The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. Puffiness and fever, too; it waxes no time until everything is serene. That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without the evil taste, it's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic, constipation, diarrhea, or need to aid sound, natural sleep. Just one warning: It is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend; other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Some Prefer Quiet Styles "Paris arbiters of men's fashions," says an exchange, "have approved of a royal blue evening suit for men to be worn with pale blue crepe de chine underwear." Let 'em decree till they burst, say we. Speaking for one Tom, nothing can induce us to give up our rose beige pongee for any pale blue crepe de chine.—Boston Transcript.

Not the Man

"How about having old Blotter for one of our campaign speakers?" "No; he's always so busy rounding off his sentences he never has time to make a point."—Boston Transcript.
