Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn. - "Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help other women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past." - Mrs. E. M. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some feminial ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain. $120,000 LOSS AT UNIONTOWN FIRE

Hotel Guests Routed by Flames in the Business Section of Fayette County Seat

OVERHEATED FURNACE CAUSE

Furniture Plant Destroyed - Hotel and Another Building Damaged - Many Thrilling Escapes - Guests Are Forced to Use Fire Escapes

Uniontown, Pa. - Fire which broke out at the three-story brick building in West Main street occupied by the Uniontown Furniture Company and spread to two adjacent buildings, causing a total loss of approximately $120,000, drove 39 guests from the Titlow Hotel, forcing them to make their way down fire escapes and only in their night clothing, and forced out six families who occupied apartments on the third floor of the J. A. Strickler Building. The Titlow Hotel and Strickler building are on either side of the building occupied by the furniture company.

The furniture company suffered the heaviest damage. The building was entirely destroyed, with its contents, the loss on building and stock being placed at $75,000. Damage of $25,000 was done to the stock of the P. Long Furniture Company, which occupied the first and second floors of the Strickler building, and the building itself was damaged $10,000. Damage to the Titlow Hotel was estimated at $10,000.

There were numerous thrilling incidents at the hotel guests and occupants of the apartments made their escape. Escape from the hotel was cut off except by way of the fire escapes. The guests were taken into other buildings where clothing was provided for them.

Occupants of the apartments in the Strickler building were able to make their way down the smoke-filled stairway in the rear of the building. In one of the apartments were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gleason. They knew nothing of the fire until the flames broke through the window in their sleeping room.

PRESIDENT OUTLINES ACTION OF CONGRESS

Says Passing of Shipping Bill Will Put America at the Front of Nations

Washington - President Harding in an address to a joint session of Congress urged speedy enactment of the administration shipping bill as means of cutting down present losses through operation of government ships and putting America at the forefront "in the peace triumphs on the seas of the world."

At the very outset of the 20-minute speech, which was heard with the closest attention he frankly declared that those standing with him might as well recognize that there was "divided opinion and determined opposition." It would be helpful in clearing the atmosphere to start with the recognition of this fact, he said, adding that it was no new experience.

With great emphasis the President challenged "every institution" that the bill was framed for the benefit of "favored interests" or for the enrichment of the public treasury. He declared that first of all he was appealing to save the treasury.

Calling attention to the "hostility in the popular mind" to the word "subsidy," stressed, by way of opposition, the President asserted that government aid would be a fairer term than "subsidy" in defining what he was seeking to do for upbuilding of the American merchant marine.

"But call it 'subsidy' since there are those who prefer to appeal to mistaken prejudice, rather than make frank and logical arguments," he said. "We might as well call it that without protest by those who most adhere, we might as well call it that 'subsidy.' If so, I am proposing to cut it in half, approximately."

Discussing the problem, confronting Congress, the President outlined three courses of action. The first, he said, was constructive, which embraced passage of the bill; second, obstructive - continued government operation and attending government losses - and third, destructive, involving the sacrifice and scrapping of the merchant fleet.

"I have come to urge the constructive alternative, to reassert an American 'we will,'" he exclaimed, which brought the first applause during the course of the speech. The next applause greeted the President's declaration that he rejoiced that higher standards for labor on American ships had been established and that merit justice suggested that "when Congress fixes these standards, it is fair to extend government aid in maintaining them until our shipping lines are so firmly established that they can face world competition alone."

PRESIDENT URGED TO CUT PROFITS

Harding and Senator Watson Discuss Measures to Relieve Farmers' Plight

MIDDLEMEN ARE TOO MANY

White House Meeting Follows Conference of Senate Members From West - Agricultural Credits Only Relief, Not Cure

Washington, D. C. - Measures to relieve the financial plight of the farmer and curb profiteering, particularly in food and clothing, were discussed this morning by President Harding and Senator Watson, Republican of Idaho.

The visit of the Idaho senator to the White House followed a conference in his office, at which a number of senators from western states talked over a possible legislative program acceptable to the west.

Picturing to the President how the farmers are generally unable to get enough for their crops to pay for harvesting and shipping, while consumers pay high prices, Senator Watson urged the immediate necessity of some forceful program to put agriculture on its feet and wipe out the long line of profit-taking between producer and consumer.

Senator Watson's view is that any program of relief for the farmer must go further than the questions of freight rates, interest rates and part rates. While these may have a palliative effect, the senator declared that "the man who produces food and clothing can get very little for it, while the man who needs to buy it has to pay an unconscionable high price."

Senator Watson told the president that he favored the program for agricultural credits, but that he feared it would not strike at the root of the question.

If producers were compelled to accept ruinous prices when they finally did come to sell their crops, he argued, loans would not be a palliative, and he urged that while the financial distress of the farmer was being temporarily relieved by liberal credits, an exhaustive study be undertaken to find more practical means of bringing the farmer and consumer together and eliminate large profits in between.

President Harding invited Senator Watson to lunch, and the two men talked over the problem of the farmer. The senator pointed out the abandonment of the grain crops because of the farmers' financial straits. Some definite plans are being discussed with the President later and meanwhile, Senator Watson will prepare the program of agricultural credits and other measures for temporary relief which will be hastened in Congress.

SEVENTY KILLED IN BIG MINE EXPLOSION

Colliery Blown Up When Cars Striking Electric Wire Ignite Inflammable Substance

Birmingham, Ala. - Seventy miners were killed and 60 injured, some of them seriously, in a dust explosion in Dolomite mine No. 3 of the Woodward Iron Company, nine miles from this city, which trapped 450 workers here.

According to company officials, the explosion occurred simultaneously with the crash of three "skip" cars, which ran "wild" down the slope to the mine "yards," approximately 1,100 feet from the entrance. These cars, breaking cable while they were being hauled up the slope to the entrance, crashed downward, severing an electric circuit.

This caused a spark, and as the cars crashed into the "yards" the interior of the mine, the explosion occurred. So great was the blast that the flames belched upward all the way to the main entrance, approximately 1,100 feet, and then continued on 200 feet further to the mine tipple, setting this on fire.

Fifty men were caught under the wreckage of cars. Rescue crews hauled mangled bodies and a score of injured men entrapped with twisted steel and splintered wood. The men were skilled workmen, many of the sub-foremen and electricians employed in the underground "yard."

U. S. SUES ARMY CAMP BUILDERS

Government Starts Action to Recover $20,000,000 on War Contracts

HUGE WASTE IS CHARGED

More Proceedings Expected - Total May Reach Close To $80,000,000 - Delay Blamed for Sickness and Death of Soldiers.

Washington, D. C. - Civil suits to recover more than $20,000,000 alleged by the government to have been fraudulently expended in the construction of Camp Upton, Jackson, Sherman and Funston, were instituted by the department of justice against the contractors who were in charge of the contracts.

The suits were said in official circles to be the initial step in a campaign to law against wartime contractors who are suspected, on the basis of auditors' reports, to have gone beyond the intent and purpose of the authority given them by federal departments. It is marvellous that the suits were not instituted long ago.

Additional actions are in prospect. It was said in the department of justice, as soon as complete reports have been made by the special force of auditors which has been engaged for 15 months in an analysis of construction records. Whether criminal action would be taken in any case, it was said, would depend to a degree upon the results of the civil suits.

Unofficial estimates placed the total which might be expected to be recovered from all the construction cases at between $75,000,000 and $80,000,000. In the cases filed the government alleged that the Hardaway Construction Company spent an excess of $4,500,000 in building Camp Jackson, S. C.; the Thompson-Starrett Company, $4,000,000 at Camp Upton, N. Y.; A. Bentley & Sons Company, $1,000,000 at Camp Sherman, Ohio; and George A. Fuller & Company, $4,000,000 at Fort Riley, Kan. The suits were filed at Charleston, S. C.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Columbus, Ohio; and Topeka, Kan.

The bill filed against the Bentley company at Columbus charged that the company was "great and unconscionable waste" of the materials purchased for Camp Sherman, and that the contractors "sold to and also purchased and resold to the defendant, at a profit," much material that was not needed in the project. Further charges were made that "large amounts of useless and unnecessary work was done in such manner that construction was retarded and the government was compelled without necessity to employ permanent or other capacity, were paid the same scale of wages as skilled workmen and artisans."

As a result of delay in completion of Camp Sherman, the government alleged the cost was not only enhanced, but "sickness and death of some soldiers" ensued.

HIS WIFE GREW WEAK, THIN, PALE, IT WORRIED HIM

Cheeks Sunken, Bones Were Sticking Out - Her Health Was Bad.

SIMPLE REMEDY MADE HER STRONG AND WELL

"Men never realize what some women go through, but when a man has read in the doctor's for months and his wife could just drag herself from the room to another - the doctor - then she'd get weak again, and so weak she couldn't sit up. I sent her to the hospital. They said nothing would help her, but different doctors here in Pittsburgh, but they finally said nothing would make her feel any better, so I bought up a box of Green Mountain Asthma Compound. Thank God, today my wife is a strong, healthy, well woman. Hypo-Cod, find the Green Mountain Asthma Compound. It seemed like Hypo-Cod built her up like meat. Her digestion and appetite are fine. She never goes to a diet or chicken dinner. She works hard every day. Looks fine, and when I come home and hear her shouting at her work I can hardly believe it is all true. Nobody can have my wife. Thank you, Hypo-Cod, you would save her if she was gone. The being in her arms and she'd always plainly through her skin. She was allowed she'd be strong, and she was.
