Essential to Profitable Farming

The Utility Express Truck $550 Chassis Only f. o. b. Flint, Mich.
Fits any Standard Truck Body

No business can succeed unless its product is profitably sold. Most farms have a fine production department but no sales department. They grow crops and stock bought by buyers who set the price.

One of the chief reasons for this unprofitable situation is the average farmer's poor facilities for moving his crops or stock to the place where he can sell or ship to the best advantage. Because of the time and expense of horse delivery millions of dollars worth of produce spoils annually on American farms. The saving of this waste would, in many cases, change a losing farm to a money-maker.

This low-priced, high-grade, reliable truck was designed as a money-saver and money-maker for farmers and business houses needing fast low-cost haulage of heavy or bulky goods. It fits any standard type of truck body. Ask any Chevrolet dealer for price of the style of body you require.

Thunder Brings Out Worms.

"It is the thunder that causes so many worms to be seen on the ground after a rain," says J. W. Gannon of Montgomery, Ala., in the Detroit News. He explains: "They leave the ground on account of the vibration caused by the thunder. They are never seen except after an unusually hard thunderstorm. The thunder does it; not the rain."

Down here, where we would rather fish than eat, if you ask a native about getting his bait he will tell you that he is going to "fiddle 'em out," or "saw 'em out." He drives a stout piece of plank down in the ground a foot and a half or two feet deep and then takes a heavy piece of plank and draws it across the top of the piece driven in the ground for a few minutes, causing a vibration of the ground, and all the worms within a radius of several feet come to the surface.

Plov Lays Cable.

The plov has been set to work laying electric-light cables. A cast-steel implement for deep plowing was adapted for the purpose, and with a small force of workers the plov installed 1,500 feet of single, lead-covered cable in one day.

It was fitted with a clamp to hold the end of the cable, and a gasoline engine, with a drum, was hitched to the drawbar. The cable was pulled along beneath the surface of the ground by the plowshare, so that, as the plov proceeded the cable was laid in the trench made.

The company making the experiment attained a still better record when a heavy piece of plank and draws it across the top of the piece driven in the ground for a few minutes, causing a vibration of the ground, and all the worms within a radius of several feet come to the surface.

Repeaters.

He (with great dignity)—Then this is absolutely final!

She—Absolutely. Shall I return your letters?

He—Yes, please. I think they're good enough to use again.

The Short Game.

Mrs. Grubbridge—George, you'll drive me out of my mind.

George (an inveterate golfer)—That's not a drive, my dear—that's a putt.—Life.

Why the Doctor asks: "Do you drink coffee?"

If you are troubled with headaches, insomnia, indigestion, or sluggishness of the liver or bowels, probably one of the first questions your doctor asks is, "Do you drink coffee?"

He knows, better than anyone else, that the drug, caffeine, present in coffee, tends to irritate the nervous system and is a frequent cause of disturbance to health.

If coffee causes trouble, and you value health, stop coffee and drink Postum.

Postum is a pure cereal beverage—absolutely free from caffeine or any other drug. It has a delicious flavor, that many people prefer to coffee.

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 30 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

MISTAKES MADE BY POETS

Blunders in Literature Are Not All Confined to the Living Authors.

The blunders in literature are not all confined to living authors. Milton's lines, "Thick as autumn leaves that strew the brooks in Val-d'Ambrosia," are familiar to everyone, but, as a matter of fact, the Val-d'Ambrosia forests are all of pine trees, so that there are no leaves, and pine needles do not fall in the autumn, but towards spring.

In "Comus" he writes: "And in the violet embowered vale Where the lily-lover nightly treads, Nightly to thee her sad song mourneth well."

Unfortunately for the poet, the male nightingale alone sings and the female is voiceless.

Another classic writer who allowed his meter to get the better of his sense was Pope, who wrote:

When first young Maro, in his noble mind, A work of utmost immortal Rome designed.

He had overlooked the fact that, if Rome was immortal, nothing could outlast it.

But neither of these is any worse than the story of Pharaoh's daughter finding the infant Moses among the bulrushes on the banks of the Nile. As a matter of fact, bulrushes do not thrive in that part of the world, and there are none on the banks of the Nile.

In his youthfulness may be found some excuse for Keats writing: "Like stout Cortez, when, with eager eyes, He gazed at the Pacific."

Balboa discovered the Pacific, and not Cortez.

VULCAN THE GOD OF FIRE

Forger of Thunderbolts for Jupiter When Hurled by Mother From Olympus.

Vulcan is in classic mythology the god of fire, the patron of blacksmiths and workers in metals, and the creator of the gods. He was the son of Jupiter and Juno, or, according to some accounts, of Juno alone. Owing to his weakness and lameness, he incurred the displeasure of his mother and was cast by her from Olympus.

After dwelling for nine years with Thetis and Eurynome in a grotto beneath Oceanus, Vulcan returned to Olympus, but was cast out a second time for presuming to side with his mother in a quarrel between her and Jupiter. He fell on the island of Lemnos and there set up his forge; but afterward removed them to the volcanic islands of Lipari, near Sicily, where he forged the thunderbolts of Jupiter and other marvelous implements.

Curious Things About Starfish.

Legs or a starfish? At first you will more than likely say not, but if you want to make certain put one in a pool of water and watch what happens. Soon you will notice it scrambling over stones and gliding up any rock that may be in its way. This is the moment to snatch it up and have a look at the hundreds of little legs it keeps curled up inside, ready to poke out of holes in the skin when required.

How to Test Fresh Eggs.

The best test of all for the egg is its appearance after it is broken—if the white and yolk run together it is evidence that the egg is not strictly fresh, though no odor is perceptible. But that is too late to save money, if not to avert an actual catastrophe. One way to tell a newly laid egg is by the "glow" or "blow" on the shell.

EDUCATION WEEK IN SCHOOLS

American Legion Will Have Generous Aid in Conducting Program Beginning November 18.

The observance of American Education week, a movement sponsored last year by the American Legion, which received whole-hearted cooperation from school, church and civic authorities, has again been designated, and will begin Sunday, November 18. At the time set, Legion posts throughout the country will unite in an effort from which practically every school child in the United States may profit.

The slogan for the 1923 observance is, "Visit the Schools Today," and its aim is to enlist more interest in the institutions of learning on the part of the parents. Garland W. Powell, director of the National American Legion commission of the American Legion, has outlined a definite program for the movement, and is receiving donations from school authorities in every section of the country.

Each day of the week has been set aside for some particular consideration, according to the program offered by Mr. Powell. Beginning with Sunday, when pastors of all denominations will deliver sermons on the relationship of the church and the school, all phases and influences of school life will be touched. Monday, according to the program, is to be known as American Constitution day, when it is hoped that a concise idea of citizenship may be obtained by consideration of the instrument which made it possible. The observance of Practical accomplishments of the United States Bureau, regarded by Frank T. Hines as noteworthy results for the benefit of the disabled man, have been advocated, and approved with the policies of the American Legion, according to Joseph Powell, chairman of the national relations committee of the American Legion.

Among the chief activities of the bureau for the disabled man have been the placing of a permanent partial list of disabled beneficiaries, thereby reducing expenditures, eliminating unnecessary travel and personal expenses.

Another feature of the bureau, strongly advocated by the Legion, was the employment of methods of placement of disabled men, which has been successful in securing positions for thousands of the disabled men. National dignitaries, the operation of the bureau with the elimination of administration office expenses, by closing 35 suboffice offices; concentration of bureaus in three large central depots; inventory of all these supplies; elimination of further purchases; elimination of a record section in the suboffice; consolidation of suboffice in central office under one head; establishment of an inspection division contemplated by the law, but not yet established; the closing of suboffice for institutions where settlements had not been effected; and the elimination of the principal achievements, according to Director Hines, is the placing of the bureau on a strict budget system.

The East.

And then I saw the men of the East—they were looking at me. The whole length of the jetty was full of people. I saw brown, bronze, yellow faces, the black eyes, the glitter, the color of an Eastern crowd. And all these things started without a murmur, without a sigh, without a movement. . . . Nothing moved. The fronts of palms stood still against the sky. Not a branch stirred along the shore, and the brown roofs of hidden houses peeped through the green foliage, through the big leaves that hung shining and still like leaves forged of heavy metal.
