CLARA BOW STARS
IN CROOK STORY

Comes to the Grand Theatre in "Ladies of the Mob" on Monday, Tuesday.

A great many dramas of the underworld have been flashed upon the screen but it has taken Clara Bow, the queen of the flappers, to give the motion picture public the most stirring of all.

This Paramount star accomplishes this in "Ladies of the Mob," a thrilling story of gangsters and their loves, something which is rarely taken into consideration when the population is the weird phlegm of It is an entirely different Clara Bow who throws off the wiles of the flapper and plunges herself into a powerful portrayal of a terror stricken wife of a gangster. It is by far the heaviest bit of acting Miss Bow has attempted since the war in "Wings" and she proves conclusively that she can handle drama as well as the lighter roles which have made her so popular.

The story, which was written by Ernest Booth, is the tale of a young couple of the underworld, the husband a crook and the wife attempting at all times to keep him straight. The climax produces a thrill, when, caught and surrounded by police, Miss Bow takes the most drastic methods imagined to keep "her man" on the straight and narrow path.

Another interesting thing in the production is the weird photographic effects obtained by Henry Gerrard, cameraman, under the direction of William Wellman, youthful director, who made such a tremendous success in "Wings." This is his first effort with Miss Bow and Richard Arlen, leading men since the three worked together in filming the aviation epic.

A sound story, thrilling and exciting and well directed.
