HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Notes Gathered During the week by Russell Christoff

The graduation exercises which were in the high school auditorium Tuesday afternoon were performed in a very pleasing manner. A musical program, presentation of medals and diplomas, and several talks filled out the program. A very large audience attended.
The Juniors and Sophomores were all eyes at the exercises on Tuesday afternoon. They'd bet'er start traveling now if they intend to better the record of this senior class.
All year I've wondered why Madhna Kinkadee never carried a hall clock around instead of that Inersoll of hers. It would be much more convenient. Why, Martha?
Elen and Jane Lowes visited friends in Jersey Shore over the week end.
Lillian Simpson and Cecelia Hritz were callers on friends in Hastings on Sunday night.
Rachel Elms spent Monday night in Moss Creek with friends.
At last Salor's dream has been fulfilled. Last Thursday he called upon—(five letter word meaning fluted) collected by bees from flowers—and he tells us he had the time of his life. He's going to call again sometime when he can stay longer.
Elvira Link reports that she will leave Patton next week and go to Trafalgar, Pa., where she will make her home. We're sorry to have you leave us, Elvira.
Margaret Dospoy intends to go to New York within a few weeks and become an opera singer. She's just wild about working for a telephone company.
Mary Sholtis and Catherine Somich visited friends in Johnstown Sunday afternoon.
The Seniors held a farewell party on Tuesday night in the local Gym. Card playing, square and round dancing and games featured the evening's program, and a very delicious light lunch was served at a late hour. An enjoyable evening was spent by all. Mary Homyak and Rosalia Bigos spent the week end with friends in Portage.
Honey Reed spent Tuesday afternoon with friends in Ebensburg.
Let's hope Huddle makes a gentleman out of Woody before he leaves our little city.
Teacher: "Harry Noonan, when I leave the room, you're the laziest person in here."
Issy Whiteford is madder than a wet hen because she had to take every final. Cheer up, Issy, you weren't the only one.
Louise McLaughlin and Huddle Albert were callers in Johnstown Saturday.
Say, Joe McAfee, let's see your new tie. You were going to celebrate, were you not?
Boots Cochran: "I was singing this little two-stanza song when someone threw this shoe through the window."
Judy Sticker: "Sing another stanza, the shoe is just my size."
Winka told me to mention her in the notes this week by all means. I wonder what cruel fate would have befallen me if I had forgotten. I would probably have to bury an adult's ticket to get in to see the show.
Will I see you at the Prom tonight?
Well, I guess its about time for me to sign off and give the readers of this column a little rest. Probably I owe the Scotch race in general and a few of the high school students apologies but I'll omit them here. Besides, you know, that all is fair in love and war; also in the high school notes.
In three months a new writer will be back again with more high school notes, and in the meantime let me wish you all a very happy vacation.
So long.

MANY DOG OWNERS ARE RISKING PROSECUTION
The Pennsylvania Bureau of Animal Industry report shows 3,113 dogs licensed in Cambria County up to April 1. Eleven prosecutions of dog owners for violating the state law were reported in the county to May 1.
Over 50,000 licenses were issued in the Commonwealth in March and more than 700 dog owners were prosecuted during April for their negligence.
Judging from the number of dogs licensed last year, more than 100,000 were still unlicensed on April 1. Like-wise, judging from the number of prosecutions last year, there will be 4,000 dog owners prosecuted during the remaining nine months of this year for neglect to obey the law.
Owners of dogs who have not taken out their licenses will find it much less expensive to pay the license fee than to later pay a fine and costs in addition to the license fee.

DINNER AT EBENSBURG FOR COLLEGE DRIVE
Several hundred alumni and friends of St. Francis' College, Loretto, are expected to attend the dinner to be held in the Fair Ground Pavilion at Ebensburg on Monday evening, May 28, at seven o'clock.
The affair will inaugurate the effort to raise this district's portion of the $200,000 endowment fund for the institution. Mr. Charles M. Schwab, general chairman, will be the principal speaker, Judge John H. McCann will be toastmaster, and a number of other prominent persons will occupy the speakers' table. A feature of the program will be singing by the College Glee Club.
More than 90 local men have been invited to the dinner and indications are that Patton will be represented by a good delegation. Dr. P. J. Kelly is the chairman of Patton.
The Ebensburg meeting is one of a series of four to be held in different parts of Pennsylvania. The first was held last Wednesday at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel in Philadelphia. Leading men from all parts of the Philadelphia district attended and among the guests were "Ty" Cobb and "Tris" Speaker of the Athletics.
In his address Mr. Schwab pointed out that St. Francis' College is now confronted with the biggest opportunity in its history. Persons and foundations are willing to aid the school, but before taking action request that the institution be cleared of debt.
It is for this purpose that the endowment drive is being conducted. When the $200,000 objective is reached, a building program will be commenced that will make St. Francis one of the best equipped small colleges in the United States.
In expending the college, Mr. Schwab said, it is not intended to make it a "big school." The advantage of close personal association between instructors and students possible only in the small college, will be retained and St. Francis will continue her precedent of providing education of high quality at low cost.
Present plans call for the addition of class room, science, library, and dormitory units to the plants and for extensive remodeling of the groups. Architecture and landscaping will be in keeping with the beautiful location of the school.

NAMES LLOYD.
Governor John S. Fisher has named Walter J. Lloyd, director of the bureau of employment of the Department of Industry, to represent Pennsylvania at the convention of the International Association of Public Employment Services to be held in Cleveland, September 18 to 21.

MOTOR PATROL WILL STOP FLOWER VANDALS

Destruction of wild flowers and of shrubbery along highways and in forests or wood lots by motorists is to be vigorously discouraged by the Highway patrol. Working in conjunction with the department of forests and Waters this organization will take an active part in curbing the practice of stripping blossoms and blooms as well as uprooting wild flowers, only to let them wilt in automobiles.
Early in the tourist season motorists are on the alert to warn motorists that they may enjoy, but must not destroy the flowers and plants which add to the beauty of hill and valley.
Motorists with fruit blossoms, or bouquets of flowering dog wood may expect to be stopped and questioned as to the source of their prizes, which often are discarded before reaching home.
The following should not be picked or disturbed: Arbutus, hepatica, lady slipper, yellow orchid, trillium, bluebells, yellow dog tooth violet, laurel, rhododendron, flowering dogwood fringed gentian, ferns.
