

Receives Honor Long Delayed

Here are Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hopkins of Kootenai, N. J., admiring the Congressional Medal of Honor and a citation for distinguished gallantry under fire during the Civil war that were awarded Hopkins 62 years ago, but which had just reached him. The delay of the award was due to the veteran's reluctance to apply personally for the honor. The couple have just celebrated the sixty-first anniversary of their wedding.

"Radio" Nearing Century Mark

Chicago.—Radio, once known as "wireless" underwent a process of elimination before the present radiation system was adopted. This method was preceded by two others, in which attempts at sending without wires were made by conduction and induction.

raphy and telegraph code, followed up Steinhell's experiments and in 1844 transmitted messages across a canal 75 feet wide. This was accomplished by two metal conductors in each side of the canal. By the insertion of a battery between the two underwater plates a current was carried across the canal with the water as the conductor. Three miles was the greatest distance reached.

Nation's Forest Acreage Large

Richmond, Va.—Virginia's forest area comprises 12,000,000 acres, according to a statistical survey compiled by Dr. Wilson Gee and J. J. Corson of the University of Virginia. Twenty states have a greater acreage in forest. Of these Oregon is first with 23,275,000 acres of her land area known as forest land.

THE MAN WHO VOLUNTEERS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I WAS in the hospital nursing an inflamed shoulder when Bert and George called on me to help make the hours pass a little more rapidly. I could read even though I was lying on my back, and there was one particular magazine which I very much desired. It was in the news stands, I knew, and probably would not be there very long.

MAN LIVES 34 YEARS FEARING MURDER CHARGE

Doubting He Could Prove Innocence, Returns Home to Find Charge Dropped.

Omaha, Neb.—After living for thirty-four years in fear, knowing that he was wanted for a murder in which he had no hand but of which he could not prove his innocence, John K. Van Ness, sixty, has just found himself a free man.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Ice Caves in Hungary In the ice cave of Dobosina in Hungary there is a large floor of ice the year around. Ice skating can be enjoyed during the warmest summer months. Its icy glittering walls and ceiling are a dazzling and beautiful sight. Also in Hungary is the beautiful stalactite cave so large one can spend hours exploring it.

Worked and Lived in Swamps

Van Ness worked and lived in seclusion in the swamps. Always he feared that he would be arrested. A few months ago, however, he decided to see the faces of his loved ones. He went to Omaha and was reunited with members of his family.

Pale? Losing Weight?

Connaught, Ohio.—"Thru over-work and exposure I had a general breakdown in health. My nerves were all upset, I had no appetite, I lost weight, grew very thin and pale and got so weak that for several weeks I was not able to do anything. I was so miserable. Upon the advice of a friend I started to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic and builder and the 'Pleasant Pellets' to regulate my liver and I was soon well and strong, eat, gained in weight and was once more enjoying perfect health."—Mrs. Chas. WOMEN IN BUSINESS

Washington.—Have you a daughter who must go to work this year? Will you like it if she has to work long hours each day, until she loses that healthy youth you have spent so many years building for her?

These are questions put to American mothers by Miss Mary Winslow, economic analyst and director of special studies for the women's bureau of the United States Department of Labor, who has completed a nation-wide study of the regulation of hours of work for women.

"Are you resting secure in the knowledge that your state has already said she shall not work longer than 48 hours a week, and that she shall not work at night at all?" asks Miss Winslow.

"Oh have you heard tales about that 48-hour law? Have you heard that it may keep her from getting any job at all, because employers don't want to have to stop work at the end of an eight-hour day?"

Debated by Thousands. Thousands of people throughout the United States have been discussing and debating the question of regulating women's work.

The largest of two opposing groups led by the working women themselves, including such organizations as the National Women's Trade Union League, the League of Women Voters, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Consumers' League, and the National Council of Catholic Women and the General Federation of Women's Clubs, believe in the necessity of regulation because, they say, women are largely unorganized and so more liable to exploitation than men.

The other group, much smaller but very active, has been led by the National Women's party, which is sponsoring the "equal rights amendment" in Washington.

According to Miss Winslow's findings, legislation to protect women workers in industry has not harmed them. With practically no exceptions, the few handicaps resulting from protective legislation have occurred only in a small number of special occupations—in which normally few women are employed—and in semiprofessional work, such as that of pharmacists, proofreaders, etc., where legislation is largely unnecessary, due to the more individual character of the work and to the greater training required.

"In the course of our investigation," she reports, "we were continually impressed by the fact that what is needed is not the abolition of existing or proposed laws, but the more careful rewriting of those laws. There is all the difference in the world between legislation that regulates the employment of women and that which prohibits it. Certain adaptations must be made in order to fit special cases. Laws need to be cut to the measure of the individual situations in the different states.

Find Women Necessary.

"The women's bureau study has at ready shown that women are necessary to industry and that reasonable legal standards for their employment do not bar them from industrial work. In fact, that the great majority of up-to-date employers realize the value of such standards and often exceed them in their own plans. Many of them approve such legislation because it largely does away with the cheap and unfair competition of unscrupulous employers."

The selection of Mary Winslow for this study came as a result of her own long experience with industrial problems. She was trained at the New York School of Social Work, and served first as a civil service appointee of New York city in the department of public charities.

During the war she was with the council of national defense in Washington, but after the armistice took the examination for the woman in industry service, which became the women's bureau in 1920. She is the author of ten of the bureau's publications.
