

BETTER BUILT OF BETTER MATERIALS

THE WASIOTA—DESIGN NO. A-515

Generally speaking, the standard of small home construction has not kept pace with the improved standard of living that has marked the past few years. The greater earning power of the average man has brought greater power to purchase and enjoy better entertainment, to dress better and to provide better food for his family.

But in the matter of housing we are lagging twenty-five years behind the times. The nation is still building the majority of its homes in such fashion that they quickly decay and must be renewed at frequent intervals, to say nothing of the tremendous annual effort and expense which is required to keep them in repair. As soon as a house of such non-permanent construction is completed it begins to decay. On account of its high upkeep expense and seriously rapid depreciation, the wisdom of selecting a home of such construction by a man of average means is very questionable.

The Common Brick Manufacturers' Association, Cleveland, Ohio, can furnish complete drawings for this design. Leaflet on brick construction sent upon request.

There are signs, however, that small home owners are now beginning to see the real economy and great benefit of permanent construction even for the smallest home. A brick home will last for generations and for a long number of years will look as good as new. A fact that will always be reflected in its high resale value; and the nominal painting and upkeep expense of a brick house is gratefully appreciated year by year. The owner of the Wasiota design shown here, for instance, chose wisely when he selected brick as the material for the outside walls of his house. He knows that his brick house safeguards his investment and his years of savings. The Wasiota is really a very small house, but being set with its broad side to the street it appears to be very much larger than it really is. The rooms are all of ample size, however, and there is practically no space that has to be devoted to useless halls. Every inch of the first floor is occupied by living quarters. Consequently, the rooms are of generous size.

Creson Division in Contests. Very successful athletes made a very profitable season in the Pennsylvania Railroad system road at Tyrone Saturday, when the Eastern Division team retained the grand division championship by scoring a total of 237 points. The points scored by the local division athletes were counted in the total of the Eastern division team. New Jersey's division team was second, with a total of 187. Joseph Connel, of Creson, captured third place in the running broad jump, while Miss Margaret McCarthy, of Creson, placed second in the women's 100-yard dash. The Creson girls' relay team captured second place in the women's half-mile contest. The Creson fifth team again took away the honors in that event, their total being 911.

Beauty. We all want beauty for the refreshment of our souls. Sometimes we think of it as a luxury, but when God made the world, He made it very beautiful, and meant that we should live amongst its beauties and that they should speak peace to us in our daily lives.—Isotavia Hill.
