ROSSITER MINE INJUNCTION IS MADE PERMANENT ONE

Judge J. N. Langham's injunction in Indiana county against striking coal miners, which won nation wide attention because of a clause forbidding the strikers to sing certain kinds of hymns near the property where they worked has been made permanent.

The Indiana County Common Pleas Court reached a decision in favor of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Corporation, who petitioned for the permanent injunction replacing the temporary one. The hearing on the later phase of the case began May 10th.

The permanent injunction will restrain the miners at Rossiter, Pa., from various forms of strike activities, including the singing of strike songs at the little church.

Members of the subcommittee of the United States Senate Coal Investigating Committee visited the mines at Rossiter last February and joined in singing hymns.

The temporary injunction against the miners was granted by Judge Langham in favor of the coal corporation nearly a year ago.

NANTY-GLO IS HOST TO THE COUNTY VOLUNTEER FIREMEN

The Cambria County Volunteer Firemen's Association held its July meeting at Nanty-Glo last week. The meeting was called to order in the Firemen's hall by Francis Green, of Carrolltown. Acting President of the Association. There was a good attendance of delegates and visiting firemen from over the county, representatives being present from most of the 13 towns whose fire companies are included in the association.

Plans pertaining to the annual county convention to be held in South Fork on August 15 and 16 were discussed, and other matters of interest to the fire fighters were considered. The main address of the evening was made by K. A. Cooper of Gallitzin, a former president of the association, who discussed fire hazards, fire causes and fire prevention in a very interesting and helpful manner.

Secretary A. F. Baker reported on the plan of the State Firemen's Association paying death benefits to its members and suggested that some such plan could well be adopted by the county association. A committee was appointed to secure mortality figures and further details and report at the county convention next month.

A resolution was passed at the meeting to hold meetings of this nature once each month.
