HIGH SCHOOL NOTES
As Dished Out By Our Regular Correspondent.

By Russell Christoff.
Miss Sally Douglass of Altoona visited the high school on Tuesday afternoon of this week.

It is quite noticeable that the pupils of the bookkeeping class are taking their model sets home each evening. The cause of it all is a trial balance.

Ruth Blake, Eva Garrity, Rhea Boyer and Winka Beck hiked to St. Benedict on Saturday.
Betty Boyer visited the High School on Thursday. Come again, Betty.

Boots Cochran visited in Phillipsburg over the week end.
The Hon. Clark Heist got a hair cut. We won't say he needed it.

The senior shorthand class had a transcription test last Tuesday. "Why did I ever leave home? (I know—I took the test.)"
Dot Somerville was among the missing last Monday. Where were you Dot?

Norman Peters is making a collection of pencils in the study hall. So that's where our pencils get to!
Cornelia Rumberger, Esther Boyer, Winka Beck and Jimmy Leon have had the unique experience of getting their fingers caught in a mouse trap. Now be sure that doesn't hinder you from getting your lessons.

Harold Cronemiller attended the basketball game at St. Benedict last Friday night and while returning to Patton had the misfortune of fixing a flat for his companions very much.
Gerald Thomas likes to take hikes in the moonlight along the state road. (Not alone, however.)

Rita Wirtner, Frances Bender and Elizabeth DeBoo started to Johnstown on Sunday. Their journey would have been completed if Lizzie—I mean Henry, wouldn't have broken down.
Charles Baker doesn't care much for Lent. He longs for the "good old summer time."

Louise McLaughlin, and Mildred Bearer hike to Chest Springs Sunday afternoon.
Ed Bender was a recent visitor in Carrolltown.

Casey Watt says being a bridesmaid is near enough to the altar for her. (Fear not, ye admirers of Casey, this worm will turn.)
The basketball season is nearing its end. Many of our high school fans will regret it.

Betty Fogerty lost her music pin. She would appreciate it if the finder would please return it to her.

Here is a short story made long: Mr. Botts was having an experiment on starch, fats, and proteins the other day. He asked different members of the class to bring certain things to be used in connection with the experiment. He inquired of Philip Crooks whether or not he could bring an egg. Phil said he thought he could because he heard the chickens cackle at noon. Phil brought the egg and the following day George Grozanich tried to take it from the chemistry table. He was caught in the act by Mr. Botts and was told if their chickens didn't lay enough eggs he should get some at the A. & P. (Note: This isn't funny; better read it again.)

Is it any wonder one can't find a bottle of ink in the study hall? Jimmy Leon has about a dozen bottles lined up on his desk like a parade of wooden soldiers.

Have you met Prof. Junda yet? Chick Farabaugh is lonesome since Ann Cyrescak had her seat changed several days ago. Cheer up, Chick, don't you know how absence makes the heart grow fonder.

The report cards were distributed among the high school last Tuesday. Everyone seemed quite pleased with their marks.
George Grozanich is (supply your own verb: raising, rearing, cultivating) a soup strainer.

The name of the Annual has not been decided upon yet. Have you anything to suggest?
Why not have a few good cheer leaders at the track meet at Ebensburg this year? Come on, you volunteers.

STATE POLICE DETAIL
REPORTS AT EBENSBURG

A detail of three state police from troop A at Greensburg, reported at Ebensburg last Friday for duty. The detail is in charge of Sergeant Albert Dahlstrom and will remain there permanently, according to information from the Greensburg barracks, for the purpose of making a better "tie-up" by committing suicide. Such was the route 6. During the sesqui-centennial last year in Philadelphia, Sergeant Dahlstrom was in charge of the Pennsylvania building. The detailing of the three troopers to the county seat will not effect the detail of two state police a Twin Rocks, who will remain there it was announced.

REPORT OF THE MARCH GRAND JURY IS FILED

The following report was submitted by the March grand jury at the wind up of its duties at Ebensburg last week:

We, the undersigned, grand jury of the March term of court, have visited the following county institutions: The county jail, which we have found in excellent condition and the management good; we commend Warden Kneen on his good management. The county home is in good condition as to cleanliness, etc. It is well managed and the inmates are properly taken care of. Barnes, stock and farm machinery are all in good condition.

We recommend that a suitable morgue be built, that an improved road be built from the public highway to the home, around the home and back to the public highway; that a sidewalk from the home to the barn be repaired or relaid.

The children's home is well managed and is in good condition as to general upkeep. We recommend that suitable laundry facilities be provided.
We find the county court house in excellent condition.
W. W. LOCKARD, Foreman.

ALBERT MARZEON.
Albert, the six weeks old child of Mr. and Mrs. Bertolo Marzeon, of Bakerton, died at the parental home on Monday. Besides the parents the child is survived by one brother and three sisters.

Frank Tomala, aged 27 years, single, of Barnesboro, died of pneumonia at the Spangler hospital Wednesday morning. He is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters. He was admitted to the hospital on March 7th.
The funeral services will be held at nine o'clock on Friday morning in the Barnesboro Polish Catholic church. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

The regular March term of criminal court is in session at Ebensburg this week and is keeping the juries busy. All three judges are on the bench and rapid progress is being made in the disposition of cases, of which there are many.

Moderate in Cost for a Moderate Income

PLANNED only for a small family this home is suitable for no other. Unless you need just that kind it is wasting your time to go farther. But for the man of small means, with a small family, there is an excellent opportunity in this design. First of all it will not be expensive to build as all its construction features are of the simplest character. The walls are rectangular, without deviation. There is but the one center chimney. The interior arrangement presents no complications. In every particular it is practical.

This home, in almost any section of the country where common brick are made, could be built at a very slight increase over its cost in frame construction. Probably not more than six per cent. But its worth, once built so, would be very considerably more from the standpoint of durability, economy of upkeep, heating and insurance, and fire-safety. And to the man of limited income these are important factors. Moreover, if he ever desired to sell it, he would find that its resale value would be decidedly greater than that of a frame house.

In its interior arrangement every inch of space is utilized to the best advantage. Entrance is into a small hallway at the rear of which is a coat closet, and from either side of which doors lead into living room and dining alcove. The latter replaces the usual dining room and is ample and cozy. Although well lighted by three windows the living room yet has plenty of wall space for hanging pictures. Back of the dining alcove is the kitchen with an ice and storage room inclosed on the rear service porch. Two large bedrooms and bath are on the second floor.

The Common Brick Manufacturers' Association, Cleveland, Ohio, can furnish complete drawings for this design. Lead brick construction sent upon request.
