"Electricity brings increased comfort"

Says Herbert Hoover, Secretary U. S. Department of Commerce

"We are in the midst of a great transformationformation in the development of electric power -it is reducing the burden of human toil; it is increasing productivity; it is bringing increased comfort to our people."

What each workman in the United States can do with his the electric power he uses. Sixty-cutht million people are also using labor saving electrical devices in their homes.

Electrical service has its greatest value because it is deliverd at the time and place where it is needed. That is what el ectrical service means, and the toresight and enterprise of the country's light and power companies have helped make this

Because power companies built power plants and transmission lines that would take care of the growing demand for service many years in advance, every new electrical invention has found an abundance of power ready to serve it. Now even the al service through interconnec ted power systems.

Enthusiastic public acceptance has done much to help build this electrical service. Three milhim investors own the securities of electric power companies and the whole public has benefitted from rate reductions. made possible through increased use of labor saving devices.

To insure the complete fulfillment of the promise of comfort and happiness which electricity offers, the American principle of individual initiative must be manatained.
