot, was reported located at his home in Arkansas by Memphis detectives. Detectives, crouched in his home had yielded a quantity of dynamite, arms and ammunition.

One of the dead bandits has been identified as Jack Kennedy, escaped convict from Missouri penitentiary, known in police circles as "Jack the Quail Hunter."

Kennedy and one of his pals were the first to board the train. They climbed stealthily over the engine tender and ordered the fireman and engineer to hold up their hands. Officials had been tipped off to the impending holdup, however, and two detectives, crouched in the engine cab, opened fire, killing both men.

A few miles down the track two confederates of the dead bandits made their appearance. They were captured.

Plans of the bandit gang were learned several days ago when a special agent overheard two of them discussing the plot in the reading room of a Memphis hotel. From that time until the attempt was made the men were shadowed.

Railroad officials have estimated that the robbers would have collected more than $200,000 in actual money loot if the holdup had been successful.

It is understood that all mail had been accounted for.
