Claude Lauver, Aged 30, in the Toils, Following Drinking Bout and a Gun.

Two women and a small girl are in Miners' hospital at Spangler as patients, and Claude Lauver, aged about 30, is under arrest and in the Ebensburg jail as the result of a shooting affray, which is said to have been the climax of a drinking party early Sunday morning at the home of Jack Murphy in East Carroll township, near here. Lauver, it is alleged, procured a 12-gauge shot gun when the party developed into a general fight and fired in the crowd from a distance of fifty yards.

In addition to the three victims in the Spangler hospital, four other persons in the crowd were slightly injured. Among the hospital victims is Lauver's wife, Mrs. Boy Lauver, aged 25 years, who was shot through the right eye, destroying the sight. The others in the hospital are Mrs. Clara Peters, aged 38, wounded in the abdomen, and June Smith, aged 8, wounded in the head and right shoulder. The three victims are all reported in a favorable condition.

FAIRBANKS DARING GAUCHO ON SCREEN

Doug Is Coming to the Grand, Patton, Next Week, for Three Days.

In Douglas Fairbanks' new picture, Douglas Fairbanks as The Gaucho, to be screened at the Grand theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, he has the most dashing part he ever played. A gaucho is a picturesque nineteenth century character little known to the States, and apparently destined to attract more than South America.

The scenes of Doug's plays have been veering southward; France, England, Arabia, Spain, the Antilles—and now the Pampas. The story has no definite locality but is laid in the Pampas region at large, making no pretense at historical accuracy, but using the picturesque environment as a background for romance.

Douglas Fairbanks as The Gaucho is a tale of treasure, combat, intrigue, and love, couched in the adventures of a bandit who crosses the Cordilleras with his riders to seize a city grown rich from the offerings of pilgrims to its sacred shrine. For the first time the star has two leading women, one a wild madcap, the other a saintly character. The production has a conflict of love interests, said to be much stronger than in any previous Fairbanks picture.

Under the instruction of real gauchos from Argentina, Fairbanks has become an adept with the boleros, which he uses in the picture as one of his many striking feats of prowess.

CAMP SHAFFER IS WONDERFUL PLACE

And the Patton Boy Scouts No Doubt Are Having the One Time of Their Lives.

It is a thousand pities that the father and mother of every boy under 16 in Patton and vicinity could not be conveyed to Camp Shaffer in Huntingdon county to look over the place where the Patton Boy Scouts are spending their vacation this year, leaving Tuesday of this week, and returning next Tuesday. There would never again be a better time to finance the Boy Scout Movement.

The only drawback connected with a visit to Camp Shaffer which is located on part of an abandoned farm along the banks of the Penn Central Light and Power Company's Saxon dam, is its inaccessibility. On the other hand, it is no drawback at all, but rather an asset. No use to describe the highways to Huntingdon; words cannot describe the roads from Huntingdon to the camp. To gain admittance to the camp it is necessary to cross the dam by boat.

These are provided. A dozen fine boats and canoes belong to the scouts and Blair and Bedford counties with whom our boys are engaged for the outing. There has also been provided a heavy freight boat, capable of hauling five tons, with attachable motor for cars, trucks, visitors and what not. Once at the camp all that trip through the catfish, down around Huntingdon's famous shelving rocks, up along the Rastown branch of the Juniata, past farms the owners could not give away and then emerging from the mist into the midst of one of the most beautiful places in the world, the entire world with a number of beautiful private cottages nicely nestled, nothing but the beautiful is remembered.

The scout camp site is wonderful. It lies on a slope which ends at the edge of the Saxon dam, eight miles long and filled with pure water. Here the boy scouts can swim, or boat, or fish. All the buildings overlook the dam. Nearest to it is the largest building, with a craft shop in the basement. The building was erected on the foundation of a bank barn which once stood there and could not have been more ideally located. Within convenient distance of it is a headquarters building used for offices for all the men in charge of camp life, dispensary, radio and general utility. Then there is a building for the camp director and their assistants. A dozen cottages with sleeping capacity of eight each, established in colonies of stockades of three.

The camp has been tried and re-graded from the other buildings. They are surrounded with young pines that have been trimmed. The shade is dense and the scent from the pine is healthful. The sanitary condition of the camp has been well cared for and water is provided from mountain streams, piped in, augmented by a well, recently dug.

In all, we'll bet the Patton Boy Scouts are having the time of their lives this week. The scoutmaster, F. L. Brown, can be seen in the camp all of the period, but will make an effort to be there as much as possible. Both the assistant scoutmasters, H. W. Flemming and Thos. Quinn, Jr., are there. The Patton boys who went down to camp on Tuesday are Herbert Kueser, Harold Blankfield, Roy Morgan, Howard Brown, John Blankenhorn, Richard Murray, Robert Green, James Corneilus, Fred Blankenhorn, Roy Gregg, John Bennett, Andrew Choby, Albert Crooks, Joe Timp, Albert Mayovich, Louis Smale, William Ratowsky, C. Dubillis, Earl Stoltz, Noel Coureaux, Robert Miller, Floyd Grant, Wesley Wilson, James Shannon, George Somerville, Earl Sunseri, Jack Fomadele, G. Kruse, William Gwynn and Frank Depto.

The visiting days are Wednesday, and Saturday afternoons, and all day on Sunday. Better go down to visit the boys and the camp next Sunday. You will enjoy it. The boys promise the Courier quite a letter next week.

PAUL WHITEMAN SOON AT SUNSET

"King of Jazz" Announced for Friday Evening of Next Week, August 17.

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra has been engaged to play a De Luxe one night dance engagement at Sunset Park on Friday evening of next week, August 17th, when the "King of Jazz" will be detained long enough on his limited tour to give the patrons a treat in the way of up to the minute popular dance music arranged and rendered in his own inimitable style.

Confident that they have secured the finest music of its kind in the world, the management of the Sunset Park Auditorium is preparing to entertain a capacity attendance of dancers and of music lovers.

The current tour of the Whiteman organization through Pennsylvania has been arranged to give the band's personal ample time to rest, bathe, shave and tog out in fresh clothes between engagements, thus assuring an aggregation always fit. Making long jumps by motor bus has been tried and then found wanting, and this form of transportation is being used only on short trips in New England.

"What is the future of jazz?" asks Paul Whiteman. "I wish I could tell you, but who can foretell the future of anything. So many people have asked the same question and I have always found it necessary to offer the same reply—the future of jazz depends entirely upon the American public. Just as long as they take it seriously, jazz will live."

"Jazz is distinctly American, and while still an infant, is growing into an energetic and healthy child. But like any other child it needs help and motherly attention. What other American form of music have we? You surely could not consider opera American and while our symphony music is absolutely immortal, there is nothing really American about that either and to go a step farther, there is nothing new behind the music in either the operatic or symphony fields. We have absolutely no quarrel with opera or symphony music, but if America is to have strictly American music, that music must be jazz. I personally think that we have done a great work in furthering the cause of jazz."

"During one of our one night stand outs throughout the country we played at an average of three hundred cities in a year. When we decided to tour the country in the interest of jazz, no good Samaritan offered us any financial assistance so we had to finance the tour ourselves which I am pleased to say proved very profitable. That in itself was quite convincing when you consider that every symphony orchestra is sponsored financially and that the great majority finish their seasons at a deficit."

COUNTY FAIR PLANS PROMISE VARIETIES

Just About Every Amusement and Diversion That Any One Could Desire.

A rollicking midway is more than half of any county fair and the Cambria county fair this year when it opens on Labor Day, will have one of the most novel and up to the minute midways that has been seen since the famous "Streets of Cairo" that made the Chicago Exposition's reputation 35 years ago. But this midway at the Cambria county fair will be without the oriental flavor that marked the great fair of the middle west. The backbone of the midway at Ebensburg will be supplied by Harry Copping, a nationally known outdoor exposition which travels in its own train of 15 railway cars, every inch of space in which is crammed with paraphernalia and other rides galore, but this is the most modern of them all.

An unusual exhibition that will attract much attention is an exhibition in water, the same equipment that was used recently by the U. S. divers from the U. S. S. Falcon, when they were working on the wreck of the ill-fated Submarine S-4. These men will show just how deep sea divers work at the bottom of the ocean and in the tank with them will be a living deep fish or giant squid, the dread of all divers. The squid octopus is the great fish with long tentacles that has often killed divers before they could get loose.

Another mid way attraction is a group of monkey automobile racing drivers. These animals have been trained to run in a speedway with little cars, with real gas engines and they get as much or more fun out of their own performance than do the spectators. It is said to be one of the most laughable shows on the road and is a cyclone of laughter from start to finish. A dog and pony show is one of the features that both the older folks and the children delight to see. The animals are well trained and are good to look at while they perform. There is the "House of Fun." There is so much hilarity from those who enter that it is hard to keep from "butting in" before there is room. The House of Fun is full of surprises for the visitor who often wonders whether he is walking on his feet or his head and runs into so many astonishing things without getting hurt that he cannot help leaping out yells of laughter. There are a score of other good shows, too.

SURPRISE PARTY AT HORNAUER RESIDENCE

A very pleasant surprise party was held recently in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hornauer who celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their home on Brewer avenue. The evening was spent in card playing and dancing. A musical program was also rendered.

A very delicious luncheon was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Lowes, Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Donohue, Pete Short, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dougherty, Mrs. Margaret Dumm, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fox, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lauer.

The out of town guests were Miss Anna Dumm of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Molline and children, Edith, Helen, John and Hobart, of Clearfield; Miss Grace Hornauer and Mrs. J. H. Bloom of Altoona; William and Herman Hornauer, Normal, Pa.; and Miss Bertha Grove, all of Pittsburgh.

STAPLE SWALLOWED BY A CRESSON CHILD FOUND

One of the most difficult operations for the removal of foreign objects from the throat that specialists at the Memorial hospital, Johnstown, have been called upon to handle, stamps an unusual case of Margaret McConnell, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Englebert McConnell, of Cresson, who is reported as resting well after having had the staples full featured. The foreign object, removed Friday from a part of the larynx structure.

Thursday, while playing at the parental home, the child swallowed the staple, according to the records, and when admitted to the hospital it was apparent that immediate steps would have to be taken to prevent her from suffocating, as her throat was swelled considerably. An operation was performed, the swelling reduced and danger of the passageway being choked was dispelled.

That a kind Providence prevented the staple from passing into her lungs was disclosed by an examination, which revealed that the staple was held fast in the tissues just between the epiglottis, the two points catching hold and causing the swelling.

Specialists started work on the case with the knowledge that operations for the removal of two pointed, u-shaped objects such as staples are regarded by leading men of the medical world as being of the most difficult character.

MRS. ELIZABETH WENTZ, OF CARROLLTOWN, EXPIRES

Mrs. Elizabeth Wentz, aged fifty-six years, wife of Rudolph Wentz, of Carrolltown, died at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday morning last at the Mercy hospital in Johnstown, where she had been admitted on July 30th.

The remains were brought to her late home in Carrolltown where funeral services were held with a solemn requiem high mass at nine o'clock on Tuesday morning in St. Benedict's Catholic church. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Wentz is survived by her husband and three children: Herbert, of Pittsburgh; Rudolph, of Carrolltown; Brian, Viola and Vera, at home; Mrs. Herman Houser, and Mrs. Philip Pellina, both of Johnstown; Mrs. Patrick Campbell, of Carrolltown, and Mrs. James Smith of Carver, Shee Alce Fultz, of Chest Springs. Also one sister, Mrs. Nelson Charles, of Chest Springs.

GAMES PLAYED IN CHURCH LEAGUE

A Summary of What Transpired in Local Baseball Circles During the Week.

Presbyterians vs. SS. Peter and Paul. The Presbyterians emerged from the losing streak Friday night in defeating SS. Peter and Paul by a score of 3 to 2. After the Presbyterians tallied twice in the first both sides remained scoreless until the fifth when SS. Peter and Paul tied things up. The winning run came in the last half of the seventh when Paterson's drive to deep right scored Whiteford from second. Paterson featured by pitching himself out of several deep holes.

The batteries: Presbyterians—Paterson and Brochi. SS. Peter and Paul—Tinic and Falatic.

SS. Peter and Paul vs. St. George's. In a hotly contested game SS. Peter and Paul and St. George's fought to a 3-3 tie before darkness ended the fray. St. George's took an early lead, and played in winning form until Tiniec's liner drove in two runs in the sixth inning. In the seventh their opponents tied the score, but were kept from winning by several close decisions called against them. Skordinsky, the regular pitcher for SS. Peter and Paul during the past year is back with the team, so clubs meeting them in the future will find the stiffest kind of opposition to overcome.

Batteries: SS. Peter and Paul—Skordinsky and Falatic. St. George's—Stasko and Hudak.

Methodists vs. Presbyterians. In a free hitting game the Methodists defeated the Presbyterians 10-6, the winners' big inning being the first when they scored five runs. The Presbyterians rallied in the sixth with the score 7-2, and scored 4 runs. Bailey's triple with the bases full featured. The Methodists came back to score three in the seventh to put the game on ice.

Batteries: Methodists—Wertz and Brumgart. Presbyterians—Paterson and Brochi.
