

Through Advice of Neighbor

Woman Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which she said had helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it out. It sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My back was no longer a drag to me. (I hear) an one who is troubled the way I was, I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same." — Mrs. BERTHA MEACHAM, 810 Center St., Lansing, Mich.

I had been sickly ever since I was fifteen years old. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I got well again. My housework and I am in good health. — Miss MARIE K. WITKINS, Etchikan, Alaska.

From Michigan to Alaska from Maine to Oregon and from Connecticut to California letters are continually being written by grateful women recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The compound is made from roots and herbs and for more than fifty years has been helping to restore run-down, over-worked women to health.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

The Catty Thing

Anne—Jack gave me a hair dryer for my birthday.
Mae—Oh, a clothesline. I suppose

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Aspirin Marked With "Bayer Cross" Has Been Proved Safe by Millions.

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 26 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous! — Ady.

History Repeats

Molly got a fine lot of wedding presents, didn't she?

Yes, she always does. — Sydney Bulletin

A simple dress prevents paper food, ASTHMA. World's famous Vegetable Pudding. Write for FREE SAMPLE. 312 First St., New York City.

Modern

Hail—Where's your home?

And hail—It's in the garage just now.

Some men go about looking for temptation to yield to.

Today's Big Offer to All Who Have Stomach Agony

Read About This Generous Money Back Guarantee

When you have any trouble with your stomach such as gas, heaviness and distension, why not with things which at best can only give relief?

With Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Remedy that will build up your upset, disordered stomach and make it so strong and vigorous that it will do its work without any help.

Such a medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Remedy, a delightful elixir that is sold by your local dealer and druggists everywhere with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't greatly help you money will be gladly returned.

It has helped thousands—it will no doubt help you.

ASTHMA

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA REMEDY
For the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for 25 cent sample and directions. Write for FREE SAMPLE. Burroughs & Llyon Co., Inc., Buffalo, N.Y.

J. D. KELLOGG'S
REMEDY

The DOOM TRAIL

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

CHAPTER II—Continued

"The Juggins, interrupted my missus. The lad is a cousin once removed. He goes to seek employment in the New world. To tell the truth, though strong and willing, he is not overburdened with wits. But he can swing an ax as well as anyone, and his muscles should bring him good hire on some wilderness farm."

"Aye," agreed Master Jenkins tonelessly.

In the street Juggins turned upon me indignantly.

"Would you ruin us, Master Harry?" he demanded. "Zooks, you were like to plunge yourself into trouble by your forward manner."

"It is to go, he must go then," rejoined Juggins. "Twas because I told as you did that I said what you heard, gran."

"And twas because he had a sound heart in him that he answered as he did," she snapped. "If he is to go, he should go, I dare say; and the greater the peril, the greater the reward. What you do next ought toward securing Master Harry's equipment!"

He went to the cupboard, from which he procured a bundle of rolled cloths. Layer after layer was unrolled, and finally he drew from the wrappings a gun such as I had never seen before. It was long in the barrel, well-stocked, yet very light and handy.

"You may exclaim over it, Master Harry," remarked Juggins as he surrounded it into my admiring hands, "but you can have no idea of its value."

He had been tested in the great forests, where a man's life depends upon the swiftness and accuracy with which he can shoot. I learned that in my own youth, and so when I returned to London I had this gun made for me by the king's own gunsmith, after plans I drew for him. There is none other like it."

"I called him King James in those days," I answered. "Yes, De Veule was mocking the petty motley of our exiled court. What is this king but a puppet figure for us to dandle in England's face?" he said. "And what are his pretenders but other puppets to dress the same?"

His friends all laughed.

And the most comical thing of all, ended De Veule, is to think of this puppet king with a puppet court ruling over a puppet England while France pulls the strings—as will surely happen some day."

"It was then I knocked him out of his chair."

Master Juggins gripped me by the hand with a warmth that surprised me.

"Good lad!" he exclaimed. "I would have done it myself."

"What? You are no Jacobite?"

"I am no Jacobite," he replied. "To some confusion, but no more, I am a Jacobite when you struck him."

"Twas for England, Master Harry, and a man's country means more than any king that ever ruled. But what came after?"

We fought in the upper room of the Tolson's office. De Veule and I and a friend of his and my friend, My friend was badly wounded."

"And you?"

I disarmed my opponent. I disarmed him several times. When we began to fence I found he knew little of the small sword; remember, he had been brought up in Canada—and would not have been pretty to slay a man as old as my mother. Also to treat him as I did was more humiliating to his pride than death."

You did well, Master Harry. But gravity will be awaiting us. We must hasten."

He walked in silence until we had reached the house in Holborn.

"How comes De Veule in London?" he asked suddenly as we climbed the stairs.

He was in some trouble in Paris—what I know not. The rumor was that he was ordered into exile. But it he suits for Canada, as Master Jenkins says—"

And on the same ship with Master Harry," interposed Juggins excitedly, "after appearing in Murray's behalf this afternoon."

Then there may be more to his enterprise than the mere punishment of exile from the court," I concluded.

"Tis so," exclaimed Juggins. "Be you doubt 'tis so. And maybe De Veule will recognize you."

Do you think my father's son will draw back on such excuse at this hour?" I said.

He laughed ruefully, and raised his hand for gravity.

"Ho, Goody! Here are two hungry forestrunners will eat your kitchen fare."

Granny tripped into the hall, a mug of bitter ale in either hand.

I heard what you said, and Master Harry's answer," she rebuked him. "Think shame on yourself, Robert, to hint that he would hesitate before perjury—and you sending him into it, too," she added somewhat logically, I thought. Now, do both of you draw these? Twill wash the taste of the streets and taverns from your mouths."

We obeyed her.

And what luck did you have?" she demanded next.

"He leaves us Saturday," said Juggins simply.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of the colony, Robert, to whom Juggins has given the name of James. Juggins proves to be the son of a former slave, a mulatto, and the father, to whom Juggins has given the name of John, is a Frenchman. At the head is Andrew Murray, a Scotchman, who has been a friend to Master Ormerod. The two are to London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to meet them with a letter to Governor Burnett, friend of Juggins, and work to follow.

—By—
Arthur D. Howden Smith
Author of
PORTO BELLO GOLD, Etc.

(© by Investors)
WNU service

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Master Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart pretender, returning from his exile in America, has come to Astoria, Oregon, to seek his fortune. Among his luggage comes to him the grandson of a former governor of