FARMERS INTERESTED IN CAMBRIA COUNTY'S FAIR AT EBENSBURG

One Authority Last Year Said that Cambria has the Greatest County Plant in the Country.

Though followers of all walks of life have a real interest in the great Cambria county fair to be held this year the week of September 14th, the farmers more than any other class are interested in an agricultural display such as the one conducted annually at the million dollar Ebenburg plant.

Among the many features of the Cambria county exhibition having an especial appeal to the farmer is the unique competition for granges, conducted at every fair by the fair association. Each grange in Cambria county is invited to have a booth displaying a variety of farm products grown by its members. The association each year reserves excellent display spaces for these exhibits. The grange booth last year attracted considerable attention. More granges are expected to enter the competition this year and due to the building of two new buildings this summer the farmers will have two additional cattle barns for the accommodation of their stock as well.

The fair association offers cash prizes to the granges aggregating $350 and a loving cup to become the permanent property of the grange winning first place two successive times. The first prize of $100 and the possession of the cup was awarded last fall to Concord grange of Patton. The same first prize will be offered this year, in addition to the following: Second place $100 in cash; third, $75; fourth, $50.00; fifth, $25.

Competition judges will determine the standing of exhibits on the following basis: quality 50 points; variety 30 points; quantity 10 points and display 10 points.

The grange competition is open to granges of Cambria county and is designed to promote the activities of these valuable farm organizations. The grange fair plant, located at Ebenburg, is the largest and most modern in the county. It is well known stock exhibitor and a prominent judge at state and international fairs, and last year at Ebenburg, Cambria County's Fair Grounds, not only the greatest county fair in the county, but it exceeds many state fairs in features, buildings and exhibits.

The permanent home for the fair is an affair of the fair association, but it reflects the general consensus of opinion among fair men in regard to the Cambria County Exhibition. Some exhibitors came to Ebenburg reluctantly last year, because they feared to face the first year's experience. They found state fair conditions and all of them are coming back. This year they will find two additional cattle barns for the accommodation of their stock as well.

The Cambria county fair has been given state classification and placed on a schedule that will permit the holding of international stock fairs here the week of September 14th.

Advise from new, adequate and sanitary buildings, constructed for the benefit of the exhibitor as well as the spectator, the Ebenburg fair grounds has one of the most modern race tracks that it is possible to construct. The track is underdrained and is fast, dry and safe immediately after a rain. The grand stand and the bleachers afford excellent visibility and spectators, adults and children, are kept away from the oval. Neither spectators or automobiles are permitted inside the track.

The midway at the Ebenburg fair grounds is 250 feet wide and 2,500 feet long. It is a general artery of circulation for the public, every point of interest being in sight and easily accessible. Motor vehicle and pedestrian traffic can not mingle nor cross on the grounds. The parking grounds accommodate 20,000 cars under a system that was the wonder of all experienced fair officials who visited the Cambria county fair last year.

The arena ranks high among the many well equipped buildings on the grounds. It seats 5,000 people and during the fair September 14th it will be the center of all indoor activities, including the judging of live stock, free shows, band concerts and other features.

GROWTH OF AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY IS MARVEL Progress obtained by work of the hardest kind has brought the automotive industry within a quarter of a century from virtually nothing to the commanding place in the industrial life of our country. Now that first place has been attained there should be no tendency to sit back satisfied. This attitude must not be assumed if the industry is to retain its leading position.

The commercial history of this country's rebirth with instance of manufacturers who felt that they had arrived and could rest content only later to be reborn awakened by some young vigorous rival who recognized the principle that to succeed you must progress. Every year for two decades the leading automobile manufacturers have brought out what they honestly believed was the best car in its price class, and felt that it could not be excelled. Yet within twelve months their own engineers have proved that the product could be improved. And so it has gone on, each year bringing better automobiles and so it will continue as long as it is possible to make improvements.

Years ago the Buick Motor Company took for its slogan, "When Buick Automobiles are Built, Buick Will Build Them." This was not selected as a vainglorious boast, but was predicated on the well defined policy that Buick intends bettering its product by the acquisition of such improvements as continuous experience may develop.

Maybe the perfect automobile is yet to be built. No one can know how close we are from that coveted result. Extensive research will reveal this, and this fact is recognized by the more progressive manufacturers, who are constantly striving to make a better car.

This has been the policy of the Buick Motor Company and it will continue as such. The large engineering and research staff of the Buick are constantly working to create better Buicks and as they improve better Buicks will be the industry as a whole that there is a tendency to discard the habit of making change, as merely for the sake of having a change. But this extended is the attainment of real improvement from year to year, would mean, but one thing ultimately—that the automotive industry would start slipping backward, for it is a truth that nothing stands still, we must continue to go forward, or go backward.

WEEKLY HEALTH TALK TELLS OF SUNSHINE VALUE The health talk of the Pennsylvania Department of Health is presented this week by Dr. Charles H. Winter, Secretary of Health, Dr. Meier says.

"Much is being said these days concerning the health effects of the sun upon the human body. Dr. Bailett of Leyden, Switzerland, in 1903, was the first to apply the sun bath treatment to sufferers from tuberculosis. His method involves a return to the sun and the direct application of the sun's rays to the body. His experiments have proved most successful in the treatment of advanced cases of tuberculosis as well as those who are undernourished and suffering from the disease in a latent form.

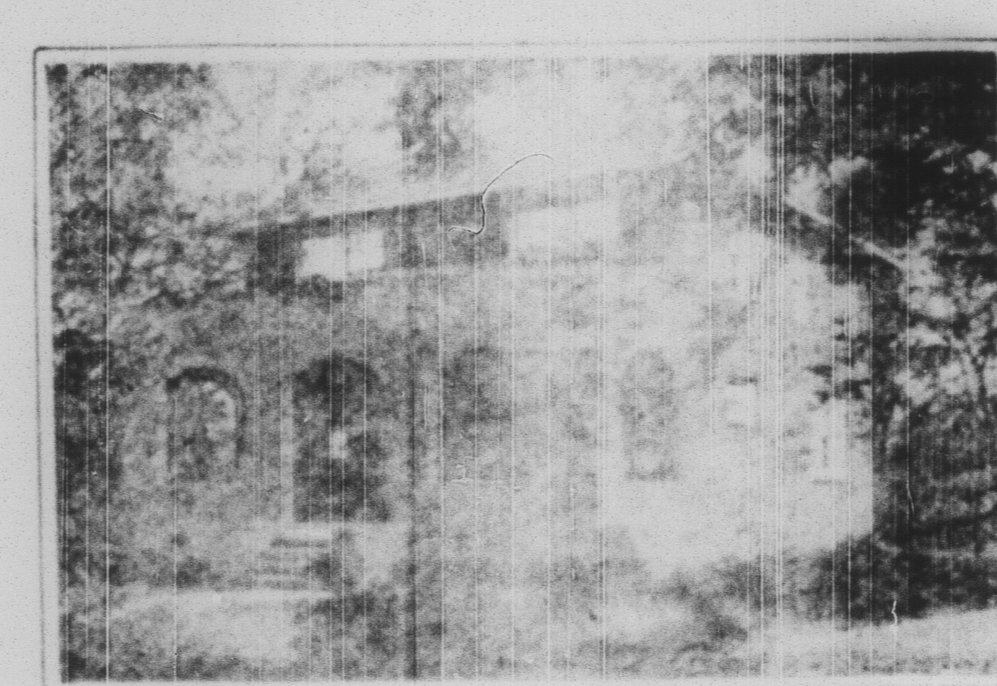

Since 1911, the state department of health, following Dr. Bailett's method, has been applying the sun bath to undernourished children at the two Sanatoria, namely, Cresson and Mount Alto, and with great success.

The experiments of the health department conclusively indicate that the advantages of direct sunlight (rather than the sun's heat) is not alone helpful to sick people, but it will cure also. This being the bathing season, many of the citizens of Pennsylvania will in their recreation be in a position to benefit from the direct effect of the sun. However, it must be understood that while the sun may be employed as a health giver, it can also act in one's disadvantage.

In order to derive the maximum benefit from bathing in colored or undyed wool suits should be used. No person suffering from cuts, scratches, fever or inflamed eyes, should be caught in the sun. The reason for this is that swimming and drying tend to force the infection into sinuses or ears and may result in complications. Many people remain in the water or in the sun too long, with the double effect of overexerting the body and subjecting themselves to the painful sunburn.

By following these rules summer bathing will be found to be not only a delightful recreation but a boon to health as well. Moderation, however, as in all things else, is the keynote. Twenty minutes of sun light in a

THE ONEIDA, DESIGN NO. 10

The feature in this house, which is a matter of preference to the observer is the large, walled porch which, because of its size, is the one on which it is built. Throughout the house supports Spanish influence with its half arched openings and arched in.

The main floor is built on a slight rise and the living room is the central point. The plan shows the entrance is at the end of the living room with French doors opening on the porch. The dining room is built against the kitchen, and arranged with entrance from without of a rear porch.

The second floor has three large bedrooms, well supplied with closets and a sleeping porch with cement windows. The bath is off the hall at the level of the stairway and lavatory.

The architectural home, as shown in the photograph, has a modern design of custom brick and in some of the most modern living equipment with a minimum of upkeep outside and avoidance of fire safety and maintenance.

You May Have Heard This One But Its Really Worth Repeating. It Illustrates AN IMPORTANT POINT

Once upon a time, not so many years ago, the directors of a newly organized company held a very important meeting. They were deciding whether to charge $1 or $5 for a patented article which the company was about to put on the market. All the evidence indicated that they could profitably market the article for $1. Nevertheless, they set the price at $5 and maintained it at $5 until their patents ran out. This article undoubtedly saves its cost two or three times a year—and it lasts ten or twenty years. Therefore, men have asserted that the price was fair, that the inventor and the investors who made this article available to the public were entitled to a goodly return. We do not venture to discuss the justification of that price. What we should like to point out is this: If that company had been a public utility it could not have charged $5. The law would have prevented it. Because of such regulation, a public utility necessarily operates under a very distinct limitation—limitations that are in marked contrast to the freedom which a private enterprise enjoys.

MANY CONTINUANCES ENTERED IN COURT

During the June term of court which opened the third Monday in June more entries were made in the continuance docket in the Prothonotary's office than in any other period in the history of the county, according to announcement from the office of the prothonotary. There was a total of 100 entries. In the same period there were 271 executions and 237 municipal and mechanics' liens were filed.

The entry of so many suits is not likely to be a mark of the county's growth but as an indication of the prevailing monetary depression throughout the country. A large number of the entries represent claims of judgment and other not so well suited for money.

At the same time, however, all the county offices are showing a continuing growth in business. In the office of Recorder of Deeds Ross Sumner, at the close of business last Saturday, there had been filed for recording, 4,280 deeds, mortgages and other instruments, as against 4,100 filed the day before. All instruments filed up to date had been recorded and are ready for return to the parties filing them.

The increase in business in the recorder's office cannot be taken as either an indication of depression or prosperity. An increase in the number of loans and mortgages may occur during periods of prosperity as well as in times of depression. Much of the present increase is probably due to the steady growth of the county.
