"Amen!" Sez We

In These Good Old Days. It was in the early days of sleeping cars.

"Porter," cried a passenger as the train gave a jolt and dragged his last sheet of bed clothing aside, "bring me a corkcreeper."

The porter came hurrying along the aisle.

"Sorry, sir," he said, respectfully, "but we don't allow drinking in the berths."

"I don't want to drink," retorted the passenger. "I merely want to extract a pillow that has worked its way into my ear."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Doctor Was Out. She was a maid who had been with the doctor for years and the habitual expressions of those years could not easily be laid aside.

When the doctor died she remained at the house. An old friend of the doctor, who had been absent and had not heard of his death, called and was admitted.

"I would like to see Dr. B—" he said.

"I'm sorry," said the maid, "but the doctor is dead."

Stricken by this intelligence, the visitor sat silent for a minute, when the maid said: "Will you—will you—wait?"—Boston Transcript.

Why buy many bottles of other vermin-killers when one bottle of Dr. Peery's "Dead Star" will work without fail? Adv.

Companions in Evil. The parrot had been naughty and hurt the baby. This made the mistress so angry that she threw the bird under the bed, where it remained in disgrace.

When the husband came home he inquired for the bird, and was told that it was under the bed.

As he crawled in after it, the bird inquired: "Halloo, what have you done?"—Judge.

No man realises as promptly that he is a failure as he does that he is a success.

Any sensible young man will draw the line at cigarette-flavored kisses.
