

NEWS ITEMS ARE SOLICITED BY THE PATTON COURIER. IF YOU HAVE A VISITOR, OR HAVE BEEN VISITED, DON'T HESITATE TO LET US KNOW ABOUT IT.

Patton Courier

THE COURIER OFFICE IS ADEQUATELY EQUIPPED TO TAKE CARE OF JOB PRINTING OF ALL KINDS, AND SOLICITS YOUR PATRONAGE ON THE BASIS OF SATISFACTION.

VOL. XXXIII. NO. 23.

PATTON, CAMBRIA COUNTY, PA., THURSDAY, MAY 12th, 1927.

(5c)

$2.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

LOCAL AND STATE NEWS OF INTEREST

Condensed Items Gathered from Various Sources for the Busy Reader.

The State Prinary at Harrisburg, was destroyed at a loss of $1,500,000 in a fire Saturday night in which two firemen lost their lives.

One man is dead and two others are in the Clearfield hospital in a serious condition, as the result of an automobile accident near Clearfield on Saturday night.

The postoffice department announced Saturday that the postoffice at Wehrum, Indiana county, has been advanced from the fourth to the presidential class, with a salary of $1,100.

Due to a cave-in over Newborn mine near Carrolltown, the home of Mr. Marsh has been badly damaged and the family is living in constant fear of further settling of earth under the house.

Deer are reported quite plentiful in Clearfield county. The other day a herd of seven deer was seen along Route 6 near Mages Mills. They were apparently not frightened, but to the contrary were taking their time in walking slowly over the ridge.

Mrs. Eliza Jagers, aged 61, died early Friday morning at the home of her son, Fred Jagers at North Barnesboro. She formerly resided in Barnesboro but located in Pittsburg seven years ago.

The Ebensburg Coal Company at Colver, in order to promote a friendly competition and neat appearing properties and homes has announced their annual garden contests for the season and will give prizes for the different gardens appearing in the best.

Walter J. Kress of Johnstown has been appointed to a place in the Auditor General's department under the deputy Auditor General in charge of tax collections. His duties will permit him to remain in Johnstown and attend to his law practice there.

E. J. Anderson of State College, recently held two meetings for Bee Keepers in Cambria county, one at the apary of J. B. Holsinger near Duff Borough, and the second at the farm of John Kruz between Munster and Cresson. He discussed caring for bees during the winter and the problems that will face the bee keepers during the early summer months.

Outside of the areas where now the Federal government is to undertake the feeding of elk, there are thousands of these fine animals dying annually of starvation.

John Kelly, a machine cutter at the mines at Revloc was seriously injured the other day when the machine he was using struck a hard rock and kicked back, breaking his leg.

Forty-four new patients were admitted to the state sanatorium at Summit on Thursday last, the regular weekly admission day for tuberculosis treatment. There are now 729 patients at the institution.

There will be more than one-half million hunters in the woods of Pennsylvania when the season opens this fall. It has been indicated by officials of the state game commission.

There were 13 less fatal industrial accidents in Pennsylvania during March of this year than during the same month in 1926, the Department of Labor and Industry has announced.

Conducting his first naturalization court since his election to the bench, Judge Thos. C. Hare of Blair county last week granted citizenship to 80 aliens, among them five women. Two applicants convicted of recent criminal offenses, had their petitions dismissed.

Attacked and assaulted by an unidentified fiend, shortly before noon on Wednesday last while on an errand for her mother, Lillian Donahue and 8 year old Blairsville girl, lies in a precarious condition at the Latrobe hospital. Police authorities are conducting a rigid investigation in the hope of apprehending her assailant.

Motorists in Ebensburg are not held to the observance of a particular speed limit but are charged with the responsibility of driving with reasonable care, taking into consideration the width of the street and other traffic conditions, under the terms of an ordinance recently passed by the borough council. This form of ordinance is considered better for all interests than the older law that set a speed limit.

One man was seriously injured and another narrowly escaped injury on Friday last when a heavy 90 foot boom, operated by the John F. Casey Construction Co. of Pittsburg, contractors erecting a new reservoir for the borough of Blairsville, crashed down, demolishing the engine house and a motor truck.

O. A. Holsinger has resigned his position with the First National Bank at Beaverdale to accept the position of Cashier of the First National Bank at Cairnbrook.

Three boys who escaped from a detention home in Pittsburg last week were picked up the other day by the Cresson police authorities and are being held at Ebensburg.

The regular May term of Naturalization court at Ebensburg has been postponed to the first week in June.

Dr. Emily Jones of Johnstown has been appointed Chief of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Vital Statistics, and administrator of vacation in the State Health Department.

Alice J., seven months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boyle, of Bakerson, died Sunday morning.

BEST ON MARKET AT GRAND THEATRE

A Galaxy of Good Shows Are on the Schedule Again for the Coming Week.

Thursday and Friday Hoot Gibson plays in the western picture, "The Buckaroo Kid" at the Grand Theatre—a really good picture of the bravest and breeziest cowboy who ever scorch a saddle. He could lick anything from a high pitching bronc to a mess of tough ranch hands. And in this picture, believe us, Hoot shows his stupor! That's why they call him the Buckaroo Kid!

On Monday George K. Arthur and Dorothy Revier play in the Capitol screen success, "When the Wife's Away." The picture includes a good story as well as a good cast.

On Tuesday and Wednesday Harold Lloyd the king of fun and laughter, appears on the screen in his latest picture success, "THE KID BROTHER." Harold Lloyd, the leading individual exponent of clean, wholesome, comedy on the screen today, offers you more for your money than any other star. And in "The Kid Brother" he offers a picture he worked on for nearly a year. A picture he "audience tested" time and again, editing and polishing before passing on for you to laugh at. Let the "Kid Brother" show you a real good time! You'll laugh long and loudly.

CHE TREMON COUNTRY CLUB OPENDED THURSDAY LAST

The 1927 season of the Chetremont Country Club, near Cherrytree, opened on Thursday last. At 6:30 p. m. a dinner was served to members and house guests and dancing and bridge followed. A committee of the following ladies superintended the fete: Mesdames J. C. Clark, Emma Davis, Ray E. Brown, George F. Wildeman, C. T. Griest, T. H. McKenzie and Miss Betty Griest.

The club house will be under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Wachob who are capable people and qualified to cater to the members of the club and their guests during the coming months.

The club grounds in due season will present a better appearance than ever, only a little more time being required to bring out the summer garb to the lawns and golf course. A lively season is planned for the club this year.

MICHAEL WIRTNER IS STRUCK BY AUTO; DIES

Michael Wirtner, a native of Carrolltown, and for the past several years a resident of Latrobe, was struck by an automobile in Latrobe on Saturday night, as he alighted from a street car on which he was a passenger, and so badly injured that he died a few hours later in a hospital in Greensburg.

He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wirtner of Carrolltown, and a brother of the Rev. Father Boniface O. S. B., of St. Vincent's Archdiocese, Beatty Mrs. H. B. Pothoff of Latrobe; and Mrs. S. P. Huber and Mrs. Josephine Mangold of Carrolltown.

Mr. Wirtner was a widower, his wife passing away a number of years ago.

The body of the deceased was brought to Carrolltown on Tuesday and taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Mangold. Funeral services took place with a high mass of requiem at St. Benedict's church on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock and interment was made in the church cemetery.

MRS. SARAH C. KRISE. Mrs. Sarah Catherine Krise, aged 73 years, one of the best known residents of the Fallen Timber community, died at her home there at 2:15 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Death was caused by a complication of diseases. The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon in the Beaver Valley United Brethren church and interment was in the cemetery adjoining it.

Mrs. Krise is survived by her husband, John C. of Fallen Timber; Walter and Elora Mae, both at home; Blair of Tryona, Clarence of Pittsburg, Mrs. Roy Beers of Bellwood, and Mary of McKeesport. A daughter, Alda, preceded Mrs. Krise to the grave. Nine grandchildren also survive.

A small granary owned by William Kirsch at Spangler was destroyed by fire on Friday. A large quantity of oil in the building caused quite a conflagration.

Construction of a new textile mill has been started at Indiana.

Banns of marriage have been announced between Daniel McConnell of Chest Springs and Clara M. Hogue of East Carroll township.

Albert W. Cameron, 32 years old, of Strongstown, Indiana county, was killed on Tuesday when caught under a falling derrick.

Steve Magyar, aged 15 years of Colver, died on Tuesday afternoon following an illness of but a few days.

To Be, or Not To Be—Wet! by Albert T. Reid

CAMBRIA KIWANIAN HOLD FINE MEETING

Members of Indian Club Attend Gathering At The Brandon Monday Evening.

"Children's Playgrounds" was the subject that occupied the attention and discussion of the members of the Kiwanis club at their weekly meeting and luncheon at the Brandon hotel at Spangler on Monday evening last. A number of members of the Indiana club, interested in this theme were in attendance at the meeting.

A musical program was given by Miss Eva Lowmaster, Miss Gladys Rainey and William Scollon, of Barnesboro. The program was in charge of Richard Scollon and George Clark.

The Northern Cambria and Ebensburg clubs will meet jointly at the Ebensburg Inn on May 27th, the Ebensburg club inviting the local organization for a joint conference.

Trustees of Johnstown, Ebensburg, and Northern Cambria are arranging for a tri-club ladies night in the near future.

SHORT COUNTY NEWS. At the state P. O. of A. convention in Philadelphia last week it was voted to hold the 1928 convention in Johnstown next spring.

Gallitzin high school will have eleven new graduates this year. Commencement will be the last week in May.

Miss Mary D. Story of Johnstown has been elected to the position of headquarters of the American Red Cross to Hickman, Ky., for work among the flood sufferers along the Mississippi.

J. Blaine Gordon hanged himself in the Windber lock-up, Saturday night, where he was confined for disorderly conduct.

Miss Evelyn Burkhardt, of Johnstown, 23, was killed in an auto accident at Youngstown, Ohio, early Sunday morning, where she was going with three young friends to spend the day.

A league has been formed of ball teams representing the Sunday schools of Gallitzin, Cresson, Lilly and Portage.

Mrs. Edna C. Somerville and Harry W. Evans, a well known Ebensburg couple, were married on Tuesday.

More funds are badly needed for the relief of the sufferers in the flood devastated regions of the lower Mississippi valley. Have you contributed to the worthy cause?

MOTOR-CYCLE MEET MEMORIAL DAY

What promises to be the biggest event of its kind ever staged in this section of the state will be motor-cycle races and polo games at the Carrolltown Fair Grounds, to be held on the afternoon of Memorial Day, Monday, May 30th, next.

PATTON FRACTURE SKULL

Falling 20 feet from a scaffold while engaged in setting stone at the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament under construction at Altoona, Joseph Carretti, aged 50 years, of this place, was seriously injured Tuesday. He suffered a fracture of the skull, contusions of the face, severe scalp lacerations, and fractures of several ribs. The victim is resting fairly well at the Altoona hospital.

Carretti was unconscious when picked up after the accident by fellow-workmen. His head was covered with blood.

While climbing from one scaffold platform to another he grasped a newly set stone which was dislodged by his weight, precipitating him to the pavement below.

BIG HUNTING SEASON.

Preparations are being made by the state for another big hunting season in Pennsylvania in 1927. The bureau of publications the other day announced it had ordered 533,000 licenses for this year and the figure is the same as in 1926. The number of tags printed in 1924 was 503,850. It was 507,500 in 1925.

Out of the number printed by the state, 13,000 will be for Cambria county, Cambria will be the eleventh county in the state in the number of licenses ordered. Allegheny county leads, with 34,200, and Cameron is last, with 1,000.

MEETING OF THE CHURCH BASEBALL LEAGUE TODAY

A meeting of the church baseball league, recently formed in Patton, will be held in the M. E. Church at 7:30 this Thursday evening, May 12th. Be there. Many matters of importance will be discussed.

MRS. DELLA OWEN. Funeral services for Mrs. Della Owen, widow of Edward Owen, of Forbes Road, Pa., a former resident of Blandburg, who died at her home on Wednesday of last week of a complication of diseases, were held on Friday afternoon in the M. E. Church at Blandburg and interment was in the church cemetery.

The deceased is survived by a number of children.

Mrs. Caroline Hines, aged 80, died last week at her home in Nanty-Glo. Her husband passed away a number of years ago. She is survived by a number of children.

Mrs. Kathryn Deighan of Renova is spending the week at the home of Billy Flynn.

Mary Stoltz was a Clearfield visitor last Sunday.

Someone asked Katinka last Saturday if she would like to join in the new missionary movement, and Katinka replied, "I'm crazy to try it, is it anything like the fox trot?"

A great many of the Sophomores were excused from school on Tuesday afternoon. It was such a nice day.

The exchanging of name cards during the past week has been carried on quite extensively by Seniors.

The Juniors and Sophomores have had it quite easy in school during the last few days. The Seniors—well, that is different!

Katinka Larimer has just received a certificate of proficiency from the Royal Typewriter Co. for writing 63 words a minute.

MRS. ELLEN COLBERT. Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen Colbert, of Ashville, who died Tuesday of last week at the Altoona hospital, were held on Friday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Gibbons, of Ashville. Interment was in the Coupon cemetery.

The deceased is survived by her husband, Robert Colbert, and these children: John of Hollidaysburg; Mrs. Gibbons; Mrs. Margaret Conrad and Alma and Lillian Colbert of Ashville; Mrs. Grace Tobin of Buffalo, N. Y.; and Arnold of Altoona.

FIRE COMPANY FETES LEADERS

Past President and Chief Are Honored by Members at Recent Meeting.

At a regular meeting of the Patton Volunteer Fire Company held in the fire building May 10th, George A. Lehman, who has been president of the company through the past five years, and James Blake, who has been chief of the company for eighteen of the twenty-four years of his membership in the company, were each presented with a beautiful gold watch and chain. W. J. Gill, treasurer of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unappreciated work of the members of a local volunteer fire company and indicated that when work was to be done these two gentlemen were always "on the job." Mr. Lehman, in thanking the members, stated that it was the members and not the officers who made or wrecked the splendid loyalty of the company, who made the presentation speech, touched briefly on the amount of self-sacrificing and often unapp